STATE SCORES IN BOMB TRIAL WITH FUR GUN

Parts Used to Prepare Infernal Machine, to Be Claim.

DEVICE'S ADMISSION FOUGHT BY DEFENSE

Emmett Brady Swears He Gave It to Leroy, Accused Brother.

CLASHES OF COUNSEL FEATURE DAY SESSION

Bureau of Standards Men Identify Fragments of Hall Home Debris.

Arraying brother against brother, the State scored heavily yesterday in the Rockville, Md., murder trial of Leroy Brady, alleged coprincipal in the Seat Pleasant bomb outrage, which fatally injured three persons last New Year's Day.

The first definite strength shown by the State was given by Leroy's brother, Emmett, who took the stand to tell how he had given the defendant a self-firing fur gun, parts of which the State hopes to prove were used in the manufacture of the infernal machine sent to 18-year-old Naomi Hall Brady as a New Year's "gift."

The bomb killed Naomi, her small brother and sister, and wrecked the Hall home at Seat Pleasant.

Herman Brady, husband of Naomi, and brother of Leroy, will be tried in the fall.

Other Links in Chain.

Other links in the chain of circumstantial evidence that the State is attempting to throw around Leroy were developed at the night session, when employes of the garage where the defendant was employed testified that tubing similar to that used in the bomb's construction could have been obtained from the garage's stockroom.

William Clark, watchman at the garage, said Leroy had come to work early on the Saturday morning preceding the crime, but Floyd Knoddle, garage foreman, said that this was not unusual.

Arthur Bowis, a mechanic who identified the tubing as similar to that carried in the garage stockroom, added that such material could be secured at many other places.

In attempting to prove that a written statement signed by Herman Brady, shortly after his arrest, had been obtained under pressure, defense counsel asked Detective Lieut. Joseph H. Itzel, of Baltimore, if officers working on the case had not cursed and threatened the two brothers. The detective said that they had not.

"Wasn't Herman Brady locked in a room with his dead wife's bloody clothing?" he was asked.

"Absolutely not, so far as I know. We did not curse him, and we warned him that anything he might say would be used against him." The statement was not introduced as evidence.

Red Clay on Clothing.

Lieut. Itzel said that Leroy had red clay on his shoes and trousers when he was interrogated in the State's attorney's office shortly after the bomb explosion, and that he could give no definite explanation as to how it got there.

"After Herman signed his statement," he said, "I showed it to Leroy, who would not believe that his brother had signed it until we got them together, and Herman told him about it." The State asked what Leroy then said or did, but the defense's objection was sustained, and the question was not allowed.

Detective Sergt. Charles J. Schalter, of Baltimore, who assisted Lieut. Itzel

Inventor's Airship Lands in Treetops

Jenkins' Capital Television Expert, Forced Down in North Carolina.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 4.—C. Francis Jenkins, noted television inventor and president of the Jenkins Television Corporation of New York, with laboratories in Washington, experienced a narrow escape, together with his pilot, William Payne, yesterday when their plane made a forced landing because of motor trouble several miles from Milton, N. C., according to word received here today.

Neither was injured when the plane landed in the top of a group of pine trees while trying to make an open field nearby.

Mr. Jenkins continued by train to Washington while the pilot remained and began dismantling the plane preparatory to shipping it by rail to Washington. Mr. Jenkins had been to Greensboro, N. C., on business and was returning to Washington.

GRAF ALTERS PLANS BECAUSE OF STORM

Zeppelin Heads for Lisbon and May Skip Landing at Seville.

SPAIN SWEPT BY BLOW

Friedrichshafen, Germany, June 4 (A.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin notified the Zeppelin works here at 7 p. m., Eastern standard time, that she was not certain she would land at Seville because of bad weather, and was heading for Lisbon. If the airship did land at Seville, it was added, the landing would not be made before 6 p. m., tomorrow, Spanish time, or 1 p. m., Eastern standard time.

When the Zeppelin sent the message she gave her position as latitude 38.30 and longitude 18.30 west. That placed her about 450 miles east and slightly north of San Miguel, most eastward island of the Azores, and about 500 miles directly west of Lisbon.

Seville, Spain, June 4 (A.P.).—Stormy night descended upon Seville with the Graf Zeppelin plowing its way peacefully toward the Spanish Coast through fine weather conditions that promised to bring the returning dirigible to this city by daybreak.

Heavy rains swept most of Spain and the Mediterranean region tonight. The evil weather gave no signs of abating. It chilled a populace accustomed at this season to brilliant sunshine and balmy air.

Tidings from the Graf just at nightfall cheered official circles, where there had been anxiety. No previous message had come since midforenoon. It had been assumed that wireless communication was impossible because of the inclement weather.

The Infante Beatriz, wife of the Infante Don Alfonso, the king's cousin, who is in Seville to greet her husband, a passenger on the Zeppelin, had asked the government to inform her immediately of any news from the Graf.

The weather had caused virtual abandonment of plans for a rousing welcome at dawn to the homing airship. With continued pessimistic forecasts from the government weather bureau, it was believed possible that Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Frank Davis Sees Only Illness Ahead, So Suicide Is Plan.

Scornful of Religion, He Evolves Own Creed; Wills Farm Away.

By JAMES D. SECREST.
(Copyright, 1930, by The Washington Post Co.)

Danville, Va., June 4.—With much the same stoic philosophy that upheld Socrates as he drank his cup of hemlock, Frank Davis is calmly, even happily, awaiting death by self-imposed starvation in his rude farm shack about five miles out of this city. Having done without food for 23 days, he predicts that he will die Saturday, but a physician who examined him recently thinks he will probably last 35 or 40 days because of his rugged constitution.

Local authorities and ministers of the gospel are admittedly nonplussed. They can't decide whether to attempt to have him declared insane and placed in a hospital, where food might be forced into his system, or to permit him to have his way and die with all the fortitude of a Christian despite his agnosticism.

But Frank Davis is not insane; he is scarcely eccentric, unless it is eccentric to be a philosopher. Dr. S. E. Hughes, one of Danville's leading physicians, has found him to be perfectly sane, and one has but to talk quietly with Davis to be convinced of the logic of his decision to take his own life with the least effort and without being "messy."

He would certainly resist any attempt to make him change his plan, just as he has declined all offers of sustenance, and money. So his death would only be postponed for a few days if he were removed.

Reticent in talking about his past life before coming to Mountain Hill 27 years ago, Mr. Davis is of old New England stock, according to Dr. Hughes, who has known him for fifteen years. Although emaciated, his clear-cut features, his aquiline nose, his prominent forehead and his keen, penetrating eyes betray a heritage that is foreign to his present surroundings.

Born in Wisconsin of a staid Methodist family, he was moved in childhood to Iowa, where he attended the public schools and went for a year to a preparatory school at Tabor. He had intended to go through a university, but his mother, a widow, died

PAY RAISE BILL KEPT OUT OF CONFERENCE

Simmons Objection Blocks Action on Measure at House Session.

WILL BE TEST OF POWER

A single objection, made by Representative Robest G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, kept the House from sending the Capper-Zihlman bill to a Senate and House conference late yesterday.

The bill, which provides pay raises for Washington policemen and firemen, has been the subject of a bitter controversy with Mr. Simmons ranged against all 21 members of the House District committee.

The Senate voted to send the bill to conference early in the day, and did it in a fashion that showed it had little sympathy for the less liberal bill that Mr. Simmons forced on the House.

Once the bill goes into conference, it will be reshaped into something approximating the more liberal bill that it was in the beginning. Mr. Simmons knows that, and that is why he is fighting to keep it out of conference.

Had it not been so late when the bill came up in the House yesterday, there probably would have been a definite showdown on the question of sending the measure to conference.

The showdown probably will come today and the result will reveal just how much influence Mr. Simmons has in the House. When Representative Clarence McLeod (Republican), of Michigan, acting chairman of the House District committee, moved yesterday that the pay bill be sent to

SOLDIER FACES MURDER COUNT IN BAKER CASE

Brewster Removed From Army Cell on Civil Warrant.

RUSHED OFF TO JAIL IN ARLINGTON COUNTY

Papers for Formal Count Obtained by Gloth From Justice.

PRISONER APPEARS TO BE UNCONCERNED

Private Will Be Accorded Special Privileges, Jailer Says.

Apparently his only worries being his supply of cigarettes for the next few days, Private Howard L. Brewster was removed late yesterday from the Barracks of Headquarters Company, District of Washington, to the Arlington County Jail on a warrant formally charging him with the murder of Mary Baker.

Clean shaven and with a military crease in his uniform, Brewster asked and obtained permission to buy a carton of cigarettes from the post exchange before accompanying Sheriff Howard Fields, Commonwealth's Attorney William Gloth, of Arlington County, and Lieut. Edward Kelly, chief of the Washington homicide squad.

Discharge Was Pending.

Brewster, who early in May confessed to the slaying, but later recanted, had been examined by Army alienists and grilled by Federal, Virginia and District authorities until several days ago. His discharge from the Army was pending when Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth yesterday obtained the murder warrant which was issued by Trial Justice Harry R. Thomas. The presentation of the warrant to Capt. A. R. Bolling, at the Barracks, automatically released him from the guard room where he has been confined.

The wararnt which empowered the civil authorities to take Brewster in custody read as follows: "Howard L. Brewster did unlawfully and feloniously and with malace of aforethought kill and murder one Mary Baker on the night of April 11."

Surly Toward Protographers.

Brewster had been aware of the fact that he was to be removed from the baracks, but did not know that he was to be formally charged with the crime. He was in a happy mood at first but later became surly toward newspaper photographers, and swore at them as they took pictures.

Brewster was placed in his cell by Jailer Harry L. Woodyard. Commonwealth's Attorney Gloth said that he did not expect to requestion the prisoner for several days.

Sheriff Fields said last night that no plans have been made to call a special grand jury to hear the charges against Brewster and that it was unlikely the case would be submitted

Business in Washington

By WHITNEY LEARY,
President Washington Automotive Trade Association.

Business the first four months of 1930, compared with the same period in 1929, shows nationally a decrease in the sales of most commodities. This condition was to be expected and should not be altogether regretted. It has its advantages, stimulating the mental activity of the merchant, requiring him to eliminate waste from his organization and operate generally on a more efficient basis.

A careful guarding of good-will makes more satisfactory dealing for the public. The number of automobiles, both new and used, carried on hand by dealers has been watched closely and is in better proportion to sales volume than heretofore. I believe this condition will continue in the automobile business and will be a lasting improvement in its operation.

These periods of slowing down are necessary to our business life. They are our balance wheel, and assure us of continued prosperity. We in Washington are particularly fortunate in having practically nothing in our commercial structure to cause a depression other than the mental attitude of our public. Public opinion is all that is necessary to bring about these periods and to end them.

The recent tone of all business indicates that we are nearing the end of this readjustment period. Those that are selling merchandise having the approval of the public and operating their businesses on a sound basis have every reason to feel that they are entering a period of normal prosperity.

New York Heat Wave Sours Pies; 15 Sick

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—The hottest weather of the year was recorded in New York today with the thermometer reading 90 degrees at 4 p. m. Two deaths were attributed to the heat.

Soured cream pies caused the poisoning of fifteen persons throughout the city yesterday, first day of the heat wave, health authorities announced. Investigation revealed that all the victims ate pies obtained from the same bakery.

Six Detroit Arrests Linked With Counterfeiting Haul

New Secret Service Coup May Shed Light on Gang Warfare Outbreak.

Detroit, Mich., June 4 (A.P.).—The arrest here of six men on counterfeiting charges, following the arrest in New York of seven others and the seizure there of a printing plant and $900,000 worth of bogus $10, $20 and $50 bills, was announced here today as the culmination of nine months of investigation by the United States Secret Service.

A possible link between the alleged counterfeiters and the recent outbreak of gang warfare in Detroit was seen in the implication of Frank Salimoni as one of the counterfeiting ring. Salimoni was arraigned yesterday on a charge of slaying two suburban policemen early Sunday.

The investigation started when information was given the Secret Serv-

Land Ship Record Hangs on Check of Navy Man's Two Barographs.

If two barographs installed in his Wasp-powered Apache biplane verify its sensitive altimeter, Lieut. Apollo Soucek, Navy pilot, yesterday brought the world's altitude record for land planes back to the United States. Soaring to an indicated altitude of more than 42,000 feet over the Anacostia Naval Air Station, he believed that he had exceeded the present record of 41,794 feet by a great enough margin to bring home the record which was taken May 25, 1929, by Wiltie Neuenhofen, a German.

On May 8, 1929, Lieut. Soucek, flying the same plane with another Wasp engine, set a record of more than 39,000 feet, only to lose it the same month. Later he flew the same plane,

BISHOP JUST PAY-OFF MAN, BLAINE INSISTS

Witness Admits Preferring Cash in Virginia to Foil "Enemy."

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Caraway lobby committee yesterday approached an ignominous end. Defied by a battle-weary but elusive clergyman, Bishop James Cannon, jr., it did not know where to go, and was the target of those senators who many months ago predicted that it would come to no good purpose.

Two senators, Walsh, of Montana, and Blaine, of Wisconsin, fought valiantly to keep it out of the ill repute in which the Bishop was pitching it, but with its chairman, Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, stepping out from under it, and another member, Senator Robinson, of Indiana, laughingly boasting that he would not attend a committee meeting to make a quorum, they were with their backs against the wall. For the present it appears that they have nothing in mind to do than to meet again today and let the bishop continue to taunt them with his refusals to answer questions which he considers embarrassing.

Caraway's Act a Bomb.

They had intended yesterday to proceed with Bishop Cannon as senatorial committees have proceeded with recalcitrant witnesses in the past, but the first thing they saw when they woke up yesterday morning was a statement issued by Senator Caraway asserting that the bishop was absolutely right in his attitude and that he did not have to even appear before the committee if he did not want to. The first surprise which the Arkansas senator gave his fellow senators was when he found it necessary to return to his native State to make commencement addresses during the bishop's appearance. It had been Caraway who had first called the bishop to appear. But if this was a surprise, his statement issued in Arkansas siding with the bishop was more of one. It left Senator Walsh, whom Senator Caraway had asked to conduct the hearing, holding the bag.

Both Senator Walsh and Senator Blaine contend that the committee is absolutely within its authority in pursuing its investigation against Bishop Cannon. It was pointed out that Senator Caraway had subpoenaed the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment to appear and produce its papers when there has never been any suggestion that it lobbied within the generally accepted meaning of the term. The wet association attempts to elect wet candidates for office just as Bishop Cannon was trying to elect a dry one in the 1928 presidential race.

Rumor Tells of Pressure.

Surprise was occasioned by Senator Caraway's statement, too, by the fact that the committee investigator, John Holland, several weeks ago undertook an investigation of Bishop Cannon's activities and that the committee is now in possession of papers dealing with these activities as a result of this investigation. These papers even include those impounded in the Kabel bucket shop case in New York, in which the bishop figured. How a man outside the committee's jurisdiction can be thus investigated remains to be explained. The understanding at the Capitol, however, is that pressure was brought on Senator Caraway by

BILL LIMITING JURY TRIAL PASSES HOUSE

Measure Voted On After Day of Debate Marked by Attack on Graham.

LAST OF HOOVER LAWS

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission program to expedite justice and relieve congested Federal courts was approved yesterday by the House with the passage in a stormy session of the much controverted bill to permit United States commissioners to handle minor dry law violations without a jury.

Passage of the last of four proposals came late in a day filled with crisp debate.

The measure, known as the Christopherson bill, was the major legislation desired by President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell in the commission's program. On it hangs the effectiveness of the Stobbs bill to define misdemeanors under the Jones law, the Moore bill to authorize the waiver of right of trial by a jury and another Christopherson bill to define petty offenses under the United States code.

The entire program was radically

(Associated Press.)

Shortly after he had refused to tell the Senate lobby committee what disposition had been made of the $48,300 contributed by E. C. Jameson of New York for work in the 1928 Anti-Smith campaign, Bishop James Cannon, jr., last night issued a statement in which he presented an itemized distribution of the fund among the Virginia Congressional districts.

"I insisted then and insist now that this singling out of myself and of the Virginia Anti-Smith Democrats because we fought the wet Tammany candidate is a deliberate and intolerable infringement upon the rights of American citizens, and is a threat to independent citizens against the repetition of the independent action of 1928," he said.

His statement in full follows:

Dr. A. C. Miller, editor of the Arkansas Methodist, and who led the defense of Bishop Cannon at the recent Methodist convention in Dallas, Tex. Dr. Miller is said to be as much of a political boss in Arkansas as Bishop Cannon used to be in Virginia.

The expectation had been general that Cannon would not pursue his refusal to answer questions yesterday, but the Caraway statement undoubtedly emboldened him. With his stated declination to answer all questions relating to his "personal and political affairs" early in the hearing, the two senators proceeded for two hours to question him and record his refusals to answer.

Occasionally he broke his "rule," as he called it, and gave the committee answers, but he went back into his shell the minute Senator Blaine asked him about the $48,000 which E. O. Jameson testified that he contributed to Bishop Cannon for use in the 1928 campaign and for which no accounting has ever been made.

Admits Reason for Cash.

Senator Blaine indicated that the committee is proceeding on the theory that the $174,000 which Jameson testified he contributed, all told, for anti-Smith activities had really been directed to him by other Republican influences and that he had just been used as the pay-off man. He read a letter which Bishop Cannon wrote to Jameson in October, 1928, which Blaine insisted gave the plain inference that C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to former President Coolidge, had collected the money and turned it over to Jameson.

The letter from Cannon said that Slemp had given him three-fourths of his pledge but that the rest of the money was needed immediately. He said that he would call on Jameson in a few days and expressed the wish that Jameson would give him the remainder in cash.

Blaine asked him why he insisted on cash.

"You knew that there would be no way of tracing this money if it was delivered to you in cash?" he pressed.

"I knew the enemy in Virginia and I knew that if I paid workers in cash they would not be able to trace them," Cannon replied.

This was one time when Cannon broke his rule, insisting that he knew Mr. Jameson to be an "honorable" man and that if Mr. Slemp had passed the money on to him he knew nothing of it and did not believe it.

Blaine Prods Vainly.

Blaine pressed him as to why he did not want to tell what he did with the $48,000.

"Is there anything you are ashamed of?" Blaine asked. "Is there anything incriminating in it?"

"No, sir," Cannon insisted, "why don't you go into the expenditures of the Republican organization or the regular Democratic organization? Why am I singled out and nobody else? Why not ask the chairman of the Virginia Democratic State committee to come here and tell you how he spent his funds?"

Blaine replied "that the committee could only do one thing at the time."

Blaine also pressed the bishop about a $5,000 contribution which Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Morals, had given to him for sending out copies of the bishop's speech entitled "Repeal of Prohibition Unthinkable."

"Have you ever made an accounting to Dr. Wilson for this $5,000?" asked Blaine.

"No accounting was asked for," the bishop replied. "If any accounting is asked for I will try to make one."

At one time Blaine said:

"I am impressed with the fact that something is being hidden."

"I have no doubt that you and many others who believe as you do have such an impression," the bishop retorted.

"Yes," pursued Blaine, "and many other people, too, who do not believe as I do."

May Act on Floor.

One $5,000 contribution which the bishop received came from, according to the bishop's best recollection, the late W. T. Galliher, prominent local Republican.

Cannon is to reappear before the committee again today. Even should Walsh and Blaine decide to take action against Cannon for refusing to answer, they can do nothing until they get a quorum in attendance. Senator Robinson, an available member, gleefully admitted that he would stay away to prevent such a quorum and that furthermore he would not resign from the committee in order that it could replace him.

There is a possibility, however, of Senators Walsh and Blaine bringing the matter to the Senate floor in an effort to get some kind of action, possibly the replacement of Robinson. In the meantime the committee will continue to pile up declinations by the bishop and there may be some things which he may desire to explain.

CANNON ASSERTION RAPPED BY DANIELS

Former Secretary Declares Bishop Tried to Create False Impression.

RESENTS USE OF NAME

Raleigh, N. C., June 4 (A.P.).—Josephus Daniels, Raleigh, publisher and former Secretary of the Navy, made public today a letter which he addressed to United States Senator Thomas Walsh, member of the Senate lobby committee, protesting a statement of Bishop James Cannon, jr., before the committee.

Mr. Daniels' letter to Senator Walsh follows:

"The papers state that in his testimony before your committee yesterday Bishop Cannon read a report from the temperance committee of the general conference of the Methodist Church at Dallas, which he explained was submitted by its chairman, Hon. Josephus Daniels.'

"Nobody knows better than Bishop Cannon that in the committee on temperance I opposed the indorsement of that portion of the report approving his actions before it was reported to the conference. When the report was presented by me as chairman of the committee to the general conference I stated to the conference that I strongly dissented from a portion of the report and it was well known that my dissent was mainly to Bishop Cannon's actions.

"He also knows that, along with about one-third of the members of the conference, I went on record against his appointment on the temperance board on the ground that his engaging in bucket-shop gambling would be a severe blow to the cause of prohibition. It is also known that I and others filed charges against Bishop Cannon on bucket-shop transactions and that the committee on Episcopacy ordered a trial and that the trial was stayed only when he admitted his wrong, declared his repentance, promised never to do so again and asked for pardon.

"If Bishop Cannon had not used my name in his statements I would not feel called upon to say anything about the hearings before your committee. I can not, however, permit the record even inferentially to convey the impression that I approved the selection of Bishop Cannon, or of his actions."

said I would make a further statement to the press concerning the Jameson contributions and expenditures. At that hearing Wednesday morning, I testified that all the $48,300 was used in the Virginia Anti-Smith campaign, that the so-called 'gift' of $7,300 by Mr. Jameson was used to meet obligations incurred for printing, stationery, postage, &c., in the campaign.

"I refused, however, to admit the right of the committee to single me out and require a report from me concerning my activities and expenditures when it had called on no other person handling Mr. Jameson's contributions (?108,000 made to others besides myself) to make such a report, and had not called upon the Virginia State Democratic committee to make any report of its use of $107,000 to elect the wet candidate, Alfred E. Smith, or upon any of the other 95 State committees for such report.

"I insisted then, and insist now, that this signling out of myself and of the Virginia Anti-Smith Democrats because we fought the wet Tammany candidate is a deliberate, intolerable infringement upon the rights of American citizens, and is a threat to independent citizens against a reptition of the independent action of 1928. I denounce this effort to single out the work and expenditures of the Virginia State anti-Smith Democrats and the making a matter of public record the names and compensations of the speakers, leaders, organizers and workers, including many ministers in Virginia, who did legitimate work in the campaign, whose expenses were properly paid.

"The $48,300 contributed by Mr. Jameson used in the Virginia State campaign was applied as follows: General purposes of State work, including speakers, travel, automobiles, postage, &c. (round numbers), $16,000; for county and precinct organization, election day work; &c., First Congressional District, $2,000; Second, $4,500; Third, $6,500; Fourth, $2,200; Fifth, $4,000; Sixth $3,000; Seventh, $3,000; Eighth, $82,500; Ninth, $2,100; Tenth, $2,500; total, $48,300.

"Having labored nearly 40 years for the prohibition cause and having refused to accept any compensations whatever for my work, when I might have had at least $100,000, and having given all I have ever made to maintain a dry newspaper in Richdmond, I do not think persons whose opinions I value will believe that I used any of the $48,300 for my own personal profit, especially in view of the results secured by the expenditure of so small a sum compared with $107,000 reported as expended by the Virginia State Democratic committee to elect a wet Tammany candidate."

SENATE TO APPROVE PACT, HOOVER HEARS

Allen and Vandenberg Aver Prompt Ratification Is Sure to Follow.

LEADERS' VIEWS DIFFER

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover yesterday received assurances from two active administration leaders in the Senate that the White House will succeed in forcing the Senate to ratify the London naval treaty within a few weeks after the calling of a special session. Senator Allen and Senator Vandenberg were the two advocates of a determined policy of speedy action who conferred with the President at the White House.

According to reports reaching the Senate after the conference, there is a striking contrast between the program of action suggested by the new leaders and the more cautious program which Senators Watson and Moses suggested to the President on Tuesday.

Neither Mr. Watson nor Mr. Moses nor Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, is giving satisfactory evidence of a readiness to press for early action, according to the viewpoint of those who advocate a new brand of leadership for the coming treaty battle.

Watson Frowns on Session.

Senator Watson has doubted the wisdom of the proposed special session since the idea was first suggested. Senator Moses has frankly told the President that senators are already feeling the strain and will be in need of a respite when the present session disposes of its legislative business. Senator Borah is ready and willing to undertake the task of disposing of the treaty without delay and sees no reason for prolonged debate after the pact is thoroughly understood. But Mr. Borah has shown no inclination to follow directions in carrying out any prearranged program.

It is assumed now that a new brand of leadership will aim to supply the deficiencies believed to exist in the preliminary management of the treaty fight. Those senators actively leading in the drive for speedy action will remain in daily touch with the White House and the State Department and will be expected to demonstrate an enthusiastic brand of leadership rather than a lukewarm passive demonstration.

Several major mistakes have already been made in the treaty fight, according to the consensus of the new leaders. Public hearings before the foreign relations committee and the naval affairs committee have proved embarrassing and could easily have been avoided, it is suggested, if Senator Borah had sought the advice of Secretary Stimson before deciding upon public hearings.

Stimson Held Embarrassed.

The foreign relations committee's call upon Secretary Stimson is proving another embarrassing complication. Here, too, it is suggested, Senator Borah could have prevented the requests of Senator Hiram Johnson for confidential information from being approved by the committee. Had Mr. Borah sought guidance from Secretary Stimson, before approving the Johnson demands, there might have been considerable saving of time, it is further suggested.

Secretary Stimson returned to his desk yesterday and found awaiting him two special requests from the foreign relations committee for confidential information respecting the treaty. Acting Secretary Cotton said yesterday that the request of Senator Moses for the diplomatic correspondence between the government of Great Britain, the Government of the United States, &c., respecting the Geneva conference of 1927 could probably not be complied with, because of the impracticability of supplying such data.

Mr. Cotton explained that the matter would be handled by Mr. Stimson, but he ventured the opinion that requests from both Senator Johnson and Senator Moses could not be complied with in so far as they call for all documents between certain dates, without naming specific documents desired.

Ship Contracts Await Ratification of Treaty

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Adams said yesterday that no contracts would be let for naval construction authorized by Congress until the Senate had passed on the London naval treaty.

Affected by this policy are two 10,000-ton cruisers, three submarines and a new aircraft carrier.

Under the present congressional authorization the second five the fifteen-cruiser program should be contracted for and laid down within the present fiscal year, but under the London treaty this group would be distributed so that only two would be undertaken this year.

The treaty does away entirely with the third five, which would have been contracted for next year. Congress provided that each alternate cruiser be built in a private yard, so that under treaty terms only one would be given to a private contractor this year.

Gas Poisoning Victim Succumbs in Hospital

William D. Barbor, 73 years old, of Twelfth street northeast near C street, died at 6:50 o'clock last night in Casualty Hospital, the result of gas poisoning received May 27 when he was found unconscious in his home.

Police said that at the time Barbor was found, he had been suffering from despondency. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt was notified and is investigating the case.

WET REFERENDUM FOR PENNSYLVANIA

DRY STAND BY G. O. P.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania's election of a United States senator and governor in November was transformed today into an informal referendum on the wet and dry issue with the adoption by the Democratic State committee of a prohibition repeal platform.

The committee without a dissenting vote and amid cheers and applause instructed the party's candidates for the two offices to advocate repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the Volstead act and the Snyder-Armstrong State enforcement act. The nominees, Sedgwick Kistler, of Lockhaven, and John M. Hemphill, Westchester, for senator and governor, respectively, pledged themselves to the platform.

Both Republican nominees, James J. Davis and Gifford Pinchot, are committed to dry enforcement.

Both Kistler and Hemphill launded the platform and said they were glad to run their campaign on such a stand.

Hemphill said the biggest issue before the voters is "State's rights" and said it was not fair to label the two opposing forces on prohibition as "wets and drys."

"Our fight," he said, "is not a question of appetite but the old, sound and hereditary doctrine of democracy, that is State's rights."

COUNTERFEIT HAUL LINKED IN ARRESTS

ice that John Bitoni, a Dearborn blind pig operator, was head of the ring here. Frank Tocco, of Lincoln Park, Detroit suburb, is said to have been the go-between for the Detroit and New York groups. Bitoni is alleged to have agreed to sell $50,000 worth of counterfeit money to two operatives. Dominick Castanza came from New York to make arrangements. Castanza, Bitoni, Tocco and one of the operatives went to New York several weeks ago to complete the deal. The New York printing plant was raided a week ago. The arrests of the men here followed. Philip L. Belfer, of Ecorse, is held as the man who introduced the operatives to Salimoni.

Tocco, Bitoni and Castanza will be sent to New York for prosecution. Salimoni will be left here pending the outcome of the homicide charge against him. Two other men were arrested this afternoon for investigation.

THRONG SEES RITES FOR FIRE'S VICTIMS

Mrs. Moxley and Children Laid to Rest in Single Grave at Damascus.

SHOWFOLK PAY EXPESE

More than 1,000 sorrowing friends and relatives watched in solemn silence yesterday as the charred bodies of Mrs. Katie Moxley and her five children, killed in the fire which destroyed their home at Glen Echo early Sunday, were laid side by side in a single grave in the shady little cemetery adjoining Montgomery Chapel at Damascus, Md.

Weeping without restraint, William Moxley, husband and father of the victims, himself badly burned, stood at the side of the grave with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Martha Glover, of Purdum, Md., as the three caskets sank from view, taking with them all that remained of his once happy family.

There is an international tradition among outdoor showfolk that one of their forces must never be permitted to be in want as the result of any emergency. This tradition was revived yesterday, for the funds to provide for the funeral and for the immediate needs of Mr. Moxley, who lost everything in the fire, were contributed by concessionnaires at Glen Echo Park, where Mr. Moxley had been employed.

While relatives and intimate friends filled the little chapel to its doors, hundreds of mourners stood outside the church as funeral services were read by the Rev. B. F. Bryan, of the Ridgeville Episcopal Church; the Rev. M. M. Perkins, of Washington Cathedral, and the Rev. E. E. Coleman, rector of the chapel.

Osborne Joins Race To Succeed Couzens

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., June 4 (A.P.).—Chase S. Osborne, former governor, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Michigan.

"I am a candidate for United States Senator in Michigan to succeed James Couzens," the former governor announced. "As I see it, the Nation cannot endure unless women and men, who have fitness and taste for filling public positions, offer themselves."

A. A. A. Asks $100,000 For Salesman's Injuries

The American Automobile Association filed two suits yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court seeking to recover $100,000 damages from Fred P. Hass and Frederick M. Hass, of 3005 Twenty-sixth street northeast, and Otto Nielson, of Newport News, Va., as the result of an automobile accident in which Emmet Rudd, an association salesman, is alleged to have been injured. One of the suits is directed against Frederick M. Hass as owner of the vehicle and against the other Hass as the driver of the vehicle. The other suit is directed against Nielson, who is alleged to have been operating the other machine which figured in the accident.

According to the bill the machines operated by Nielson and young Hass collided in such a manner as to cause Rudd serious injury.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5 p. m. to noon today.

Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, raised a poinf of order against the watch and clock duties in the tariff bill conference report. Ruling was deferred until today.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., appeared before the lobby committee and again refused to answer questions concerning his anti-Smith activities in 1928.

Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, asserted that "Protestant preachers are being subjected to humiliating cross-examination" by the lobby committee, after calling attention to the questioning of Bishop Cannon.

Confirmed the following nominations: Edward F. Feely, of Washington, to be Minister to Bolivia; Joseph L. Crupper to be collector of customs at Norfolk, Va.; Frank T. Newton to be United States marshal for the Eastern District of Michigan, and Frederick C. Schneider to be United States marshal for New Jersey.

Senator Heflin, in a prepared statement, called upon Chairman Pettus, of the Democratic State committee of Alabama, to call another meeting and reconsider its action in barring him from the Democratic ballot because of his failure to support Alfred E. Smith.

W. C. Campbell appeared before the agriculture committee and denied that the Agriculture Department had allowed any discrimination among imports of ergot, a drug widely used in obstetrics.

Sent the House bill, to raise pay of Washington police and firemen, to conference.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 7:20 p. m. to noon today.

By a vote of 218 to 117, passed and sent to the Senate the Christopherson bill to authorize summary prosecution of minor prohibition violators before United States commissioners.

Special committee to investigate activities of Communists decided to summon witnesses from the Justice and Labor Departments for testimony next Wednesday.

Lieut. Comdr. Charles E. Rosendahl appeared before the naval committee and emphasized the greater adaptability for wartime expansion purposes of the Sunnyvale site on the San Francisco Bay as opposed to the Camp Kearny site in the San Diego area for the Navy's proposed $5,000,000 dirigible base.

Representative Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, objected to sending the police and firemen pay bill to conference.

Elections committee postponed the investigation of charges alleged to have been made against congressmen by Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas.

Passed and sent to the President bills for two additional Federal judges, one for the Third Judicial Circuit, including Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, and the other for the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, including the Southern and Southeastern States.

TARIFF CONFERENCE REPORT IS SHELVED

Measure Covering Flexible Clause Makes Way for Rate Change Bill.

CURTIS TO RULE TODAY

(Associated Press.)

In order to expedite final action the Senate yesterday laid aside temporarily one conference report on the tariff bill covering the flexible provision and lumber duty so that disposition could be made of Democratic points of order against the other report embracing most rate changes.

Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, immediately moved to return the measure to conference on the ground that conferees went beyond their powers in rewriting the Senate and House rates on watches. Vice President Curtis deferred a ruling until today when another point of order will be made against the cherry levies.

Meanwhile, President Hoover was represented at the White House as holding an open mind on the legislation. Denial was made in his behalf that elimination of the debenture amendment and agreement upon a flexible provision more to his liking were sufficient inducements for him to sign the bill.

Attitude of President.

If the measure comes to him, it was said, it would be studied closely by the executive with the aid of experts and sent through the regular routine of investigation by various departments interested.

The decision to lay aside the flexible provision report came after Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, again had failed with an unanimous consent request that a vote be taken upon it at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Senator Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, objected, urging instead that points of order against the big rate report be dispensed with first with a view to saving time and in order that the two reports might be voted upon without any intervening debate. Althought this was not at first agreeable to Senator Smoot, he accepted the arrangement after conferring with Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee.

Tensity Is Apparent.

Upholding of any opposition points of order would return the bill to conference for the fourth time and leave the situation considerably muddled. The House, having approved the first report, would have to reappoint conferees, and Republican leaders face the prospect of Democratic points of order there.

The tensity of the situation because of prospective close final votes in the Senate was demonstrated yesterday when Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, inquired of Republican leaders if they were prepared to arrange pairs for absent Democrats. Both Mr. Smoot and Mr. Watson, of Indiana, majority leader, replied they were not ready to discuss such an arrangement, indicating that they want every vote they can possibly get.

Arguing his points of order, Senator Barkley, who succeeded once in returning the measure to conference with a resultant revision of the flexible clause much more to the satisfaction of administration leaders, contended that conferees changed the language pertaining to watches so as to transfer timepieces not intended for wear on the person to the clock paragraph at higher duties.

Argument by Barkley.

He also argued that another change in conference increased the rate on jewels from 10 per cent, as provided in both Senate and House bills, to 20 cents apiece or about 2,000 per cent.

Senator Smoot disputed the points and Vice President Curtis said he would study them before making a ruling.

Only one speech was made on the bill itself during the day, Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, denouncing conferees for eliminating the debenture and flexible clause taking away presidential authority over rates and his own amendments providing for a consumer's counsel on the tariff commission and for alternating chairmanship of the commission between Democratic and Republican members.

Senator George Speaks.

Statements by Republican leaders that with the new flexible provision the President could correct any inequities of the pending bill when it went into effect were described by the Georgian as a "direct challenge to the integrity of the President."

Mr. Hoover is now going to approve a measure which he doesn't like and without raising his voice," Mr. George asserted, "on the theory that he will have power under the law to correct any mistake in the bill."

He said the debenture plan of farm relief was sound and that the "whole effort of the conference and administration is to make of this bill a purely partisan measure."

Georgetown Center Plans Spring Program

The annual spring program of Georgetown Community Center and that of Macfarland Community Center will take place at Gordon Junior High School Building, Thirty-fifth and T streets northwest, Friday evening of this week, June 6, at 8 o'clock, under the supervision of Mrs. A. L. Irving. Dance features are to be given by young people at Georgetown Center under the direction of Marjorie Shuster, with Eleanor Ryer as accompanist; and a play, "The Pig Prince," will be presented by children of Macfarland Center, under the direction of Donna Taggart, with Harold Snyder in charge of settings and lighting for the entire program.

Frances Rand, of Burleith Center, will speak the prologue for "The Pig Prince" in which the following will take part: Mae Weyrich, Marcia Amanuel, Lois Boorman, Catherine Cronenberg, Mary Jane Fox, Blanche Barush, Arline Wagner, Adelaide Norwood, Mary Frances Blackburn, Helen Kolimeyer, Ellin Ryan and Floria Fox.

Girl Who Killed Woman Acquitted in 20 Minutes

Pineville, Ky., June 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ruth Robinson, 19-year-old slayer of Mrs. Sophia Patick Masingale, was freed by a Bell County jury today after it had deliberated less than 20 minutes.

Mrs. Robinson shot and killed Mrs. Massingale at Cary, a mining camp near here. She claimed Mrs. Massingale alienated the affections of her husband.

FUR GUN ADMITTED IN BRADY BOMB CASE

in working up most of the State's evidence, identified the auto license tags allegedly found in Leroy's home, and briefly described the effects of the bomb on the Hall kitchen.

Objections by Defense.

The fur gun was introduced as evidence over strenuous objections of defense counsel. Several bomb fragments found in the Hall home, a can of powder and a number of percussion caps allegedly found in Emmett Brady's home at Mitchellsville, Md., were also admitted as evidence over defense objections.

Under questioning by J. Wilson Ryon, special assistant to State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, Emmett admitted that Leroy had removed the steel trigger mechanism of the gun, substituting one of brass. He said that Leroy had done this to prevent the trigger from rusting when the gun was set out in the open.

He said that Leroy had visited his home in the week preceding the crime. The powder, he said, had been standing in the tool shed for five years, and had been used for log blasting.

Emmett added that Herman Brady had secured the powder from Lloyd Simmons, who lives near the Brady home.

Tilts Feature Trial.

The trial was frequently interrupted by bitter tilts between opposing counsel, the State emerging victorious in practically all major questions of law. Following Emmett's long examination court recessed until 7:30 last night when the first of night sessions will be held.

The courtroom was crowded and many stood in the halls.

During the morning and early afternoon sessions, the State marshaled a long list of experts from the Bureau of Standards and others who had seen bomb fragments taken from the debris of the Hall home.

Many Experts Called.

Among experts called in connection with the exposition of bomb fragments were Dr. Henry S. Rawdon, Henry O. Willier, Dr. Gustave E. F. Lundell and Dr. E. C. Grossbeck, all of the Bureau of Standards.

Mr. Willier scored a point for the defense when he told the court that the condition of the metal fragments could have been caused by striking them with a hammer as well as by an explosion.

Others who identified the fragments as those taken from the Hall home were Herman Schmidt, 14 years old, of Maryland Park; Henry Ely, 15 years old, of Maryland Park; Martin Weir, 15 years old, of Capitol Heights; Ivan Johnson, Augustus Chinn and Harold B. Rodgers, James A. Fox, newspaper man, and Detective Sergt. John H. Fowler, of this city.

Doctor Describes Body.

Dr. James Boyd, of Forestville, Md., described the mangled condition of Naomi's body.

John F. Hall, father of Naomi, said that Herman Brady was a frequent visitor in his home, having started courting Naomi when she was 15 years old. Mr. Hall was working at Mount Olivet Cemetery on the day of the explosion.

"I rushed home to find my kitchen a shambles, with pieces of flesh on the walls and ceiling and blood all over the room," he said, adding that Herman had come to the house and discussed funeral arrangements with him and that both Herman and Leroy attended the funeral.

Marriage Documents Shown.

The prosecution introduced a marriage license and certificate of marriage bearing the names of Naomi and Herman dated September 14, 1929. The certificate was issued in Fairfax County, Va.

Norris Hall, brother of Naomi, was excused temporarily when defense objected to the line of questioning followed by the prosecution.

Frank P. Prince, Prince Georges County policeman, who visited the Hall home shortly after the explosion, told of finding parts of the bomb in the debris and described the location of the home.

Defense counsel asked Prince if Leroy had not voluntarily come to the sheriff's office in Prince Georges County several days after the explosion. Prince said he had come by himself but was sent for.

Seven-year-old Thomas Hall, who was injured in the explosion, told how his sister had opened the package addressed to her with the remark, "It must be candy." Miss Esther Jones, sister-in-law of Leroy Brady, and who lives at his home, said that Herman and Naomi had visited Leroy's home on the Saturday preceding the explosion.

She said that Leroy spent the entire evening at home with the exception of 15 minutes on the night of the visit. "He told me that he was going hunting with Herman on the following day."

She said that Herman and Naomi had also visited Leroy on Christmas Day, when Naomi asked her, "If any body had been talking about me." Miss Jones, said she answered "Yes."

Joseph M. Trossback, a farmer of St. Mary's County, said that Herman and Leroy came to his home on December 29, between 7 and 7:30 a. m. on a hunting trip. He added that Leroy had come there to hunt on several occasions.

Sutherland Betrothal Announced.

Elkins, W. Va., June 4 (A.P.).—Allen Property Custodian and Mrs. Howard W. Sutherland today announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to Paul Mayor, a former member of the diplomatic service, now on the faculty of Denver University.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BODY DECRIES "GAG" RULE

Resolution Urges Freedom to Present Conclusions on Questions.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Further impetus was given the proposal to abolish the "gag rule" imposed on District teachers by the Board of Education when the District Public School Association last night decried the policy.

In a resolution passed by the group the opinion was voiced that the interests of the schools required freedom on the part of teachers to present their conclusions to the Board of Education or to congressional committees on any school question.

Hit Gag Rule.

Indorsement was given to the bill which aims to prohibit the Board of Education from adopting any rule which denies the right to teachers to discuss school matters in conference or to petition Congress on their own behalf.

Presentation of the resolution was occasioned by the demand of the Board of Education upon five teachers to explain their action in offering testimony at committee hearings.

Herbert S. Wood was reelected president of the association for the year. Other officers chosen are: John T. Thomas, Mrs. Daniel Murray, Mrs. N. E. McIndoo, James S. Carpenter, vice presidents; Mrs. David S. Morris, recording secretary; Mrs. Grace E. McGrath, corresponding secretary, and William J. Tucker, treasurer.

Chairmen Are Named

Committee chairmen appointed for the coming year are: Mrs. H. M. Phillips, community centers; Mrs. E. C. Rittue, membership; Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, school expansion; George A. Warren, school personnel; Mrs. Earl Smith, recreation; F. P. Stelzer, schoolhouse planning; James G. Yaden, legislation; Mrs. G. S. Rafter, health and sanitation, and Mrs. Fred T. Dubois, educational methods.

The association also approved the movement for the establishment of branch libraries in the Georgetown and Petworth sections. It was the last meeting of the school year.

10 OF 13 INSANE MEN WHO FLED CAPTURED

Searcher Narrowly Escapes Bullet of Woman Who Thinks Him Inmate.

TRIO HELD DANGEROUS

Ionia, Mich., June 4 (A.P.).—Ten of the thirteen criminally insane inmates of the Michigan State Hospital here who forced their way to freedom early Tuesday were once more in custody tonight as posses directed their efforts to recapturing the three still at large.

The three men who are still at large are Roy A. Wynkoop, Henry Vaden and Gerald Badgley. Sheriff's officers believe they may have stolen an automobile during the night and escaped from this section of the State. Approximately 150 men made up today's searching parties.

Among the recapture inmates is Joseph Dabajak, leader of the escape plot.

Farmers in Ionia County continued to keep a lookout for the fugitives today. Deputy Sheriff Edward Good narrowly escaped being the victim of one alert farmer's wife who fired on him when she mistook his party for a group of the escaped inmates.

Information came to Sheriff Franch today that a large maroon automobile had been seen cruising near the hospital shortly before the escape yesterday. The informant told the sheriff that the car was driven by a friend of the leader in the delivery.

Vaden, one of the uncaptured fugitives, is a slayer. He is believed to have been the man who assisted Dabajak in the escape plot. Wynkoop created a near panic in a Detroit courtroom in 1929 when he confronted Judge Fred S. Lamb, of Cadillac, with two pistols. Badgley also is considered a dangerous character.

Double Contributor Wrangles in Church

Charles Brown, colored, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of disturbing a church service and hardly had he been freed from that charge when it was discovered that the man had fled a $500 bond for jury trial on a charge of assault. Brown is alleged to have disturbed church services at the House of Prayer, Holiness Church, Sixth and M streets northwest, last Sunday night. Testimony was to the effect that Brown had used offensive language in church, and that when Joseph Jones, a deacon, sought to remove him there was a wrangle in which the church officer was bitten.

Brown made a good plea to the court, but Judge Gus A. Schuldt refused to accept it as extenuating circumstances. Brown even told the court that he had paid two collections in the plate.

BREWSTER ENTERS COUNTY JAIL

Howard L. Brewster, Army private, entering the Arlington County jail yesterday upon being charged with the murder of Mary Baker, Sheriff Howard Fields is shown escorting him.

FORMAL MURDER CHARGES FACE SOLDIER IN BAKER CASE

to the June term of court which convenes June 16.

Brewster will not be treated like prisoners charged with serious offenses usually are, Jailer Woodyard let it be known. He said the prisoner will be given the freedom of the corridor of the second-floor tier of cells and will only be locked up in the cell at night. The prisoner has made to attempt to gain freedom. He has not consulted with a lawyer and has not asked the authorities to get one for him.

Told of Beating Woman.

In his confessions Brewster made one significant statement which police are attempting to run down. That was that on the afternoon of April 11, he beat up a woman at Seventeenth and B streets northwest. He maintained the truth of this angle after repeatedly denying that the woman was Miss Baker.

Miss Baker was last seen alive at the intersection by three pedestrians, who reported having seen the Navy Department clerk's auto with a man and woman struggling inside.

A statement declaring Brewster sane was issued yesterday at Third Corps headquarters, and was as follows:

"The board of medical officers which examined Private Brewster held him under observation from May 20 to May 28 and found he was of sane mind and was susceptible to ordinary human motives and appreciation of right from wrong and has normal control of his actions, but was of low mental development."

SIMMONS PREVENTS PAY BILL FROM GOING TO CONFERENCE

conference, Representative Simmons arose and objected.

As the rules required unanimous consent, this lone objection was all that was needed to block action. Mr. McLeod was ready with a resolution to provide for sending the measure to conference, but the hour was so late that this went over to today. The resolution will require a majority vote, and Mr. McLeod says, he will get this with votes to spare.

If the resolution is adopted, that in itself will show that the House has turned against Mr. Simmons. If the conferees are appointed, Mr. Simmons is expected to move that they be instructed to insist on his amendments. Here the House again will be called on to decide between Mr. Simmons and the 21 members of the House District committee, which 21 members are decidedly opposed to his amendments.

Senate Conferees Named.

After the Senate had voted to send the bill to conference yesterday, Vice President Curtis appointed five members of the Senate District committee as conferees. They are Senators Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman; Jones (Republican) of Washington; Robsion (Republican), of Kentucky; Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, and Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

All but Senator Jones are opposed to the House, or Simmons, amendments.

Contrary to the general belief, Speaker Longworth will not be obliged to appoint only members of the District committee as House conferees on the bill. True, that would be the natural thing to do, but there is no rule to prevent the appointment of Mr. Simmons if the speaker wanted to appoint him.

Will Be Up to House.

The presence of Mr. Simmons on the conference committee, however, would not prevent the scrapping of his amendments. It wouldn't, that is, unless the other conferees should be men who feel as he does. That the Speaker would appoint such men is inconceivable to those on Capitol Hill.

Thus, the prospect is that the bill will come back to the House in the form that the House District committee wants it to come back, and then it will be up to the House to side either with the committee or with Mr. Simmons.

Mr. Simmons had his own way when the bill came before the House because he threatened to filibuster against it, but such a threat will avail him little after the bill comes back from conference, for a conference report is a privileged matter and offers no opportunity for a real filibuster.

Hence, Mr. Simmons' only hope would be to deliver a speech and try to win the House over to his side.

Phipps Favors Amendments.

When Senator Capper asked that the bill be sent to conference yesterday, Senatof Phipps (Republican), of Colorado, objected. Only two senators sided with him, however, Senators Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, and Metcalf (Republican), of Rhode Island.

Senator Phipps said that he wished the Senate would approve the House bill so that it might go directly to the President, and so that the police and firemen could be assured of their raises.

"If this bill goes to conference," he said, "I warn the Senate that the chances are it won't pass at this session of Congress."

Senator Phipps said that he wanted to see the bill become a law because he believed that the men should have more pay. At the same time, however, he expressed the belief that the House amendments ought to be adopted.

Stresses Retirement Amendments.

He particularly stressed the need of the two amendments dealing with retirement. One of these would increase the retirement contribution from 2½ to 3½ per cent of the employe's salary; the other would kill the language in the bill which bases the annuities of men already retired on the new salary schedules.

There are now on the retired list, he said, three men who served as superintendent of police. They now get a pension of $2,600 a year. Under the original Capper-Zihlman bill, he said, they would get a pension of $4,000 a year. He felt that this ought to be changed.

With regard to the proposal to increase the retirement contribution, Senator Phipps said that the policemen and firemen ought to pay the same amount as school teachers and others in the District service.

Senator Capper and Senator Robsion argued that the taxpayers here wanted the bill passed in its original form, and that their representatives had so stated at a public hearing.

Dean Named for Capital College Being Planned

Philadelphia, June 4 (A.P.).—Miss Jessie Turman, a Philadelphian, now coprincipal of the Hillside School, Norwalk, Conn., has been chosen for dean of women at the proposed Grace Lutheran College for Women, to be established in Washington, D. C.

The Rev. Dr. Frank M. Urich, a member of the board of directors of the new school, made the announcement at today's session of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium. Mr Urich said that $1,600,000 would be needed for the founding of the school. It is to be supported jointly by eight synods.

CONFERENCE ADOPTS AUTO MILEAGE CODE

Session of Group on Weights and Measures Is Slated to Close Tomorrow.

JULIUS KLEIN SPEAKER

A tentative code of specifications for odometers, used to measure the mileage of drive-yourself automobiles, was adopted yesterday by the National Conference on Weights and Measures, in convention at the Bureau of Standards. The code will be studied for a year and will come up for final ratification at the 1931 conference.

An extension of six months, until January 1, 1931, was granted for enforcement of the standards prescribed for measuring devices used in vending oils and greases for automobiles. This reversed the stand of the conference on Tuesday, when the body refused to grant an extension sought by several of the large oil companies.

No Cause to Worry

Pointing out that "all advancement depends upon weights and measures," Representative Randolph Perkins, of New Jersey, chairman of the House committee on coinage, weights and measures, told the conference that despite the humorists, America has no cause to worry about becoming a standardized nation. He declared that standardization has been the basis for the tremendous growth and prosperity of the United States, and explained that "all our standardization is in material things; we are in no danger of standardizing our minds and hearts."

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, illustrated the importance of weights and measures by indicating the tremendous development and growth of the activities of the Bureau of Standards. He emphasized the need for organization, which he declared to be the key to the prosperity of the United States, and pointed out the necessity for cooperation of State and Federal governments for the proper accomplishment of organiation and standardization.

Delegates Tour Laboratories

C. P. Norgord, assistant commissioner of agriculture and markets for the State of New York, discussed some observations on weights and measures, and H. A. Spilman, senior marketing specialist of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, spoke on the standard container act of 1928.

In the afternoon, the delegates to the conference made a tour of the laboratories of the Bureau of Standards, noting particularly the weights and measures division.

The session today will devote itself chiefly to consideration of gasoline meters, with a demonstration by a number of leading manufacturers. The conference will close tomorrow with election of officers.

Trolley Operator Arrested in Death

Man Who Failed to oCme to Inquest Seized at Home.

Failure of Thomas W. Hayden, trolley car operator, to appear at an inquest called by Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt in the death of Edward J. Handly, 85 years old, of 4529 Georgia avenue, resulted last night in his arrest on a warrant charging manslaughter.

Hayden, who is 27 years old, was taken in custody at his home at Rock Point, Md., and turned over to the local Homicide Bureau. When Hayden failed to appear at the inquest, the coroner's jury withheld decision and will sit again Friday morning at 10:30 o'clock to probe the circumstances surrounding Handly's death.

Handly died yesterday in Garfield Hospital from injuries received May 21 when struck by a Capital Traction Co. street car operated by Hayden at Pennsylvania avenue and Thirteenth street.

Mr. Handly was born in Baltimore, but was a resident of the District for many years. He is survived by his wife.

Georgetown Boys Find 60-Pound Cannon Ball

While fond parents gazed aghast as their off-springs carelessly rolled a cannon ball in Georgetown yesterday, the boys laughingly explained everything by saying, "It won't explode, because we've dropped it several times and it hasn't yet."

Maj. L. N. Sylvester, of 1713 Thirty-seventh street northwest, whose 8-year-old son, Lindsey, found the cannon ball in the gutter on the street, called police, and Detective John H. Fowler, firearms expert, has been assigned to investigate.

The cannon ball, believed a Civil War relic, weighs 60 pounds and is 10 inches in diameter. So far Seventh Precinct police have received no reports of missing cannon balls.

POLICEMAN GUILTY OF LIQUOR CHARGE

Hunt Fined $200, Demoted to Private; Dismissal Is Meted Out to Leich.

AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Sergt. Odessa Hunt, former head of the Police Training School, was found guilty of intoxication yesterday by the Police Trial Board and fined $200 and sentenced to be reduced to the rank of private.

The decision of the Trial Board was by a vote of two to one on the punishment to be meted out, Inspector Louis J. Stoll, chairman of the board, voting for a sentence of dismissal, the punishment which has become to be looked on as that usually meted out to policemen convicted of intoxication.

The more lenient sentence was voted by the two other members of the board, Capt. William G. Stott, of the Third Precinct, and Capt. Charles Peck, of the Eleventh Precinct.

Former District Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning was one of twelve witnesses who appeared in Sergt. Hunt's defense. Mr. Fenning testified that during his service as Commissioner Sergt. Hunt was an efficient and capable policeman. Inspector William S. Shelby, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the Detective Bureau, told the Trial Board Hunt's character was good and that it was known that at times he suffered from severe headaches and other physical ailments. Hunt was wounded in the World War.

Private L. L. Leich, of the Eleventh Precinct, was sentenced to be dismissed. eH was before the board on hcarges resulting out of an automobile wreck of the car he was driving. The accident occurred at Pennsylvania and Minnesota avenues early in March. Leich was injured and was in the hospital, unable to stand trial for several weeks.

Leich said that he had been chasing a suspected rumrunner who threw out a smoke screen, but a number of witnesses before the board yesterday said that they had seen no other car pass at a high rate of speed nor anything else to support the story told by the accused policeman. Leich had been before the Trial Board before.

Electrician Is Burned By 11,000-Volt Contact

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 4.—E. A. Hudgins, electrician for the Clarke Electric Co., is in the hospital here suffering from severe burns suffered yesterday afternoon when a wire he was handling came in contact with a main feeder line carrying 11,000 volts of current.

The smaller wire was burned out of his hands and two boards on which he was standing were also burned. He was working at the home of George Wilson, near Mayfield, N. C., at the time.

Kiosk Instruments Given Rest as Heat Stages Prime

Circumstances played a mean trick yesterday on the pedestrians who are accustomed to stroll along Pennsylvanal avenue, stopping at the kiosk in front of The Post Building to see if it really is as hot as all that.

The kiosk still stands in its alloted spot, but it has a drear, deserted look, for all its instruments that record the heat, humidity, barometric pressure and such like intricate details of weather information, are missing. They were removed by Richard O. Lazenby, Weather Bureau scientist in charge of the kiosk, for a general overhauling and cleaning.

Whether the instruments were put out of commission by the torrid testimony which the Senate lobby committee is gathering, or whether they were plugged up with the accumulated dirt of countless congressional probes, Mr. Lazenby would not say last night.

It has long been a scientific fact, however, that the kiosk, situated directly in line with the Capitol and opposite the District Building, always has registered temperatures averaging 10 degrees higher in summer and lower in winter than those in the official Weather Bureau laboratories.

But even without the competition of the kiosk, the bureau thermometers did very well by themselves yesterday, climbing up to 94 degrees at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, starting from a low point of 62 at 5 o'clock in the morning. The humidity likewise climbed 2 points over the previous day, being at 24 during the high temperature period.

Continued fair weather, with possible slight increases in temperature, is the prediction for today.

LABORITE CABINET AGAIN WINS VOTE

House of Lords Amendment Defeated, 250 to 220, in Coal Bill Test.

IS SECOND WITHIN WEEK

London, June 4 (A.P.).—The Labor government of Prime Minister Ramsay McDonald today won its second victory within the span of a week by defeating a House of Lords amendment, 250 votes to 220.

Just a week ago today the Labor government beat off a Conservative motion with a majority of 29, the vote being 270 against 241.

The amendment defeated today would have eliminated the district levy from the coal bill, an extremely Controversial measure which has troubled the MacDonald administration throughout this session of Parliament.

When the bill originally was introduced it provided a central levy to subsidize coal exports. Conservatives and Liberals joined to defeat the central levy, but the government thereupon inserted a district levy. It was this levy which the lords sought to eliminate.

Had the government been defeated today it would not necessarily have meant dissolution of Parliament, for the administration has been beaten on coal bill questions previously.

The vote of a week ago, however, was a genuine test. The Conservatives had moved to reduce the salary of J. H. Thomas, known as the unofficial minister of unemployment. Such a motion serves notice upon the government that its tenure is to be tested. The government was saved by the aid of the Liberals.

Officers Are Installed By Washington Lions

Installation of officers featured the weekly meeting of the Washington Lions Club held yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel when Dr. Guy W. Leadbetter was installed as president. Other officers who assumed their duties were W. J. Brown, first vice president; Edgar N. Brawner, second vice president; L. W. DeGast, secretary; R. E. Myers, assistant secretary; D. J. Barry, treasurer; Angus MacDonald, lion tamer, and W. Spencer Brenizer, tail twister.

R. L. Pollio, resident manager of the Mayflower, was the speaker. He declared that young Americans are passing up opportunities in the hotel business because of the long hours sometimes necessary.

Harrisonburg Firm Gets Blind Workshop Award

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 4.—The contract for the erection of the Virginia Workshop for the Blind, training school for the adult blind of the State, has been awarded the Harrisonburg Building & Supply Co., and work on the plant has been started. The architect is Charles M. Robinson, of Richmond.

The building, which will cost approximately $60,000, will be located on Monticello road, Belmont, just across the street from the Charlottesville new primary school, now in course of construction. It will be built of stone, with three stories and basement, and will be fireproof. All floors will be of concrete, with fire doors in the storerooms.

Randolph-Macon Girls' School Closes Doors

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 4.—Final exercises at Randolph-Macon Institute last night brought to a close an educational institution rich in historic traditions. The college for girls has been operated under the Randolph-Macon system for the past three-quarters of a century, but it was recently decided to close the school because of financial difficulties.

The institution, however, will be continued as a cultural and practical arts college operated under a local holding company under the name of Stratford College.

IN MEMORIAM.

BRUCKHEISER—Sacred to the memory of our dear mother, who departed this life one year ago today, June 5, 1929.
We can not clasp your loving hand,
Your sweet smiles we can not see;
But let this little token show
We still remember thee.
The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day;
But shall the one we love
From memories fade away?
Her sons, THOS. E. HUNT, CHARLES E. HUNT.

HURLEY TO AWARD CADETS DIPLOMAS

Graduation Exercises Start Sunday With Sermon by Academy's Chaplain.

DANCES BEING PLANNED

West Point, N. Y., June 4.—Programs for exercises at the United States Military Academy during graduation week were announced today by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent.

The exercises will start on Sunday and terminate Thursday with the presentation of diplomas to graduates by Secretary of War Hurley. Various military ceremonies, gymnasium exercises, amtaeur theatricals, cadet hops and alumni meetings have been scheduled for each of the five days.

On Sunday the baccalaureate sermon will be delivered in the cadet chapel by the Rev. A. B. Kinsolving, chaplain of the Military Academy. A formal guard mount and regimental parade will be held in the afternoon as well as an organ recital by E. C. Mayer.

Dance Monday Evening.

Monday morning Lieut. C. L. Myers, master of the sword, will be in charge of the gymnasium exercises, when demonstrations by the entire plebe class, which entered last July, will be given. The exhibition will include boxing, fencing, wrestling, calisthenics and work on apparatus. During the evening the graduating class will hold a dance in the Hotel Thayer on the reservation.

An athletic review with the entire corps of cadets in athletic uniforms featuring all the varsity and intramural sports will be held Tuesday morning. At this ceremony the Edgerton saber, the Army Athletic Association saber and other athlteic honors will be presented by Gen. Smith. The captains of the 18 varsity athletics squads will form as Gen. Smith's staff and receive the review. In the afternoon the graduation ride, a spectacular demonstration of horsemanship, will be given in the riding hall by the first class. Included on the program are various complicated equestrina evolutions and feats.

At regimental parade, on Tuesday, the gold stars awarded to cadets in each class for outstanding academic work will be presented. These stars are presented to the men in each class whose academic rating is 92 per cent or better.

Alumni Exercises Wednesday.

Wednesday morning will be devoted to alumni exercises starting with the dedication of memorial windows in the Cadet Chapel. The class of 1905, which presented a window several years ago, will unveil a memorial to the class of 1805 and this year's graduating class will present windows dedicated to the classes of 1830 and 1930. Following these ceremonies the alumni and entire corps of cadets will form around the status of Col. Sylvanus Thayer, father of the Military Academy, when special exercises will be held followed by a review of the corps by the "old grads."

At 6 p. m. graduation parade will be held when the entire graduating class of 242 cadets will, after marching on to the parade ground with their companies, march to the front and center in one long line and review the remaining three classes of cadets. As the corps passes the graduates uncover and stand at attention.

The superintendent's reception to the graduating class will precede this final parade. In the evening graduation dance for invited guests will be held in Cullum Hall. At this dance the closing number, "Army Blue" is traditionally reserved for the graduates.

Thursday morning will mark the presentation of diplomas at Battle Monument, where, in the presence of distinguished guests and high Army officers, the graduates will make their last official appearance in cadet gray.

Ontario Makes Its First Seizure of Rum for U.S.

Windsor, Ontario, June 4 (A.P.).—Ontario provincial police today reported the first seizures of liquor under the new Canadian law which prohibits export into the United States. The barge G. W.-4 was seized on Lake St. Clair at Stony Point, Inspector Sidney Oliver reported. He said 1,500 cases of beer were found. A speed boat also was seized at Stony Point and three men were arrested.

An Ontario highway traffic officer at Essex, Ontario, 16 miles east of here, found twelve bags containing whisky in a field in which an airplane was landing. The plane took off again and several men in another part of the field ran to an automobile in which they sped away.

Murder, Suicide Seen In Finding of Couple

Kendallville, Ind., June 4 (A.P.).—The bodies of Emma Menzel, 22, of Kendallville, and Marion Casebeer, 30, of Montpelier, Ohio, were found today in an automobile three miles south of here under circumstances that indicated murder and suicide. Both had been dead several days.

Miss Menzel had been shot through the head and heart and apparently had been strangled. Empty poison bottles indicated the method taken by Casebeer to end his life. The gun with which Miss Menzel was shot was found near the car. A note found in the machine simply stated: "Girl is Emma Menzel; boy is Marion Casebeer."

WINS HONOR

THE REV. Z. B. PHILLIPS, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany and chaplain of the Senate, was awarded a doctor of laws degree by Wittenberg College at Springfield, Ohio, yesterday, where he delivered the commencement address.

SMITH PITTSBURGH RECEIVER IMMINENT

Agreement Reached in U. S. Court Hearing on Action by Creditors.

BONDHOLDERS FILE PLEA

Pittsburgh, June 4 (A.P.).—Agreement to name a temporary trustee for creditors was made today, following arguments here before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker on a petition for receivership for two Pittsburgh buildings which were originally financed by the F. H. Smith Co., of Washington, D. C., which is in receivership. The trustee will be made known later.

The receivership action was started by bondholders who claimed the amount of bonds issued in connection with financing two structures recently completed exceeded the value of the building. This contention was contested by the operating concerns.

The F. H. Smith Co., which formerly had its main offices in New York, is no longer depository for the bonds, which are held temporarily by the Penna Trust Co. here. The Smith concern resigned as depository.

A number of officers and directors of the F. H. Smith Co. were indicted in the District of Columbia late last year on charges of using the mails to defraud. These men resigned. The Pittsburgh case is one of a number of actions that have grown out of the Smith Co.'s operations in different parts of the country.

Davis Sees Ford On Plant Survey

Secretary and Magnate Hold Conference in Car at Union Station.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Davis and Henry Ford had a four-hour uninterrupted conference yesterday in the latter's private railroad car, parked in Union Station. Mr. Ford came to Washington to be a White House guest.

The principal purposes of the conference, Secretary Davis explained, were to discuss a survey of the Ford plant at Detroit, now being conducted by the Department of Labor, and "to exchange views on a multitude of subjects in a place where we would not be disturbed." Mr. Ford told his guest that he is planning an extensive selling campaign in China.

The conferees held concurrent ideas on world-wide buying power. Mr. Ford complimented Mr. Davis, the latter said, on a recent speech in which he asserted that "if the buying power throughout the world was the same as it is in the United States, production would run ten years behind demand."

Both speculated on the future buying power of China, which, they felt, has not scatched the surface of vehicular transportation.

Justice Whaley Takes Oath.

Justice Richard S. Whaley, of the Court of Claims, was introduced into office this morning at the regular session of the court, Chief Justice Fenton W. Booth administering the oath of office. Senator Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts; Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia; Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, and Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, were present for the ceremony.

Charges Are Aired On Ergot Imports

Department of Agriculture Spokesman Denies Discrimination.

(Associated Press.)

Charges that the Department of Agriculture had discriminated among imports of ergot, a drug used in obstetrics, were denied before the Senate agriculture committee yesterday as it laid plans for a thorough investigation of the complaints.

W. C. Campbell, who heads the forces charged with enforcement of the pure food and drugs act, spoke the department's denial. He said the charges were of commercial origin, but had been sponsored in quarters which necessitated a complete investigation.

The charges were to the effect that the department had favored imports of Russian ergot against the Spanish drug, and in so doing had permitted the entry of an inferior grade.

Chairman McNary, of the committee, and Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, promised a full hearing.

Aged Mother Refused Shelter by Offspring

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—They had to carry Anna Sowka, 69, into the courtroom, she was so weak.

Yesterday she was wandering the streets, a phrase ringing in her ears, "You're too old."

Five young women and one young man stood before Judge George Curran in the Shakespeare Avenue court. They were the daughters and a son of the aged woman.

One by one the judge asked: "Will you shelter your mother?" and one by one they answered "No." The judge stood in wrath.

"Forget the almighty dollar," he shouted, "and get some human blood in your veins." The spectators cheered and applauded. The son and daughters left. A policeman took Anna Sowka to turn her over to charity.

Phi Epsilon Pi Installs Chapter

Four Capital Men Initiated Into New Group at G. W. U.

Phi Epsilon Pi, national fraternity, last night installed its twenty-sixth chapter at George Washington University, the new chapter to be known as Alpha Mu. The installation took place at the home of Leo David, 1629 Columbia road northwest, and Capital initiates were Mr. David, Jerrold Ullman, 2233 Eighteenth street northwest; Wallace Luchs, jr., 2844 Connecticut avenue northwest, and A. Julian Brylawski, 3509 Reno road northwest.

Out-of-town members initiated were Alexander W. Steiner and Harold J. Orris, of Bayonne, N. J.; Irving G. Larkey, of Newark, N. J., and Harry I. Meicer, of Galveston, Tex.

The installation was conducted by Emanuel W. Wirkman, grand treasurer of the fraternity, and Charles H. Fleishman, grand secretary, of Philadelphia. Dean William Allen Wilbur, provost of George Washington University, was the speaker.

Duke Felicitates American Masons

English Order Grand Master Sends Congratulations on 200th Anniversary.

London, June 4 (A.P.).—The Duke of Connaught, grand master of English Free Masons, today cabled his congratulations to Masons of the United States.

"On the eve of the 200th anniversary of the first grand lodge recognition of American Freemasonry, by constituting a provincial grand lodge for New England," the message said, "I wish to congratulate all our brethren in the United States on the great masonic progress they have made.

"I reiterate my fraternal good wishes and sincere desire for their continued happiness and prosperity. It remains my earnest hope that the tenets of our order may assist still further to strengthen the bond of friendship and good will which so happily exists between our two nations. I shall continue to watch with sympathy every endeavor on both sides of the Atlantic to promote those feelings by the development of Freemasonry in its purest, highest forms."

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Prohibition of parking that obstructs a crosswalk is a District traffic regulation that is directly intended to insure the safety and convenience of pedestrians. It is plainly inconvenient to park an automobile so that pedestrians must walk around it to cross from one side of the street to the other.

There is the question of personal danger involved also, and the traffic authorities consider this provision one of the so-called safety regulations for which a permit may be revoked if several violations have been recorded against the holder.

Example: Finding it difficult to get a parking space for his car, a driver leaves it extending partly over a cross walk. Although there may still be ample room for pedestrians to cross, he has violated the regulations.

Air Mail in South Africa.

Capetown, May 31 (A.P.).—In the first six months of air mail service in South Africa, which ended March 1, a total of 6,161 pounds of mail were carried over 77,657 miles. There were no accidents.

Annapolis Man Killed in Crash

Nine Other, Seven of Them Marines, Are Injured in Collision.

Baltimore, June 4 (A.P.).—One man was killed and nine others, seven of whom are enlisted men of the Marine Corps at Annapolis, were injured in a head-on collision between two automobiles on the Baltimore-Annapolis boulevard early today.

Benjamin Phipps, of Annapolis, was killed, and Chester Carpenter, of Coatesville, Pa., and Paul Waldrop, of Annapolis, were taken to Emergency Hospital, Annapolis, in an unconscious state. Physicians said an X-ray examination would be necessary to determine their injuries. Both men were cut and bruised about the head.

The injured Marines suffered lacerations and bruises. They were taken to the Naval Hospital at Annapolis, where it was said none was hurt seriously. A few hours earlier an automobile went into a ditch near the same spot at which the other accident occurred. Three men were in the car, but were not seriously injured. Two of the trio are naval seamen.

POWER FIRM SEEKS WOLF CREEK BRIDGE

Fairfax Supervisors Confer on Plan for Span at Wooyards Ford.

HIGHWAY PROJECTS UP

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors met yesterday morning in the board room at Fairfax County courthouse. The morning session was devoted to routine matters and hearing the representatives of the Occoquan Light & Power Co. They asked the supervisors to oin with the Supervisors of Prince William County in erecting a bridge across Woodyards ford on Wolf Creek.

This ford is now under 3 feet of water and is at times impassible. The power company offered to donate one-third of the amount necessary to build the bridge, the total cost not to exceed $12,000. The bridge would be of steel and concrete construction. The representatives were informed by the board that the county could not undertake this proect until next year because funds for such purpose were not included in the budget for this year.

A resolution was passed by the board authorizing the chairman to appoint two members of the board and the county engineer, F. N. Larkin, to confer with the Prince William board of supervisors in regard to the project. Chairman W. F. P. Reid appointed D. W. Buckley, of Centerville district, and Kyle Davis, of Lee district, as members of the committee.

Company Must Post Bond.

Supervisors Buckley and Davis were also reappointed as a special committee of the board to consider claims arising from damages inflicted upon farmers by stray dogs. They will meet June 30 to consider such claims.

The board was notified that the bond of the Bull Run Power Co. for erecting poles on the county road right-of-way had been canceled. If the company decides to extend its power lines further into the county it will be necessary for it to deposit a certified check to protect the county in case of damage.

The report of the treasurer shows that the police fund has been overdrawn $1,172.45. The supervisors authorized a transfer of $1,000 from the general county fund to the police fund to take care of the overdraft.

To Consider School Building.

Herbert Williams, school trustee from Providence District, appeared before the board asking for a joint meeting of the supervisors and school board to consider ways and means of erecting proposed school buildings in the three southern districts, and for general school consolidation. It was decided to call a special meeting of both boards June 18 at 10 o'clock, in the board room at Fairfax.

A petition was received from several residents of Dranesville District asking that a county road be established from a point near Great Falls Station at the proposed terminus of the Great Falls Bridge, thence to the Old Georgetown and Leesburg turnpike at a point west of Elkins, and from there by the most practical route to the Leesburg pike at Colvin Run. The residents guaranteed the county a 50-foot right of way with a hard surfaced road at least 20 feet wide, without cost to either the county or Dranesville District. After the road is completed it will be turned over to the county for maintenance. This matter was referred to the county engineer for his report.

Another petition was received asking that the county open a public road from Dunn Loring along the Arlington & Fairfax Railway to Woodford, then over the right of way laid out by William & Sherman to connect with the Vienna road at the courthouse monument. This was also referred to the county engineer for report.

Recommends New Cistern.

County engineer Larkin made a report in regard to the erection of a flag pole on the courthouse green. The pole is to be 40 feet high and set in a concrete base, at a total cost of approximately $80. The engineer was instructed to proceed with work. He was also authorized to remove the dead limbs of the trees on the courthouse lawn and to build a stone path from the jail to the courthouse.

Engineer Larkin recommended the construction of a 15,000-gallon cistern for fire protection of the county buildings, to cost about $400. The board instructed him to inquire further into the matter and submit figures on a 30,000-gallon cistern. He also informed the board that the gutters on the new courthouse office building were not large enough.

Mrs. Louise S. Manghum, Fairfax County Welfare worker, reported her progress in having the old Fairfax County Alms House converted into a district home for delinquent children. She was instructed to confer with the boards of supervisors of the surrounding counties in regard to cooperation in the project. She is to make her report at the next meeting of the board.

The board of directors of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, at its meeting to consider the question of a financial program for the next year, decided to submit for discussion the advisability of increasing membership dues. The chamber now has about 375 members on its active list, of which 75 will not pay more dues until July, 1931.

While it is considered a good point to have as many members as possible throughout the county, it was shown to the board that 200 members, paying twice as much, would materially increase the revenue. The board took no action on the question, but will submit the proposition to the full membership of the chamber which meets next Tuesday night in the Potters Hill School.

President Edmund H. Allen continued the finance committee appointed this spring, and gave special instructions for a canvass of each district as soon as possible, in an effort to increase membership and finances. Secretary C. C. Carr was authorized to place his daughter in the chamber's office at Fairfax as a temporary assistant so that he might devote more of his time to field work.

The following committee was appointed to prepare a list of nominations for the annual election next month: Herbert Williams, of Providence District; Herbert Haar, Lee District; John Rooney, of Dranesville District; J. W. Cox, of Mount Vernon District, and J. W. Gaines, of Falls Church District.

The terms of office of the following directors will expire next month: J. H. Beattie, of Providence District; Benjamin J. Nevitt, of Lee District; Mrs. G. Ashley Money, of Dranesville District; Harvey Clapp, of Mount Vernon District; William J. Cleveland, of Falls Church District; Miss Ludema Sayre, of Centerville District, and Merton E. Church and Edmund H. Allen, as directors at large.

At a meeting of the Kenmore Council, Daughters of America, the following officers were nominated: Councilor, Mrs. Dotsie Jenkins; associate councilor, Mrs. Frances Lanham; vice councilors, Miss Belle Taylor, Mrs. Frances Pierpoint and Miss Louise Millard; associate vice councilor, Alpheus Burgen; recording secretary, Mrs. Margaret Day and Mrs. Catherine Leigh and Howard Kidwell; treasurer, Charles Pierpoint; conductor, Mrs. Elsie Wood; warden, Mrs. May Conner; inside sentinel, Mrs. Frances Pierpoint, Miss Emily Caton and Miss Emma Millard; outside sentinel, Walter Wyncoop and Miss Emily Caton, and eighteen-month trustee, Miss Emma Millard. Mrs. Margaret Day, Mrs. Dotsie Jenkins and Mrs. G. Ashley Money were appointed a committee to form a drill team.

The personnel of the board of equalization and review of taxes in Fairfax County was announced yesterday morning by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the Fairfax County Circuit Court. The members of this board include Robert R. Buckley, of Clifton and Fairfax, real estate dealer; Earl Saum, of the Bergundy Farm, Mount Vernon district, and George F. Harrison, of Herndon. This board is to make the five-year assessment on real estate in the county on a more equitable basis than now exists.

The board will convene at once for the purpose of organizing and selecting a chairman. It will also engage necessary clerical assistance. The compensation of these members was fixed by the Fairfax County board of supervisors at the May meeting at $15 a day. The assessment and equalization must be completed before December 31, 1930.

The Ladies Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal Chapel, at Baileys Cross Roads, will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Oliver.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church, at Centerville, will meet tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Frank Champ.

The Women's Home Demonstration Club, at Annandale, will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin T. Webb.

W. T. Carrico, president of the Annandale School and Community League, has appointed chairmen of the league's standing committees for this year. They are to select their own assistants. The chairmen are Willie Sipes, education; A. J. Dean, finance; Mrs. Charles Bladen, civic; Mrs. Joseph Mettauer, social, and Martin T. Webb, highways.

Graduation exercises for Villa Maria Academy, of the St. James Catholic Church, in West Falls Church, will be held tonight at the school. The exercises will be followed by an entertainment. Tomorrow night the alumni of the school will give a prom in the school hall for this year's graduates.

The pupils of the fifth grade of the Forestville school will present a play tomorrow night at the school under the direction of Miss Nichols.

NEW ALTITUDE RECORD HANGS ON CHECKING OF BAROGRAPHS

equipped with pontoons, to a world's seaplane record of 38,323 feet.

As soon as the altitude flier had landed yesterday, H. B. Henrickson, official observer for the National Aeronautic Association, removed two sealed barographs which he had previously placed in the plane and took them to the Bureau of Standards, where they will be calibrated to determine his exact maximum altitude. This work, Henrickson said, would require about three days.

At the same time, he removed two registering thermometers, one from the cockpit and one from a wing strut. The former showed that the temperature inside the plane had fallen to 38 degrees below zero, while that outside had been as low as 60 degrees below zero.

In case the barographs show that he did not better the present record, which would require that he reach 42,122 feet, Lieut. Soucek indicated that he will make another attempt as soon as possible. He declared that the engine and plane he flew yesterday would undoubtedly do much better with a different propeller setting.

"I kept the engine running between 2,100 and 2,350 revolutions per minute," he said, after landing, "but when I reached 42,000 feet, the propeller simply fanned the air without taking hold. The engine had plenty of 'soup,' and would have taken me a good deal higher if it had had anything to pull on. I believe that if the propeller pitch is increased one degree, the plane will climb considerably beyond 42,000 feet."

Taking off at 2:18 o'clock, he reached his maximum ceiling at about 3:30. "I flew around, trying to make it climb for about 25 minutes," he said, "and then decided I'd better come down before my gas gave out." He landed at 4:25 o'clock. Altogether, he was in the air 2 hours 7 minutes, although watchers on the ground saw him but a few minutes in spite of the clear weather. Once a thin streak of white mist trailed across the sky from frozen exhaust gases, indicating approximately the invisible plane's position.

Despite the bitter cold, Lieut. Soucek declared that he was perfectly comfortable except that his feet were slightly chilled as he was descending. He wore only a fur-lined leather flying suit, fur-lined flying boots, helmet, face mask and fur gloves. The face mask was equipped with an oxygen tube leading to a tank in the plane which enabled him to breathe when he reached the rare atmosphere of high altitudes. This equipment gave him no trouble, he said, except for a moment when the tube became clogged with ice. He shook this out and experienced no further difficulty.

When he landed he was met by Rear Admiral William E. Moffatt, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, who first asked him how he felt. Lieut. Soucek replied that he was in perfect condition, and explained that his rather bumpy landing "didn't mean anything." Observers, he seemed to feel, had taken it to indicate that he was suffering from his trying experience.

In case another attempt is made, Lieut. Soucek will use the same plane and engine, changing only the propeller pitch. He indicated, also that he might like to make a second attempt with a different type of propeller, which would enable the engine to deliver all of its power.

SENATORS CONFIRM WHEAT FOR JUSTICE

Newest Head Is Youngest Member of District Supreme Court.

WAIT SUCCESSOR'S NAME

The nomination of Associate Justice Alfred A. Wheat to be the Chief Justice of the local Supreme Court was confirmed by the Senate late yesterday.

President Hoover is expected to name a man to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Wheat's elevation within the next week or so. Attorney General William D. Mitchell already has indicated that a man has been decided upon.

The new chief justice is the youngest man on the Supreme Court bench. He succeeds former Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy, who retired in December after reaching the age of 70.

Although the measure was one scheduled to be passed, the House adjourned late yesterday without acting on the bill to provide two additional judges for the local Supreme Court.

By the time other bills on the program had been passed, it was nearly 7:30 o'clock. It probably would have required only a few minutes to pass the judge bill, but Chairman Graham, of the judiciary committee made a motion that the House adjourn.

There seems little doubt, however, that the bill eventually will be passed. Nor is there any reason to doubt that a companion bill will be passed. That is the bill to provide for two additional judges for the local Court of Appeals.

Jefferson County Court To Appoint Assessor

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., June 4.—The County Court of Jefferson County will meet in special session tomorrow for the purpose of appointing a successor to the late T. Ogle Link, assessor, who died Saturday.

The court will appoint his daughter, Miss Helen Link, his office deputy. The appointment will be good until January 1.

B. Gates Garth Is Dead; Revenue Commissioner

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 4.—B. Gates Garth, commissioner of revenue in Albemarle County for a period of 32 years and well known farmer, died last evening at his home, Benwood, near Ivy, after an illness extending over three weeks.

The funeral will be held from the residence at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the service to be conducted by the Rev. R. M. Hartness, pastor of Shiloh Methodist Church. Interment will be in Riverview Cemetery.

Ten in One Family Victims of Crash

Auto, Rounding Curve, Runs Into Group; Three Die, Seven Injured.

Keyser, W. Va., June 4 (A.P.).—Three persons were killed and seven others injured—all members of one family—when they were run down by an automobile on the Keyser-Cumberland road near here late last night.

The dead: Mrs. Faye Walker, Barbara Walker, 11, her daughter; Junior Walker, 8, her son.

The injured: Mrs. Edith Walker Johnson, 22, married daughter of the dead woman; Sadie Walker, 15, another daughter; Samuel Walker, 3; James Walker, 18; Ernest Walker, 6; Esther Walker, 6 months, and Betty Johnson, 16 months.

Keyser police announced that John Kiener, Keyser, was the driver of the car. He reported the accident and was held pending investigation. The Walkers were visiting friends at Dawson, and were returning home on a secluded section of the road, when the car suddenly turned a curve and ran into the group, police reported.

Frederick Forests Menaced by Fires

Police Trace New Outbreak to Moonshine Stills in Virginia Mountains.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 4.—Appeals were received today from the southwestern section of Frederick County for volunteers to assist in combating another outbreak of forest fires in that locality. Forest wardens gathered a considerable force of men late yesterday and they worked most of the night, but with little success in stemming spread of the flames.

Today owners of property toward which the fires are spreading were advised to send men to the scene if they expected to save valuable timber which is menaced. Due to the prevailing drought, which has made undergrowth, trees and grass dry and parched, fires have spread rapidly. Spread of the flames has been aided also by fresh winds, particularly at night.

Several of the fires are thought by police officers to have been caused by illicit distilling outfits in the mountains. One overturned still was found by Forest Ranger John Crisman and turned over to the sheriff. Forest wardens said the weather until the past few days has been too cool for camping parties in the hills, and that no campers had been seen thus far this summer. They were quite confident, therefore, that some of the fires had been caused by moonshiners.

Ora J. Keyes Services Are Held in Wellsburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Wellsburg, W. Va., June 4.—Funeral services were held today for Ora J. Keyes, 58, general manager of the West Virginia and Pittsburgh Coal Co., who died suddenly at his home here from a heart attack. He had just returned from the Steubenville Country Club, where he was playing golf and complained of feeling ill.

Mr. Keyes, a native of Cleveland, came to Wellsburg in 1920 from Logan, W. Va. He was an influential figure in the local Republican organization, president of the Wellsburg water board and exalted ruler of the Wellsburg Lodge of Elks. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Howard Spaulding, of Boston, Mass.

Frostburg Host To Baptist Group

Church Association Session Will Last Two Days; Speakers Heard.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frostburg, Md., June 4—The annual convention of the Western District Baptist Association opened here today with the meeting of the Women's Missionary Union at the First Baptist Church, 150 delegates being in attendance. The convention will last two days. Mrs. C. W. Gregory, Frederick, vice president of the Women's Missionary Union of Maryland, presided. The speakers today included Miss Jeannette White, Women's Missionary Union field worker for Maryland; Mrs. S. R. Barnes, corresponding secretary of the union, and Mrs. W. P. Copeland, of First Church, Cumberland.

Tomorrow Dr. George T. White, Richmond, executive secretary, Virginia State Missionary Board, will speak. Others on the program are the Rev. W. C. Royal, pastor of First Church, Frederick, who will talk on "Our Summer Assembly, Braddock Heights," and Cecil H. Perry, field worker of Maryland.

The Rev. Norman C. Harrington, of Kensington, Md., will deliver the association sermon tomorrow afternoon. Officers will be elected tomorrow.

36 Get Diplomas In Fredericksburg

Exercises for High School Students Take Place in New Auditorium.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 4.—Thirty-six members of the senior class received their diplomas from the Fredericksburg High School Tuesday night. The awards were presented for the first time in the recently erected auditorium by John G. Heflin, president of the city school board.

The awarding of diplomas marked the closing of the high school commencement exercises for the year, after a three-night program which was the most elaborate and successful ever staged at the local institution.

The finals began Friday night with the junior-senior reception, followed by the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday in the auditorium by the Rev. C. C. Coleman, D. D., of Richmond. Class night exercises took place on Monday before approximately 800 persons who filled the auditorium to capacity. Miss Ruby King, the third member of her family to win the honor, delivered the valedictory address. H. D. Peters, superintendent of secondary education in Virginia and principal speaker, gave a message of farewell and encouragement to the graduates.

Romney Recordership Goes to J. L. Lehman

Special to The Washington Post.

Romney, W. Va., June 4.—John L. Lehman, heading the Citizen's ticket, was reelected recorder here yesterday in the annual election for recorder and three councilmen. He defeated James W. Crawford, heading the Democratic ticket, 207 to 195.

The three Democratic councilmanic candidates were elected. The vote: Democrats—J. Brady Thompson, 230; R. E. Stewart, 245; J. M. Snarr, 221. Citizens—J. H. Rannels, 134; Brady Sanders, 182; Fred Breinig, 185. All the councilmen are new officers. The mayor and the other three councilmen were elected last year for two-year terms. The election was notly contested.

The class numbered 22, as follows: Geza Baker, Louise Brand, Ruth Brand, Jesse Davis, Wilma Conoway, Roy Guthrie, Edith Hartley, Charles Harvey, Alma Haught, Evelyn Hoye, Fay Hughes, Irene Jones, Marjorie Jones, Virgil Jones, Audrey Parrish, Merlin Parrish, Vereda Price, Anna Schneider, Glenn Smallwood, Woodrow Stalnaker, Darrell Steel and Ruby Stewart.

Staunton Graduates Hear Senator Walsh

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., June 4.—Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, was the speaker at commencement exercises here today when Staunton Military Academy graduated a class of 123 cadets. He urged the graduates to be "industrious, prudent and square shooting." He asserted that "your whole educational career is simply a means of preparing you for the duties and opportunities in the business and professional world. It is to fully prepare you when the opportunities of life come."

Two other military schools—Augusta, at Defiance, and Fishburne, at Waynesboro, also closed today. Augusta graduated 24 and Fishburne 46.

Memorial to Poet Started at Dayton

Town Hailed as South's Musical Center at Stone Laying.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 4.—Dayton was hailed as the "music center of the real South" in addresses today at the corner stone-laying ceremonies of the Kieffer Alumni Memorial Gymnasium and Auditorium at Shenandoah College, Dayton, by Dr. William J. Showalter, associate editor of the National Geographic Magazine, and Dr. George Pullen Jackson, of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

The gymnasium is to be erected as a memorial to Aldine S. Kieffer, Rockingham County's poet, songster and soldier, publisher of the Musical Million and instructor at the first music normal training school ever held in the South at Newmarket, Va., in 1874. Kieffer was a grandson of John Funk, famous song writer and publisher, of Singers Glen, Rockingham County, and generally credited with being the father of song in northern Virginia.

Shenandoah Valley Masons were in charge of the corner stone-laying ceremonies, with W. L. Andrews, of Roanoke, past grand master, as master of ceremonies.

West Virginia's Legion Roll Over 10,000 Mark

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 4.—For the first time in the history of the American Legion, Department of West Virginia, its membership has passed the 10,000 mark. State Commander James A. Duff, of this city, stated today that the legion's number of members in good standing aggregated 10,028.

Commander Duff said the membership in 1920 was slightly more than 9,000. The total droped to slightly more than 7,000 in 1929. Last year eleven new posts were organized.

PACKARD
STANDARD EIGHT
PRICES REDUCED

$400

The Packard Motor Car Company announced on May 28th prices of all current models of the Standard Eight were reduced $400.

Prices Now Range

From $2085 to $2485

at the Factory

These reductions were made because the factory expects to announce in the Fall new cars which, though the same in size and of practically unchanged appearance, will have enough changes to classify them as new models. The new cars, like those we are now offering, will, of course, have straight eight motors exclusively.

The new prices give today's purchasers a very great price advantage, and also immediate use of the largest selling and most popular car in the fine car field.

Now, it is even more true—by $400—that you are paying for a Packard. Why not own one? You will never have a better opportunity.

Two-thirds of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight give up other makes of cars. Thousands prefer to buy out of income. Your used car will be accepted as cash and if of average value will more than make the down payment on a new car.

THE VOTE IN IOWA.

The first important test of Republican sentiment toward the tariff bill has been made in Iowa. Representative L. J. Dickinson, of the Tenth District, has been nominated by the Republicans for the United States Senate. His chief opponent was Gov. Hammill. Although a few minor matters entered into the contest, the real issue was the pending tariff bill. Mr. Dickinson stoutly championed it, while Gov. Hammill vigorously attacked it as an injustice to farmers and consumers.

If there is in the United States a constituency where appeals to bucolic prejudice on tariff questions might hope to win votes, it is in Iowa. Gov. Hammill is an accomplished debater; his "issue" appeared to be made to order for him; he could cite dozens of bitter criticisms of the tariff from Republican sources; he could harp upon the hardships and disappointments of agriculture. Yet he was badly beaten, and all the signs point to the election of Representative Dickinson over his Democratic opponent.

Thus, in the acid test, the tirades against the new tariff are shown to be ineffective. Iowa is a Republican State. It is proud of its native son, Herbert Hoover. Iowa Republicans recognized the good work of Representative Dickinson as sponsor of the farm relief law and his loyalty to the party in supporting the tariff as finally formulated. The fact that Representative Dickinson is a stalwart Hoover supporter contributed to his victory.

Months ago the Democratic national organization perceived that its only hope in 1930 was to divert attention from its internal dissensions and lack of leadership by stirring up popular opposition to the new tariff. Reliance was placed upon popular ignorance, sectional prejudices and resentment against the passing economic depression. The "statements" purporting to emanate from distinguished Democratic statesmen, all written by that industrious and inventive "ghost," Charles Michelson, have been marvels of misleading suggestion on the subject of tariff legislation. All of the people seemed to be fooled, and it appeared that they would be fooled long enough to affect the elections next fall. But the result in Iowa throws a different light upon the state of the public mind. Republicans, at any rate, are not fooled by tales of tariff "robberies," "iniquities" and "betrayals of the farmers."

The new tariff legislation as it really is and the Democratic picture of what it purports to be are as different as day and night. Out of the turmoil and confusion has emerged a well-considered and equitable tariff bill, dealing fairly with all sections of the country and all branches of industry, including agriculture. The flexible provision is at last workable as a means of making adjustments in separate items to meet changed conditions for the protection of Americans in the American market. The bill as it stands will soon be enacted, in spite of the obstructive tactics of senators who have pretended to speak for agriculture, and who are now proved by the Iowa farmers to be false spokesmen and impostors.

So the campaign of 1930 is squaring away for November. The elephant is thrashing through the jungle, trumpeting triumph as he tramples down opposition.

TRAFFIC TO BE STUDIED.

In conformity with a recommendation made by Corporation Counsel Bride, the District Commissioners this week appointed a traffic advisory committee for the purpose of studying and reporting on all phases of the traffic situation in the District. The committee is composed of the director of traffic, the inspector in charge of the Traffic Bureau, a representative of the Bureau of Efficiency, the chief engineer and coordinator of the District, an assistant corporation counsel and two citizens. Its primary purpose will be to make recommendations for a general revision of the traffic laws.

With the creation of the committee the first step has been taken toward bringing about a reform in traffic rules. Although the existing code is only five years old, it has become inadequate, and makes for a sluggish rather than an expeditious movement of traffic. The mechanical details of traffic control require thorough consideration with revision of the code itself. Perhaps the regulation of local traffic has become overmechanized. The movement of vehicles could be expedited without sacrifice of safety by simplifying the regulations.

The traffic advisory committee has an important function to perform. Traffic delay wastes time, temper and money. The situation that prevails in Washington streets is now a reproach to the District government, and if the new committee can hasten the necessary reforms it will be performing valuable public service.

BISHOP CANNON.

At first glance Bishop James Cannon's reasons for refusing to answer the Senate lobby committee's questions regarding his political activities seem to be well-grounded. The committee was specifically directed to investigate lobbying, and not political campaign activities. But the inquiry had not gone very far before it became evident that the science of lobbying takes all politics for its field. The panjandrums of the science would feel ashamed if they neglected to select good seed or to prepare the ground for the harvests they expect to gather from Congress. They not only exercise their skill upon elected members, but they pick out good prospects, groom them, finance their campaigns, and then hold them to account after they are elected.

Superlobbyists do not wait until candidates are elected. They prefer to put their own men in Congress—men who are under obligations for campaign help, and who will pay off the mortgage by voting as the lobbyists desire.

The lobby committee found in four branches of inquiry that it would be necessary to go back to the source if the information desired by the Senate was to be obtained. So the spokesmen of the Southern Tariff League, the Antisaloon League, the Tennessee River Improvement Association, and the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment were required to throw light upon campaign activities in order to ascertain whether they had tried to send to Congress men who would be susceptible to their influence. None of these spokesmen seemed to think that the committee was going beyond its powers. They answered questions similar to those propounded to Bishop Cannon.

It may be that the Senate would hold that the committee can not require answers from Bishop Cannon on matters not related to Congress campaigns. Certainly political activities in connection with presidential candidates do not seem to be related to an inquiry into congressional lobbying. But wherever candidates for either branch of Congress were supported or opposed by Bishop Cannon, it seems only proper that he should give full information regarding campaign receipts and expenditures.

HARPER'S TOUGH CASE.

Seven years ago James Cooper Harper emigrated from Scotland and landed in Canada. After spending a couple of weeks in the Dominion he crossed Niagara River and enlisted as a private in the Fourteenth United States Infantry. He took the oath of fealty and allegiance to which all doughboys are required to subscribe. That he made a good soldier is evident from the fact that after having served three years in Panama he received an honorable discharge and was promptly reenlisted.

Harper, in company with his comrades stationed at Fort Wayne, near Detroit, was ordered in March to prepare for service in China. But he wanted a little visit with his fellow countrymen living among the inhabitants of the Canadian side of the Detroit River. So he crossed the river, wearing the uniform which he had honored. After a brief stay he started back to his station, still wearing the uniform. However, he had neglected to secure naturalization papers, and in consequence was halted by the immigration authorities, who declined to consider the uniform as a fitting substitute for a certificate of naturalization. "Back to Canada" was the verdict, as the "Scotch quota" was exhausted.

But Harper is not to be allowed to remain, because a Canadian board of inquiry, unfamiliar with the intricate reasoning of the American immigration authorities, thinks that since Harper took an oath to uphold, maintain and fight for the Constitution of the United States when he enlisted in Uncle Sam's army, he is too much of a "Yankee" to be longer regarded as a British subject.

Harper is in a Canadian jail awaiting the decision of American and Canadian authorities as to the disposition of his corpus. If he ever does get to this side of the border he is liable to court-martial for being A. W. O. L.

THE FALL OF SILVER.

Ever since Villa's bandits swooped down upon the silver mines of Torreon and Guanajuato the price of silver has steadily fallen, but at no time in the last 50 years has the fall in price been so pronounced as it has been recently. On January 10, 1929, silver bullion sold in New York at 57¼ cents an ounce. On January 2 of the present year the price had dropped to 46⅞ cents, and on Monday of this week 36⅜ cents was the New York quotation. Even that low figure was nearly 2 cents an ounce higher than the London price.

To people in this country the low price of the white metal means little, but to India and China it is of the utmost importance, for in those countries silver is the standard of value, and a low price for silver spells high prices for food and consequently increased distress.

The range of silver price during the past two years might have suggested to the owners of silver mines the desirability of curtailing production. But nothing in that direction has been done. The three greatest silver producing countries at present are Mexico, the United States and Canada. The total production of the silver mines of the world in 1929 was 262,000,000 ounces, including 60,938,000 from the United States; 23,180,000 from Canada, 108,700,000 from Mexico and 70,000,000 from other countries. In spite of this enormous production, and in face of the fact that during the year the price fell approximately 20%, production in the United States during the first three months of 1930 was 15,139,000 ounces, as compared with 15,022,000 for the like period of 1929. Canada recovered 4,660,000 ounces in the first quarter of 1930 as against 4,440,000 in the same months of last year, while Mexico produced upward of 2,000,000 more ounces in January and February, 1930, than in the same months of 1929.

If this excess production continues throughout the remainder of the year a still further fall in price may be looked for, with a consequent lessening of demand for products of American farms and factories in the markets of the Orient.

With Lindy piloting Ambassador Morrow to his political rallies, the feminine vote of Jersey is as good as in the basket.

Half the total work in the world is done in the United States, says Dr. Thomas Read. Most of the other half is working the United States.

Five New York publishers reduce the price of contemporary novels to $1. This means that you'll be just half as big a sucker if you buy and try to read one of the things.

CHINA'S FUTURE

From the Christian Science Monitor.

China is in the midst of what has come to look like an annual spring war. The army of the Nanking Government, under the command of the generalissimo, President Chiang Kai-shek, is in action against a group of armies nominally owing allegiance to Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan, the most powerful figures in Northern China. It is unlikely that the campaign will proceed to a final military conclusion. Before either side is totally defeated, some sort of compromise is likely to be effected.

It is generally thus with internal warfare in China. Year after year the military leaders throw their armies into action against one another. Year after year men are slaughtered, districts ravaged, and the whole country plunged into wide disorder. To an impatient, although generally sympathetic, world China seems to make little progress toward a stable government. Why is this?

The fundamental trouble in China is that the reforming element is attempting to establish a "people's government"—to translate literally the phrase used in the present title of the republic—without having any solid basis of public confidence and support on which to rest.

When the Nationalist movement came to the front three years ago, and set up its capital in Nanking, it looked for a brief time as though a government actually based upon the will of China's people, and functioning for the benefit of the masses, might be coming into existence. Nor is there reason to doubt the initial good faith of the Nankinese leaders in proclaiming a government of, by and for the people. But the situation became complicated by the intensive activity of Communist elements among the masses. In China these masses are, in largest measure, the peasant farmers, and, in a secondary degree, the miserably paid workers in urban industries. Both these elements contributed great strength to the Nationalist movement when it struck for power. But, once intrenched, the Nationalist Government become so alarmed at the advance of Communist ideas among peasants and workers that it struck savagely to exterminate the carriers of dangerous ideas.

Such action may have been necessary to head off the advance of communism in Asia. But the inevitable result was that the Nanking Government cut off from itself the support of the masses. It had left, thereafter, only the hesitant and ineffective support of Chinese business elements and the strength of its army. When other factions arose, as they have under Feng Yu-hsiang and Yen Hsi-shan, the Nanking Government had no passion of public support to fall back on, but could only rely on the loyalty of its professional troops. And this meant, in essence, that it must rely upon its ability to collect funds.

It is in this lack of any vital connection between the interests of the masses and the fate of the government that the cause for recurring warfare in China is to be found. So long as it seems to the average Chinese that it makes no difference in the size of his farm or the size of his pay envelope who holds office, just that long the conflict between professional armies will go on. Not until a government is formed that actually does exist to care for the welfare of the common man will China know an end to these annual personal campaigns.

LITTLE EYES AND LITTLE EARS.

Little eyes that seem to see
Everything that's round about;
Little mind that seems to be Bound to ferret wisdom out;
Little ears that seem to hold
Every curious word we say,
For a child just eight years old
You've a most surprising way.

Must you carry all you've heard
Back and forth where'er you go?
Does an unfamiliar word
Start the wish in you to know
All about it that you pry
Into hidden meanings deep?
Do you never shut that eye
Only when you fall asleep?

You astound us now and then
By the things you do and say.
And we often wonder when
Fell such wisdom in your way.
But the mother says to me,
It is plain, beyond a doubt,
We must very careful be
When that busy mind's about.

Oh there's much in life to learn,
Little eyes, and little ears.
Time shall teach you in your turn
All the reasons for our fears.
And for you I make this prayer;
Through the years which are to be
That but lovely things and fair
Will you ever hear or see.

Why Let a Poker Player Decide That the Dollar in Your Pocket Is Worth Only 30 Cents?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MONEY has no value except that given to it by popular consent as a medium of exchange.

It is accepted in payment for goods only because it can be exchanged for other goods.

Paper money is thus accepted because its redemption is guaranteed by a gold reserve and the reputation of a solvent Government that meets its obligations.

Some paper money is issued by banks, and this has value because it is guaranteed by bonds of the Government.

There is another kind of paper money called stocks.

These stocks are shares in legally organized industrial and commercial companies.

The advantage of this money is that it pays dividends and increases in value as the company prospers.

The disadvantage is that it may not pay dividends and may lose the greater part of its value if the company doesn't prosper.

Of course, these shares of stock are not money at all; and because they are issued in large denominations and fluctuate in value, they are not commonly used as money.

But they are like money in being valuable only because of what is back of them, and in the fact that they can be and frequently are used as a medium of exchange—i. e., in payment for goods.

The value of paper money—that is, its purchasing power—can be influenced by speculation.

For example, if the dollar should lose half of its value because too much paper money had been issued in time of emergency, and speculators should begin to buy dollars with English pounds, expecting to reap a profit when the dollar returned to normal value, their buying would make the price of dollars rise as demand makes all other prices rise.

Speculation in money is unusual and is discouraged by all Governments.

If a few hundred men, representing billions in wealth, should become professional speculators in money, they could make the value rise and fall and ruin the nation by destroying public confidence in money.

Yet such men are permitted to gamble with the other kind of money—the shares of stock—and Government makes no effort to protect the stockholders.

The shares in a company, held by thousands of people, may be actually worth $100; but these gamblers may at any time force the price up to $300 or down to $30, and thus, without changing the real value of the stock, enrich or bankrupt the innocent investors who hold it.

They make "prosperity" or "hard times" merely by playing a gambling game with one another, caring nothing for the good of the country, indifferent to property's actual worth, intent only on getting a profit by making prices rise or fall.

Aren't we an intelligent people to leave the worth of our property—our money—at the mercy of professional gamblers?

THE PASSING OF THE HORSE THIEF.

("The Anti-Horse Thief Association of Oradell, N. J., is to be disbanded after 50 years."—News item.)

There's another American institution on its last legs. The passing of an anti-horse thief association marks the last stand of the old-timer against progress. As long as there was such an organization in the community he could join as a gesture of loyalty to the past.

• • • •

It leaves the old-timer with that same sense of sadness that comes when he hears of the dissolution of the Buggy Stripers' Union, the Wheelmen's Social Club, the Iron Dog & Deer Designers' Sorority and the National Association for the Advancement of Mustache Cups, Bustles, Hitching Posts and Women's Eight-Piece Bathing Costumes.

• • • •

The horse in America is certainly disappearing, but the horse thief is disappearing even faster. The horse thief, in fact, is up against it. The breaks are against him. Even if he wanted to steal a horse he would find it difficult to locate one.

• • • •

And what would he do with it? Mere association with a horse attracts attention to a man in this country today. It is regarded with suspicion. And where could a man who stole a horse put it without arousing curiosity? If he came home with a horse in this day and generation the entire neighborhood would notice it. There would be a big crowd around the horse in no time.

• • • •

The old-fashioned horse thief was picturesque and had a lot of courage compared to the modern-day automobile thief. Stealing a car involves practically no risk in any big city today. Anybody can get into any one of a thousand cars and drive off with it without anybody noticing it. Be three or four hours before the owner comes back. And if his car is gone he will just get in some other car of the same make and go home without even telling the police.

• • • •

But horse-stealing was something else again. If a man decided to get into the wrong buggy he had to act fast and be ready for shooting. There would be a posse after him before he had whipped the horse out of a lope.

• • • •

He got no $5 fine when caught. There was no coddling. They even hanged men for it. If he got off with a jail term he was as good as done for. A man can steal a dozen automobiles and have it overlooked by the time the cylinders begin to skip, but a horse thief was a horse thief to the end of his days.

• • • •

However, his days are over. There's nothing we can do about it. Except admit that the automobile, after all, has come to stay.

If you think you have a difficult job just think of the fellow who calls the roll in a Moslem army.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Public Librarian Bowerman Says Fiction Is Not Unduly Represented in Library's Acquisitions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been interested in reading the letter signed "Old George Town," in which your correspondent expresses the opinion that too much attention is given by the Public Library to the circulation of new fiction. I should like to comment on this opinion and to give some facts.

I find that in 1929 the new novels published in the United States numbered 1,340. The Public Library selected but 233 of these for purchase. We do buy duplicate copies, but in no case to any large degree. Indeed, we are often criticized because we do not select for purchase a much larger number of new novels and duplicate all titles much more largely than we do.

We, of course, have the older books of fiction, often many copies of them. Surely your correspondent does not object to the fact that we multiply copies of "Invanhoe," "Nicholas Nickleby," "The Scarlet Letter" and the hundreds of other novels that are regarded as classics, many of them required reading in the schools.

But it would be unfair to gain the impression that the Public Library devotes the bulk of its funds to the purchase of fiction or to its circulation. In 25 years the library's fiction circulation has decreased from 81 to about 50 per cent. It is safe to say also that a large portion of this 50 per cent is the older fiction which is a highly prized part of our literary heritage.

The major portion of the library's book funds are devoted to the purchase of books of history, biography, travel, economics, books of reference, as well as what I call bread and butter books—those dealing with engineering, domestic science, gardening, trade and industry.

An increasing part of the library's staff consists of persons of education and training who are qualified to give a competent advisory service to readers. In other words, more and more emphasis is being put on making the library an institution qualified to help people to carry on their self-education. This is most true at the central library, but an attempt is also being made to give somewhat the same service at the branches. This we hope to do in the proposed Georgetown branch.

"An American" Dissects President Angell's Pessimistic and Defeatist Internationalism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent pessimistic lucubration, President Angell, of Yale University, speaks of "tendencies which left unchecked and uncorrected are not less grave in the perils they foreshadow than those which plunged the Nation into Civil War." This has a familiar sound and, in fact, has been repeated in one shape or another in every stage of our national growth. How men of intelligence and the higher learning get that way is a perplexing puzzle.

In this case it may be that the outbreak results from an internationalist state of mind. Referring to American people as the "sordid and vulgar" money worshipers, President Angell objects to their "chauvinistic nationalism.

As I understand it, a chauvinist is a vainglorious patriot. In the view of the Yale pedagogue and the erudite but deluded group which he represents, it is vainglorious to follow the lead of Washington against entanglement in the serpentine politics of Eurpoe. Inspired by the illusion of an academic brotherhood of man, it is their idea that the youth of our country should be taught that the people of the United States are not better than the peoples of the Old World.

Mentally and morally that may be so. Politically it is not. The principles of representative government first firmly rooted in American soil still hold us politically separate from and superior to the rest of the world, and it will be a dark day for the Western Hemisphere if ever the word "patriotism" loses its Fourth-of-July significance.

I, for one, am sick and tired of the preaching of idiotic and impossible world mergers in which the United States would be required to furnish all the vitality and degenerate or half-liberated foreigners would furnish nothing to help either themselves or us.

America is the light of the world. Any nation is free to light its torch of liberty from the splendid flame that glows in this free Western World. If it does not have sense or patriotism enough to be free, I do not propose to give it a voice in regulating American policy. AN AMERICAN.

Average Motorist Not Competent to Meet Emergencies When Making High Speed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This is to let you know that I am in full accord with the letter-writer who says that driving skill on the part of the public is a desideratum for traffic safety. He is right in the assertion that the average motorist is not competent to drive at high speed in emergencies, which constantly arise.

In the pride of their speed there are some really expert chauffeurs who impatiently blame the pedestrian for the major portion of the traffic death toll.

The assumption is absurd and would not be tolerated if we were not all of us motorists with our minds still centered on "getting there."

Any expert who will take a day off for observation at any crossing where there is much traffic, with no traffic cop to keep pedestrians guessing, will admit that pedestrians are extremely careful. Young children are, as a rule, more careful than their seniors.

Walking comes naturally to most of us, and most of us are to a considerable extent in the face of danger. This can not be said of more than half of those who drive automobiles.

If motorists were only half as competent, careful and considerate as pedestrians, a highway safety commission would hardly be necessary.

STEEL HEAD SILENT ON MILLION SALARY

Grace Declines to Confirm Report at Bethlehem Merger Hearing.

SCHWAB ALSO TESTIFIES

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Eugene P. Grace may or may not get a million dollars a year as president of the Bethlehem Steel Co., but he wouldn't confirm the report today for the lawyers of minority stockholders of the youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. who are opposing merger of the two organizations.

Grace and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem company, both made depositions today for use in the action brought by the minority stockholders in Ohio to void the merger.

The complaining stockholders, among whom are Cyrus Eaton and the Otis company, assert that the merger is illegal in that Bethlehem money was used to procure proxies. They also allege that stockholders who voted for the merger would not have done so if the fact had not been withheld from them that certain high officials of Bethlehem received million dollar salaries at the expense of the stockholders.

Testimony By Schwab.

Schwab's testimony was brief and he was not asked about salaries, but that question came up shortly after Grace took the stand. On advice of counsel, Grace said he did not care to discuss his own salary or that of his associates, but added that he intended to be present at the trial and would answer such questions then if the judge told him to.

The depositions were taken here in advance of trial because a subpena from the Ohio court would not be effective here, but both Grace and Schwab said today they would be at the trial and available for testimony whenever called.

In brief, Schwab's testimony was that he had had nothing to do with the negotiations which led to the merger and that he had seen only one stockholder about voting in favor of the combination. At the request of Grace, he said, he had paid a visit to Julian Kennedy, a personal friend of long standing, who was a large stockholder. Kennedy told him that his stock was for sale, mentioning first $200 a share and finally $180.

Grace Denies Proxy Charge.

Schwab said he told him that of course Bethlehem could not and would not purchase the stock, but asked until noon of the following day to find a purchaser. Kennedy agreed to this and Schwab reported to Grace. He had nothing more to do with the matter, he said, but understod that the Kennedy stock was sold at $180 a share.

Grace testified the merger negotiations were initiated by Youngstown Co. officials and he took an active part in them. He said no Bethlehem money was spent for proxies and Bethlehem did not manipulate its stock in operations designed to assure the merger. He was aware, he said, the Pickands Mather Co., which operates some of the Bethlehem mines under contract, was purchasing stock in the market to vote in favor of the merger.

New York Broker Testifies.

The third witness of the day was G. M. P. Murphy, New York broker, who said he was asked to buy stock that could be voted for the merger at a dinner here attended by officials of the Pickands Mather Co. and among others Schwab, Grace and R. B. McMath, Bethlehem finance director. He said Schwab did not take part in the conversation but Grace did. He did not remember who suggested picking the stock up.

Although the stock was to be bought for Pickands Mather he said he was given to understand that if he needed any advice he could go to McMath, which he did. He said he was able to buy only 1,200 shares at the market price, to vote for the merger, but later sold 13,000 shares delivered to him by Pickands Mather, "presumably to depress the market."

MRS. MORROW CUTS SPEAKING SCHEDULE

tarily, that grew out of the presence of nurses at the home of Ambassador Morrow and a canceled tea engagement by Mrs. Morrow, were set to rest today with the explanation that Miss Elisabeth Morrow, sister of Mrs. Lindbergh, is suffering from fatigue and heart trouble after her return from Europe.

The nurses are in attendance on Miss Morrow, it was explained, although her illness is not confining her to bed, and the engagement was broken so that Mrs. Morrow could stay at home with her. Every move of the Lindbergs and Morrows has been closely fololwed by a whole Nation interestedly awaiting the birth of their heir. Mrs. Morrow's failure to appear at the tea therefore filled the air with rumors that the young Lindbergh would arrive within a day.

When Mrs. W. Howard Demarest, hostess at the tea in Essex Fells, announced Mrs. Morrow was "unavoidably detained at her home in Englewood," fast-guessing observers put this together with the appearance of nurses on the Morrow veranda and thought of a Lindbergh heir.

Mrs. Lindbergh, however, was still about today and went automobile riding in the morning with her mother. Col. Lindbergh is staying close to his wife's side and his plane has not stirred for days out of its hangar at Newark Airport.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

IF the Senate Democrats had the least bit of feeling for their fellow man they would go ahead and pass the tariff bill and relieve Senator Dill's distress.

Is it possible that they can't see that he is suffering, that the man is in the bitter pangs of remorse, that he has a terrible hang-over from a vote debauch? He is not used to doing what he did the other day when he traded his vote on the flexible provision for a rate on lumber. So it is going all the harder with him now.

The man is verging on the depths of despair.

* * * *

TWICE now he has called out to his fellow senators to go ahead and get rid of the tariff bill. He has called out hysterically, beseechingly and run his hand through his hair.

It is brutal for his Democratic colleagues to give him no response. They would give the impression that they have never suffered in the same way, that a great depression had never come over them for something they had done the night before.

They would make believe they do not know the pangs of conscience; that their ears have never thundered with the tauntings of little red devils, legions of them.

INDEED, they would give the impression that they have never experienced the sudden rise of the pit of the stomach, followed by a quickening pulse and beads of perspiration on the brow.

It ill befits them, though, to act as if they had never tasted of the cup of wrongdoing, never drunk too deep a draught.

Come, men, hark back over your experience, refresh your memory. Recall how you've gone to the high window and stared at the streets below and then called for someone to hold you lest you jumped out.

* * * *

LEND your fellow senator a helping hand. Don't taunt him. He is standing by the window of the night and praying for the sun to come up.

A man's nerves are in no condition to be trifled with at such a time as this.

Conscience is a vindictive thing, relentless in its punishment, merciless in its compensating demands. Go ahead, take Senator Dill by the arm; you've no idea how comforting is such a touch at such a time. His condition is serious.

He is suffering the d t's of doubt.

HOUSE PASSES BILL PUTTING CURB UPON TRIAL BY JURY

modified from the original recommendation of Chairman Wickersham and his commission.

After opponents to the commission bill failed, 225 to 157, to send the measure back to the committee, the administration followers, aided by many Democratic drys, passed the measure on a record vote of 218 to 117. It now goes to the Senate with the other three measures.

Chairman Graham, of the House judiciary committee, became the target of a personal attack as a wet when he dramatically declared on the floor he opposed the bill because he thought it was useless and that through the appointment of additional Federal judges. However, shortly before the final vote he said the measure should be given a trial and that if it did not obtain the desired results it could be changed by a later Congress.

His statement came after the House had amended the measure to permit juryless handling of all petty offenses before United States commissioners and to allow a defendant to appeal for either a trial by jury or a judge, and fixing a limitation on the amount of fees to be collected by commissioners for pleas of not guilty.

Representative Michener, Republican, Michigan, a dry member of the committee, precipitated the attack on Graham when he charged the Pennsylvanian had governed the time of the proponents of the measure.

Graham replied that he had used the time of opponents in denouncing the measure and added that "no gentleman of proper instincts will question my decision."

Representative McKeown (Democrat), Oklahoma, a dry, said the Pennsylvanian had tried to delay action on the legislation.

Michener contended it was time to give the President and the Attorney General the legislation they asked.

The opposition was led by a group of dry Democratic members on the judiciary committee, including Representatives Sumners of Texas, Browning of Tennessee, Tucker and Montague of Virginia, who declared the measure would hinder enforcement by cluttering up the procedure. Some contended it to be unconstitutional.

Representative La Guardia, Republican, a wet, conducted a vigorous fight against the measure on constitutional grounds.

There were 163 Republicans, 54 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Labor voting for the bill and 72 Democrats and 45 Republicans voting against it.

OUTBREAKS IN INDIA SUCCEEDED BY QUIET

Burning of Bank in Delhi Is Only Suspicious Event in Gandhi Drive.

AID OF MOSLEMS LOOMS

Bombay, India, June 4 (A.P.).—India's intermittent fever of discontent swung back today to its quiet phase following 24 hours of bitter clashes between police and followers of Mahatma Gandhi's program of passive resistance to British authority.

From the Punjab to Madras there was a paucity of either news or events. Only in Delhi was a suspicious incident reported, burning of the National Bank of India and several shops, with damage of about $550,000.

The fire was in the Chandi Chowk, principal street, where some days ago serious rioting occurred. Its cause was not made known.

Politically the congress volunteers believed their position strengthened today by alignment with them of a strong section of Moslem senfiment. This was expressed in a mile-long parade of Moslems in the streets of Bombay and the adoption, afterward in a mass meeting, of a resolution supporting the all-India national congress program.

The group appealed to all their fellows to support the Mahatma Gandhi civil resistance movement and boycott British goods. It also declared that so long as the congress and the Moslem Council did not support the impending round table conference, no Moslem should attend it.

The action indicated a decided change of heart by the Moslem wing of the population.

Troops today were withdrawn from the Worli salt raiders' interment camp where yesterday 88 persons were injured. The rioting occurred when Hindu women tried to bar troops from repairing the pen's barbed-wire entanglements. Volunteers had escaped its confines in a concerted rush. Heavily armed police remained in the vicinity.

In salt rioting at Cholinganallur yesterday 20 persons were hurt, Madras reported.

Rangoon, too, was quiescent. Both Hindu and Burmese laborers have resumed work where last week dock strike riots caused bitter and fatal encounters with the authorities.

Rawalpindi reported that Sardul Singh, president of the Punjab Congress committee, has been arrested for sedition and taken to Lahore. He was one of V. J. Patel's appointees. His mission was investigation of the recent Peshawar disturbances, which the government tabooed. The official inquiry into the riots now has been concluded, the committee announced.

G. W. U. Gets $500,000 By Will of R. E. Pairo

Richard E. Pairo, lawyer and alumnus of George Washington University, left $500,000 to the institution for athletic developments, according to the petition for the probate of the will filed yesterday in istrict Supreme Court.

Mr. Pairo, who died May 21, left special bequests totaling $200,000 and the bulk of his property to the university. His executors, the Union Trust Co. and Paul V. Rogers, yesterday filed a schedule of the estate which shows that the total property is valued at $738,071.

NATIONALS BEATEN BY CHINESE REBELS

Yangtse Valley Devastated by Large Forces of Bandit Troops.

RETIRE BEFORE ATTACK

Shanghai, June 4 (A.P.).—Nationalist government forces were defeated today in heavy fighting both in Honan and Shantung Provinces, according to Japanese dispatches, and retreated before northern alliance rebels. Four hundred thousand men are battling in this area to determine the future government of China.

Bandit armies, devasting the Yangtse valley, cut telegraphic communications, shutting off news from areas about Chengchow, Honan Province, and Changsha, Hunan Province, where the Nationalists were hard pressed by rebels yesterday.

Menaced On Four Fronts

Menaced on four battle fronts by rebellion, with bandit and communistic armies ravaging several provinces, the Nationalist government was struggling to maintain itself despite a depleted treasury, crop failures and demoralized business.

Heavily reinforced along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway in northern Honan, the northerners inflicted a severe reverse upon the Nationalists and forced them to retreat. The action was a continuance of the rebels' general offensive begun yesterday along the railway where the opposing armies battled since May 8.

In northern Shantung, also, the Nationalists gave way before the Northerners onslaughts. Retreating across the Yellow River, the government troops destroyed a span of the railroad bridge to halt the enemy's advance upon Tsinan. Japanese residents of the city fled by railroad to Tsingtao, on the coast.

Americans Warned to Leave.

Americans in Anhwei Province, north of Pukow, were warned by their consular representatives at Nanking to quit the "danger zone." This area is behind the lines of the Nationalist armies and would be swept over by the contending forces should the government troops retreat.

An Amazing Invention

The Most Talked About Hygienic Aid for Women of the Day. Totally Different. Banishes All Chafing, All Discomfort from Women's Hygiene

Pure RAYON Cellulose Filled. Soft and Gentle as Fluffed Silk—Effective 3 Times Longer

THERE is now an utterly new and totally different hygiene for women.

Not merely another sanitary pad, but an invention of world-wide importance to women.

A sanitary napkin that is new in design. New in material. New and remarkable in the results that it gives.

Women by the thousands are discarding old-type pads and adopting it... For it does two things no other pad made now or ever made can claim.

Ends All Chafing—All Irritation!

Developed in the world-famed laboratories that cradled the Rayon industry, it is filled with pure RAYON cellulose. thus it cannot chafe or irritate. Hence, no more discomfort, no more irritation from wearing a sanitary pad! Consider what this means.

Its softness is the gentle softness of Fluffed Silk. Its "feel," a contrast that once you experience, will keep you forever from the irritating old ways. Try it. What you find will amaze you.

Patented under U. S. Patents (U. S. Pat. No. 1702530) it is different from any other pad. No other pad accomplishes its results.

A new and totally different sanitary protection

Wear In Safety Hours Longer

Made under an exclusive process, it is 10 or more times more absorbent than any other sanitary pad now known or ever known to women.

Thus it can be worn in complete safety and protection hours longer than any other pad yet developed. Consider, too, what this means.

Specially treated, its deodorizing power is far greater than that of any other pad—and thus ends even slightest danger of offense. Discards, of course, easily as tissue.

ACCEPT TRIAL

Go today to any drug or department store. Obtain a box of Veldown. Use six. Then—if you don't feel that it is a Vast and Great Improvement on any other pad you have ever worn, return it—and receive your full purchase price back.

Senor Arcaya May Succeed To Envoy Post

Minister of Venezuela Quits Legation in Capital.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHEN Senor Don Carlos F. Grisanti, Minister of Venezuela, left Washington a few weeks—or was it months?—ago for Carracas, it was thought that he was merely going home for a holiday. He took his eldest daughter with him, but left Senora de Grisanti and the other girls in Washington as hostages for his return. Now, however, it develops that there is to be a change of ministers, so Senora de Grisanti and her daughters will sail for Venezuela on June 25, leaving Washington a few days before.

Dispatches from Carracas, which brought news of Dr. Grisanti's transfer, suggested that his successor would be Senor Don Pedro Manuel Arcaya, who has previously served as Venezuela's Minister in Washington. And the supposition is that formal announcement of Senor Arcaya's appointment will be made as soon as he has been declared persona grata by the State Department. For a while Senor Arcaya was in the Venezuelan cabinet, from which he retired—or was retired—last May. Since then Senor and Senora de Arcaya have been in Europe, but they landed in New York just the other day as rumors of Senor Arcaya's choice for the post at Washington were beginning to get about.

Senor Arcaya is a most scholarly person and owns one of the finest libraries in South America. Thousands of volumes in a score of languages cover such a range of subjects as law, literature and the arts. They are arranged on specially built shelves, the rich bindings contributing materially to the charm of the great room which is the heart of Senor and Senora de Arcaya's enormous and very beautiful house in the Venezuelan capital. Senor and Senora de Arcaya have a large family, but details as to the names and ages of their children have not yet penetrated to Washington.

Mrs. Means Is Wed To Mr. Presley Morgan.

The marriage of Mrs. Constance Gardner Means, of Philadelphia, to Mr. Presley Morgan, also a Philadelphian, but who is a member of the Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs of Washington, was announced yesterday in the Pennsylvania city.

Mrs. Means is a daughter of the late Representative Augustus Peabody Gardner, of Massachusetts, and a granddaughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts. Her mother is the wife of Gen. Clarence C. Williams, U. S. A., retired, of Washington.

Mr. Taylor is a descendant of Gen. Daniel Morgan, of Revolutionary fame, and a son of the late Admiral Harry C. Taylor. His brothers-in-law are Admiral J. V. Chase, new commander in chief of the United States Fleet, and Capt. W. R. Gherardi, of the Naval General Board. He graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1908 and in the World War served as first lieutenant in the Royal Engineers of the British Expeditionary Force. He received the Belgian Croix de Guerre.

Mr. Taylor, who is a consulting engineer, and his bride will live at 2008 DeLancey street, in Philadelphia, taking up their residence there in the fall.

Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, has gone to Denver, Colo., to make an address on June 10 before the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Before returning to Washington she will make a brief visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Othman Abbott at their home in Grand Island, Nebr. Mr. Abbott, who is now 88 years young, was the first lieutenant governor of Nebraska.

Miss Abbott's name has been appearing in the headlines of late as a possible successor to Mr. James J. Davis as Secretary of Labor. Her appointment is being urged upon President Hoover by many who admire Miss Abbott's ability and who feel that it is about time the United States followed Great Britain's cue and appointed a woman to the Cabinet.

Mr and Mrs. Charles C. Glover, jr., entertained yesterday at a delightful garden tea at Orchard Hill, their charming country home.

Capt. R. C. Mac Fall, U. S. N. and Mrs. Mac Fall announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Beekman Mac Fall, to Ensign George M. Holley, U. S. N., son of the late Col. G. M. Holley, U. S. A., and Mrs. Holley. Ensign Holley is of the class of 1930, U. S. N. A.

No immediate date has been set for the wedding.

The Charge d'Affaires of Egypt and Mme. Ali Ismail Bey have issued invitations for a luncheon on Saturday at the Legation.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaefer, of Cape Charles, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Josephine Shaefer, to Mr. Mangum Weeks, of 3445 Newark street. Miss Schaefer has been studying at the Sorbonne in Paris, and the wedding will take place in London on June 21.

Mr. Weeks is the son of Mrs. Stephen B. Weeks and the late Dr. Weeks. His father, who was a native of North Carolina, served with the United States Bureau of Education and was at one time on the faculty of Duke University. After serving as Assistant Solicitor of the State Department Mr. Weeks is now an attorney with the United States Board of Tax Appeals. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and took postgraduate work at Harvard and Johns Hopkins. Mr. Weeks belongs to the Metropolitan Club, the Washington Golf and Country Club and the Harvard Clubs of Boston and New York.

The Ambassador of Germany and Frau von Prittwitz und Gaffron have returned to Washington from Philadelphia, where they made a brief visit. They also visited Lakehurst to inspect the Graf Zeppelin.

In honor of Mrs. Joseph F. Frelinghuysen and Miss Emily Frelinghuysen, wife and daughter of the Republican candidate for nomination to the Senate from New Jersey, a reception will be given this afternoon at the Frelinghuysen headquarters in Park place, Newark. The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Essex County Frelinghuysen Association, with Miss Gladys W. Mahew as hostess.

Maj. Gen. J. H. Russell Arrives in Capital.

Maj. Gen. John H. Russell, United States High Commissioner in Haiti, has arrived in Washington and is at the Powhatan. Mrs. Russell will join Gen. Russell today.

Mrs. Everett Sanders has returned to the Mayflower from a visit to her home in Terre Haute, Ind.

A garden bridge party will be given this afternoon from 2:30 to 6 o'clock at the headquarters of the National Woman's Party.

The Alpha Phi Chapter of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority at George Washington University will entertain at a garden supper in honor of their parents and patronesses, on Thursday, June 5, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Watkins in Chevy Chase.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Louis Smith, of Riverdale, Md., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Mary Smith, to Col. George Williams, Cavalry, U. S. A. The wedding took place on Monday in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Col. Francis Amory Pope, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., has returned to Washington after an extensive trip through the South, and is a guest at the Mayflower.

Col. Pope will be one of the speakers at the graduation exercises of the Army Engineer School on Friday at Fort Humphreys, Va., and next week he will attend the reunion of his class at West Point.

Engagement to Ensign Announced

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS BARBARA MACFALL, daughter of Capt. MacFall, U. S. N., and Mrs. MacFall, whose engagement to Ensign George M. Holley is announced.

Mrs. Charles C. Teague Is Hostess to Daughter.

Mrs. Charles C. Teague entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower in compliment to her daughter, Mrs. John Henry Cox, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Allan McKevett and her daughter, Miss Ruth McKevett, all of Santa Paula, Calif.

The company included Mrs. Joe Crail, Mrs. James Stone, Mrs. Charles S. Wilson and her mother and aunt, Mrs. Ella P. Miller, of Ithaca, and Mrs. Ismond Knapp, of Pensacola; also Mrs. Carl Williams and her sister, Miss Clara Bates, and house guests, Miss True Gossette, of Oklahoma City, and Mrs. F. Coulter, of San Antonio; Mrs. Stanley Reed, Mrs. William Jardine, Mrs. Cyrus Denman, Mrs. Christian Christensen, Mrs. Karl Loos and her mother, Mrs. Ella R. Harries; Mrs. Wilson Compton and her mother, Mrs. N. R. Harrington, of Toledo, Ohio, and mother-in-law, Mrs. Elias Compton, of Wooster, Ohio.

The Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, Mr. F. Trubee Davison, has returned to Washington from Long Island, where he accompanied Mrs. Davison and their four sons to their home, on Peacock Point, at Locust Valley, where they will spend the summer. The Secretary will join his family for week-ends during the summer season.

Representative Graham Returns to Capital.

Representative George S. Graham, of Pennsylvania, has returned to the Powhatan after a brief absence.

Mrs. Arthur Foraker and her children have returned to Washington from Bryn Mawr, Pa., where they passed several days with Mr. and Mrs F. King Wainwright. Mrs. Foraker and the children will leave next Thursday for their summer home in Monterey, Pa. Mr. Foraker will pass much of the summer there with them.

Representative Anthony J. Griffin has returned to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel from New York.

Olaya Taken For Britisher By Bystander

Amusing Incident Occurs During Trip to Arlington.

No wonder enterprising newspaper publishers print picture papers for Americans who can't—or don't—read! With Dr. Enrique Olaya, President-elect of Colombia, heralded for days on the front pages of the papers as the guest of the Nation, here's a verbatim report of an incident which occurred yesterday as his official cortege was wending its way out Virginia avenue en route to Mount Vernon and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A little knot of people had gathered, attracted by official cars, uniforms of aids, police guards and the general holiday air of the little cavalcade. "What's all this about?" queried one of the spectators, to be answered with "Oh, that's the president of British Columbia. He arrived in town yesterday and they're taking him sightseeing."

After a day devoted to the two pilgrimages, which are part of the program of every visiting dignitary, Dr. Olaya was entertained at dinner last evening by the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson. The dinner was given at Woodley for a distinguished company of men. The guests, beside the president-elect of Colombia, were Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War; Senator Claude A. Swanson, Representative John Q. Tilson, Representative J. Mayhew Wainwright, Mr. Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State; Mr. Jefferson Caffery, United States Minister to Colombia; Mr. Warren Delano Robbins, United States Minister to El Salvador; Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan-American Union; Senor Don Jose M. Coronado, First Secretary of the Legation of Colombia; Mr. Dana G. Munro, chief of the Division of Latin-American Affairs of the State Department; Lieutenant Alfred Duarte, Colombian aid to the president-elect; Col. Harvey W. Miller and Commodore Harry L. Pence, American military and naval aids; Dr. Juan Lozano, Capt. Eugene A. Regnier and Mr. Richard Southgate.

To Be London Bride

Edmonston.

MISS JOSEPHINE SHAEFER, who will be married on June 21 in London to Mr. Mangum Weeks, of the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shaefer, of Cape Charles, Va.

Moran-Gary Betrothal Is Announced

Wedding Will Take Place Some Time During This Month.

Mr. and Mrs. Hampson Gary have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Gary, to Mr. Bernard Austin Moran, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Austin Moran, of 983 Park avenue, New York.

Miss Gary attended Holton Arms and Miss Porter's School, Farmington, Conn., and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Moran attended Exeter and Amherst. Owing to the recent death of Mr. Moran's mother, only members of the two families and a few intimate friends will attend the wedding, which will take place some time this month.

Miss Gary made her debut in Washington and has been a great belle. She has traveled extensively and as a youngster lived much abroad, her father having been at one time United States Minister to Switzerland and having served as Minister Resident in Egypt.

Miss Sullivan Chosen To Be Bridesmaid.

Miss Catherine Louise Mannix, whose marriage to Mr. Francis Richard Doherty, of White Plains, N. Y., will take place at noon on Saturday at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, has chosen Miss Rita H. Sullivan as her maid of honor, and for her bridesmaids Mrs. James Monroe Clark, of White Plains, sister of Mr. Doherty; Miss Agatha Waldron, Miss Rosemary Sullivan and Miss Anne Mannix. Mr. Doherty will have as his best man, Mr. James F. Donahue, and the ushers will include Dr. James Monroe Clark, Mr. Stewart Snow, Dr. Joseph T. Mitchell, all of White Plains, and Mr. Harold F. Tracy, of Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger will come from Port Washington, Long Island, on Monday and will be at the Wardman Park Hotel, where she has taken an apartment.

Mr. Holbrook And Miss Herr To Wed Here

Military Aspect Will Be Lent to Ceremony at Cathedral.

The wedding of Miss Helen Hoyle Herr, daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. John Knowles Herr, and Lieut. Willard Ames Holbrook, jr., son of Gen. Willard Holbrook, will take place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral.

Miss Herr will have as her only attendant her sister, Miss Fanny Herr, who will be maid of honor. Lieut. Holbrook has selected a number of brother-officers for his groomsmen. This will be a military wedding, with officers in dress uniforms forming an arch of sabers for the bridal couple to pass under leaving the church.

Last evening, Miss Elizabeth Sladen, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Fred W. Sladen, entertained at a dinner dance at Chevy Chase Club in honor of Miss Herr and Lieut. Holbrook.

Miss Louise Redfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Redfield, of Smethport, Pa., and Ensign John Volney McAlpin, U. S. N., were married at noon yesterday at the Washington Cathedral, the Rev. William E. Van Dyke, uncle of the bride, and rector of St. Luke's Church, Smethport, officiating.

The bride, who graduated last year from Mount Vernon Seminary, wore a gown of gray crepe trimmed with gray lace, with hat and shoes to match, and carried a bouquet of violets and lilies of the valley.

Miss Janet Redfield, of Syracuse, N. Y., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Robert Redfield, brother of the bride, was best man.

Among those present at the wedding and at the breakfast that followed at the Mayflower, in addition to the members of the bridal party, were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Redfield; the bridegroom's parents, Commander and Mrs. John B. McAlpin, of Norfolk, Va.; the Rev. and Mrs. William E. VanDyke, Mrs. Harriet Gillett and her daughter, Miss Phyllis Gillett; Miss Clarissa Backus, Miss Ada Studholme, Miss Marion Newman, and Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. McCoy, all of Smethport; Mrs. Evarts Stevens, jr., of Wallingford, Conn.; Mr. Hamlin D. Redfield, of New York City; Commander Ronald Barbet, U. S. N., and Mr. Robert Austin, of Washington.

Ensign McAlpin is on duty aboard the U. S. S. Pensacola, that has just returned from a Southern cruise, and will be in Newport for the summer.

Miss N. G. Reed entertained a party of nine at luncheon yesterday in the garden restaurant of the Carlton.

Mrs. Frederick J. Haskins also entertained a small company at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

First Lady Lunches With Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Hoover was a luncheon guest yesterday of Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of the Secretary of Labor, who also entertained the wives of members of the Cabinet. Mrs. Stark McMullin and Miss Susan L. Dyer, White House guests, and Mrs. Hannah Jones, of Sharon, Pa., sister of Secretary Davis, who is staying with Mrs. Davis, were also in the little company. It was the first time since she was injured that Mrs. Hoover has left the White House for any festivity.

FAILING GRAY RANKS NEAR END OF MARCH

Confederate Veterans Set Only Two More Reunions on Future Program.

BILOXI ECHOES YELLS

Biloxi, Miss., June 4 (A.P.).—With the end probably only two years hence, veterans today took their fun where they found it to make the fortieth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans one to stand out in memory.

The finger of finality was lifted in bold relief today as tentative agreement was reached for Montgomery to entertain the next reunion, with one more being held in 1932 at Houston, where taps would be sounded in solemn note on these annual pilgrimages of the "rebel yellers."

Undismayed by the sign of the end, the gray-haired, gray-bearded and gray-dressed soldiers, scattered over the Gulf coast in slower motion but in the same spirit as boys on a lark. They paid their respects to the official reunion by attending the main sessions, but broke in all directions at the first signal of adjournment.

Glory Revealed in Sons.

They clamored to get into the talking motion pictures and at the slightest invitations put on their pet acts before the cameramen. The army of Boy Scouts were kept on the alert keeping them from harm and guiding them back to their tents.

But they paused in their merry-making when their commander in chief, Gen. R. A. Sneed, mounted the rostrum.

"Great in war, you were even greater in peace," the commander told his troops. "By the exercise of wise patience and statesmanship, by the display of the same gallantry that characterized you at Manassas, Shiloh, Gettysburg and the Wilderness, you wrested Dixie Land from the tragic era of reconstruction rule, with its reign of ignorance, mongrelism and depravity, and established once and for all on Southern soil the incontrovertible doctrine of white supremacy.

"As loyal citizens of the reunited country, we can proudly claim, in the light of the achievements of the boys in khaki at Chateau Thierry, the Argonne, Belleau Woods, the sons and grandsons of the brave men who followed Lee and Grant, Jackson and Thomas, had no superiors in ancient or modern history, for they possessed the mighty heritage of the spirit of their illustrious forbears in the titanic struggle of the War Between the States."

Davis Library Proposed.

While the veterans met under their big canvas top, the Sons of the United Confederate Veterans and the Southern Confederate Memorial Association assembled in separate sessions.

Proposal was made by the sons to establish a permanent Confederate library at Beauvoir, Jefferson Davis' home, and committees were named for the convention's business.

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder spoke to the Memorial Association and Miss Anna Davis Smith, niece of Jefferson Davis, addressed the women in a clear voice, despite her 98 years.

Gen. John N Johnson, commander in chief of the Eastern Department of the Forrest Cavalry, Chattanooga, Tenn., was elected commander in chief of the Forrest Cavalry today. He succeeds William A. Collier, of Memphis.

Victim of "Kidnaping" Is Released From Jail

Cairo, Ill., June 4 (A.P.).—After spending a night in jail here for observation by physicians, Lawrence J. Miller, Maperville, Ill., contractor, left for his home today with Du Page County, Ill., officials to whom he insisted his weird tales of kidnaping and torture were not exaggerated, despite belief of Sheriff Lawrence Bunch, of Cairo, that Miller was suffering from hallucinations.

Miller, who had been missing from his home since May 21, yesterday appeared in two southeast Missouri towns. He had been stabbed, and told stories of being kidnaped, robbed of $1,100 and tortured before he escaped from his captors after killing one of them with a jack handle. Missouri officials were unable to verify the killing, which Miller said occurred about 50 miles south of Sikeston.

Personal Contact Bond Of Peace, Massey Asserts

New Principle in International Relations Erected by United States and Canada, Retiring Dominion Minister Asserts, Praising Mutual Understanding.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Personal contact as a principle of international peace has been erected by the peoples of Canada and the United States, Vincent Massey, retiring Minister to Washington, told the Pilgrims of New York tonight.

"We have learned to know and understand each other," he said. "We can appreciate each other's point of view, and the reasons which lie behind it. We are even capable of understanding each other's jokes, and that, as some one has wisely said, is the ultimate test of mutual understanding. It is not an extravagance to say that we have erected personal contact into a principle of international relations.

"It is, of course, inevitable that questions should occasionally arise between us which might tend to create misunderstanding. It would not be the part of candor to overlook them. The open recognition of such problems is the first step toward their solution. The issues which now and then disturb us, as a matter of fact, are the product of our very intimacy and the intricacy of our relations. But what may ruffle the surface need not disturb the depths."

The Canadian minister saw relations between the British Empire and the United States as on a truer, sounder basis than they had been for many years.

"It is marked by no formal alliance," he said. "That we readily reject as inappropriate; but it is marked by a deepened friendship, a strengthened mutual comprehension."

Mr. Massey is retiring as minister to the United States to become high commissioner for the Dominion in London.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Here is the favorite sports frock for junior miss.

It is exactly like older sister's frock.

It expresses the nautical influence in white pique with sailor blue monogram motif. The belt shows machine stitching in blue and is fastened with blue buckle.

Any little girl can make it. Just a one-piece front and one-piece back. The front shoulders are pin tucked. Each side seam below belt is pressed into inverted plait.

Style No. 8276 comes in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. It takes but 2⅛ yards of 32-inch material for the 12 year size. The cost is outstandingly small.

Peach-pink shantung, white cotton broadcloth with vivid red dots, nile green linen, men's cotton striped shirting and printed tub silks make up nicely.

Emb. Monogram No. 11012 costs 15 cents extra.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Address Fashion Dept., The Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

PENROD IS BACK!

Our Favorite Kid Returns

Here's Penrod back — after 14 years—the same age—but in his best book yet. Note the badge he is showing Marjorie. It's important. For Penrod becomes The Detective of the bicycle age.

The Scoundrel's Den

With the help of his old pals, Sam Williams and Herman and Verman (the tongue-tied one), he trails a suspected horse thief to his lair in the Y.M.C.A. This leads to trouble.

The Carpenter Affair

"Why lots of boys can whip carpenters," says Penrod to Marjorie. He never explains why. We laughed out loud a dozen times reading this chapter. It's even funnier than anything in "Penrod" or "Penrod and Sam."

The Detective Captured

Finally they captured Penrod—but not until he'd roused the neighborhood. Many millions of people have been raised on the Penrod stories. Here is a new one to rouse the nation.

MIDSHIPMEN'S BALL CLIMAXES GAY WEEK

Secretary Adams Will Make Commencement Address at Exercises Today.

403 WILL GET DIPLOMAS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—The brilliance and splendor of the farewell ball tonight came as a fitting climax to the week of drills and social fraternities leading up to commencement day at the Naval Academy. The stage is all set for the ceremonies tomorrow when Charles F. Adams, Secretary of the Navy, will deliver the principal address and present diplomas to a class of 403 graduates. Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the academy, will preside and speak briefly in introducing the Naval Secretary.

Regimental dress parade this afternoon attracted an immense throng of visitors. The drill was featured by the presentation of numerous prizes for excellence in professional branches and athletics. There also were other minor awards. The drill marked the last time that the seniors will stack their guns in racks, for tomorrow they will march to Dahlgren Hall, scene of the commencement finals, in a group. The undergraduates, however, will be paraded under arms, and all traditional customs that attend graduation at the naval school will be enacted.

The farewell ball was held in Dahlgren Hall, commonly called the armory. The floor of the spacious structure was so crowded that it was anything but comfortable for dancing. Several thousand persons watched the milling of the dancers from the huge balconies as well as from the floor space near the walls. The decorations of flags and bunting and electrical effects provided an eye feast. The second classmen were hosts at the ball, and, according to custom, the president of the class, Midshipman Oscar Hagsberg, of Follansbee, W. Va., assisted Mrs. Robison, wife of the superintendent of the academy, in receiving the guests. Buffet supper was served along the colonnades and parkways nearby.

Dancing began at 9 o'clock and continued until midnight. It was estimated that dancers and onlookers numbered approximately 8,000.

Secretary Adams, accompanied by Mrs. Adams, arrived in Annapolis late this afternoon and were overnight guests of the Robisons. Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Ernest L. Jahncke, also are here and are staying at Carvel hall.

Based upon the number of requests made for the ball and commencement exercises, authorities of the academy said the number of visitors has been the greatest that has marked commencement days in a number of years.

WHOZIT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was a native of ancient Greece, born more than 400 years before the Christian era.
2. He was famous as a philosopher and military commander.
3. His native city having declared war on Sparta, he was placed in command of the army which defeated a much larger force of Spartans in the famous battle of Leuctra.
4. Later he overwhelmed the Spartans at the battle of Mantinea but was killed just after the victory had been assured.

Toscanini Ends Tour With U. S. Orchestra

London, June 4 (A.P.).—A triumphal concert in Queen's Hall tonight and a reception at the Carlton Hotel ended the European tour of Arturo Toscanini and his New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

At the reception Toscanini received a bronze placque from the concert master on behalf of the members of the orchestra. Toscanini now will visit Paris, Italy and St. Moritz, and later will conduct at Bayreuth.

MRS. HUGH CLARK, 60, DIES; G.O.P. OFFICIAL

National Committeewoman From Ohio Falls Dead After Giving Talk.

ARDENT HOOVER BACKER

Columbus, Ohio, June 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Hugh Clark, of Steubenville, Republican national committeewoman from Ohio, dropped dead in a hotel here late today.

Mrs. Clark, who was a former president of the State Auxiliary of the American Legion, had just completed addressing the Buckeye Republican Women Glee Club when she suffered a heart attack. She died within a few minutes after falling from her chair.

One son, member of a New York brokerage firm, survives. Mrs. Clark was 60 years old.

Mrs. Clark became national committeewoman from Ohio in 1928, succeeding Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Levan. Mrs. Clark had been a stanch supporter of Herbert Hoover for the presidential nomination during the Ohio presidential primary in April, 1928, and when the Ohio delegation balloted at Kansas City she was the choice for committeewoman.

For many years Mrs. Clark had been a powerful influence in the State Republican organization.

Mrs. Clark came here last night for the Glee Club meeting and appeared in good health until she collapsed. Mrs. Clark's husband, Hugh J. Clark, died ten years ago. He was president of the National Exchange Bank of Steubenville.

Canned Vegetables

—so rich in vitamins
—are more appetizing when Seasoned with Sugar

If you could watch and study the great canning companies at work you would make these amazing discoveries. First, the vegetables chosen are as fine as any fresh vegetables that ever came into your kitchen. Second, the scientific methods of cooking and packing conserve more of the vitamins and minerals than you can on your home range.

To get the utmost from these pure, wholesome canned vegetables, heat them rather than boil them. They don't need to be re-cooked. Then season to taste and serve.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is an ideal seasoning for all vegetables—canned or fresh. The sugar in this mixture heightens their flavor and makes them more enjoyable. And food that pleases the taste promotes the flow of gastric juices.

Doctors and dietitians approve the use of sugar as a flavor in the preparation of food for children and adults. For sugar makes most foods, which are carriers of roughage, vitamins and minerals, more enjoyable. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

SCIENTIFIC methods used by packers and canners insure a higher, uniform vitamin content than can be obtained on the home range.

Can You Do Your Housework?

If you are not as well as you want to be, if you are weak, nervous or rundown, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. Take at least three bottles. It will tone up your whole system and help you to eat better, sleep better and feel better.

Mrs. Marie Vriesenga, 2002 Lexington Ave., New York, New York.

"My work is keeping a rooming house in New York. I was weak and tired and didn't seem to feel well at all. Some friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it four times a day. It has helped me very much. I feel better in all ways now."

Ask Your Friends

Mrs. Paulina Pascuzzi, 316 Tremont Ave., East Orange, New Jersey

"I never had any appetite and I could not sleep well, and I was irregular and often suffered from headaches because of my age. I read a booklet left at my door, and so I took eight bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have also taken the Herb Medicine. I feel stronger in every way now. I have gained weight and am not nearly so nervous and can do my housework without getting too tired."

Edna Sluraff, 1129 DalySt., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

"I was completely rundown from nursing. I took four bottles of your medicine with very good results. I have been a nurse for twenty years without losing a patient, I am proud to say. I will continue to recommend any of the Lydia E. Pinkham products at any time and you may use my name."

WOMEN GAIN VOICE IN CHURCH AFFAIRS

Presbyterians Close 142d General Assembly in Cincinnati.

PITTSBURGH IS CHOSEN

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 4 (A.P.).—Marked by an important constitutional change, giving women a voice in the affairs of the Presbyterian Church, the 142d General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. was brought to a close today.

Next year the General Assembly will meet at Pittsburgh as the guest of the Shady Side Presbyterian Church.

The meeting officially wrote into the constitution an overture making women eligible for ordination as ruling elders in the local churches, presbyteries and synods. Two days after the change had been made the Presbyterian Church at Wauwatosa, Wis., elected a woman elder, the first to be ordained.

Unification gained impetus in the adoption of a report from the church cooperation and union department, looking to the merger of churches having the Presbyterian form of government. Principal among these are the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., the United Presbyterian Church and the Reformed Church of America. Further conferences are to be held during the year to promote the unification.

The 1930 assembly was marked by only one issue of general debate, a proposal to delete from the confession of faith the section prohibiting Presbyterians marrying with Catholics. By a small majority the move lost and the ban was retained.

A report regarded by theologians as an unusual document was adopted almost in toto, prevailing upon Presbyterian ministers to give instruction in sex and marriage problems to young people contemplating marriage.

Famed Nassak Dimond Requires Tariff, Ruling

The Nassak diamond is not an artistic antiquity and, therefore, is subject to the tariff on all imported jewels, 20 per cent of its value, the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals ruled yesterday. The diamond was imported in 1927 by E. F. Bendler, of New York and was admitted free by the customs officials on grounds it was an antique.

Appeal was filed by a New York firm of wholesale jewelers and the court's decision yesterday will require payment of duty on the diamond. The jewel once adorned the statue of the Goddess Shiva in India.

CAPITAL MEN HELD IN CHICKEN THEFTS

Franconio Man Routs Pair of Prowlers; Recovers Birds After Chase.

WILL FACE GRAND JURY

James Bayne and Roy Berry, giving their address as Eighth street, near H street northwest, Washington, were lodged in the Fairfax County jail last night to await action of the grand jury on a charge of chicken stealing.

According to Sheriff Eppa P. Kirby, of Fairfax County, Lee Smith, of Franconia, was awakened early Tuesday morning by the squawking of his chickens. Reaching for his shotgun, he looked out the window and saw two men in the moonlight at the door of his henhouse, passing fowls from one to the other. He fired a shot and hit one of the chickens being passed. The men fled. Smith fired another shot in their direction and then started down the road after them. A short way down the road he came upon a car with a crate of chickens which he identified as his property.

Sheriff Kirby was immediately notified and began search for the thieves. Tuesday morning the crate was identified as one that had been stolen from Eastern Market in Washington. The Maryland tags on the car were traced and it was discovered that the car had been reported stolen a short time before the sheriff communicated with the Washington police. When Bayne arrived in Fairfax yesterday to claim the car he was placed under arrest. Meanwhile Berry was also arrested on suspicion.

It is believed by the Fairfax authorities that the persons who stole the chickens are the ones that tried to break into the garage of George Smith at Springfield, and Mrs. W. Mitchell, at Lincolnia, a short time before they were fired upon by Smith.

The men were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie at Fairfax and held for the grand jury.

Blanton Campaign Inquiry Postponed

House Elections Group to Hear Clancy Charges in December.

A House elections committee yesterday postponed to December action on the Clancy resolution to investigate campaign advertisements of Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), of Texas.

Appearing before the committee, Mr. Blanton said that he did not know what his campaign managers had said in the advertisements.

The advertisements declared among other things that if Mr. Blanton were elected he would stop any "seals" that were attempted.

Representative Clancy (Republican) of Michigan, charged that the Texan had reflected on the integrity of every member of the House.

$2,000,000,000 Sought To Aid Unemployment

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was urged yesterday by the National Unemployment League to sponsor a Federal bond issue of from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 to be spent in road construction for the relief of unemployment.

Asserting business conditions have not improved during the spring as expected, Darwin J. Meserole, president of the league, recommended to the President expansion of the steps already taken to relieve the business depression.

FLOOD IN LOUISIANA BELIEVED AT CREST

Red River Levees Reported Holding as Stricken Areas Are Aided.

REID TO VIEW DISTRICTS

Alexandria, La., June 4 (A.P.).—Alexandria observers today expressed belief that the Red River flood was cresting here at 41.05 feet, as the river remained at that level throughout a large portion of the day in spite of a 2-inch rise reported over night at Boyce, 20 miles up the river. The river there was 5.05 feet above flood level with no additional breaks reported, but sandbags and planks were being used for strengthening levees in Rapides and Avoyelles parishes.

The main levees were holding and Alexandria was considered safe from the flood. A fertile section between here and Boyce is flooded because of a series of crevasses in the Bayou Rapides levee.

Heavy forces were in action on the Pineville side of the river, opposite Alexandria, where the river was at the top of the levees.

Workmen also were topping the banks at Echo, below Alexandria and the Ben Ruth Cross levee, southeast of here, while a crew was stationed to provide emergencies at Billy Bayou, 4 miles to the west.

Another crew labored all last night and succeeded in holding a portection levee on a plantation at Rapides Station. At Marksville in Avoyelles Parish the river was holding to its banks with the height of the flood still to pass.

Announcement was made today that Representative Frank R. Reid, chairman of the House flood control committee, would probably visit the Upper Red River Valley next week and personally inspect the needs of the section before the Red River flood control bill is taken up in Congress.

The stream through the upper area was falling steadily today between here and Boyce, but the Texas & Pacific Railroad had found it necessary to raise its tracks 6 inches at one point between Alexandria and Boyce because of the rising water from the Rapides Bayou break.

Relief work was being administered by the Red Cross as rapidly as possible with public appeals for additional funds and a resolution in the Legislature for a $25,000 appropriation awaiting action.

Hoover Presented With Safety Award

Louis Livingstone eSaman Medal Is Given by Museum Group.

(Associated Press)

The Louis Livingstone seaman gold medal yesterday was presented to President Hoover in recognition of his "outstanding contributions in the many fields of human service."

Award of the medal on behalf of the American Museum of Safety to the Chief Executive was decided upon before his nomination for the presidency, but the formal presentation was delayed.

Calling Mr. Hoover "the country's greatest benefactor," the committee said it felt that it would be impossible to "adequately express the extent to which you have contributed to the Nation's welfare and progress in enhancing standards of efficiency and higher ideals in human values, which in our judgment will always hold most constructive place in the economic life of the Nation."

The presentation was made by Arthur Williams, of New York, president of the museum, and A. A. Hopkins, and Lew Palmer, trustees.

GRAF ALTERS PLANS BECAUSE OF STORM

Graf's master, would not attempt to bring her down until visibility and other conditions insured a safe grounding.

Spanish officials and German agents repeated tonight that despite the storm they felt no alarm. They predicted that the Graf would finish her voyage to Seville "any time after 5 o'clock in the morning."

Citizens, however, made no effort to conceal their embarrassment over the untimely capers of the weather in their city, famous for its blue skies and tropical sun. The weather was more like blustery November in New York.

All night long crews were to be in readiness at the airport just outside the city. The field will not be Tablada, which is a sea of mud.

About 500 Spanish soldiers are on hand ready to haul the Graf down and bind her in to her mooring mast, where it is expected she will remain several hours before proceeding to Friedrichshafen.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—The New York American publishes a copyrighted dispatch from Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, aboard the dirigible Graf Zeppelin en route to Seville from Lakehurst, N. J. The dispatch says:

The Graf Zeppelin, pursuing its untroubled way home, will dock at Seville, Spain, and discharge passengers and mail tomorrow morning.

This became apparent late today when after the Azores were passed, speed was cut down by the wind to about 60 miles an hour, and Spain was still far away.

Chances for a record crossing went glimmering, but that made no difference to the 22 passengers, many of whom are enjoying their first Zeppelin tour.

The easy relaxation and sociability current on ocean going steamers is even easier aboard the Graf Zeppelin and already the traveling company is well acquainted.

Weather has been favorable, and we have enjoyed the panorama of ocean vistas rolling ever onward on all sides. The calm seas and the ever refreshing salt air has done wonders to quiet several cases of "nerves," which manifested themselves shortly after our takeoff.

We passed over Horta, the principal town of the Azores on the Island of Fayal, at 11 o'clock, Azores time, 8 o'clock Eastern standard time, after a record trip of 33 hours since we left Long Island.

We passed over the colorful little city quite low, and went along the Island of St. George and over Angra, giving the passengers a bird's-eye view of the beautiful little clusters called the Azores. At 1 p. m. local time, we left the island behind and headed for Cape Vincent. Seville was 1,000 miles away, but the weather chart indicated that the northerly cross-winds would aid us only slightly.

Ambulance Damaged by Blaze.

Reporters in U. S. Use Phone To Cover Australian Story

Woman, With Aid of Wireless, Tells Newspapermen in Schenectady of Amy Johnson Completing 19-Day Solo Flight From England to Sydney.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 4 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Two reporters, with the aid of one of America's most famous airwomen, established a new world record for long-distance reporting here this morning when they "covered" an aviation story in Australia by radio telephone. The story was the arrival in Sydney of Miss Amy Johnson, 27-year-old amateur British flyer, who has just been made a commander of the Order of the British Empire by King George as a result of her 19-day solo flight from England to Australia.

In a sense the reporters fell down on their assignment because they did not get their intended interview with Miss Johnson, but they did the next best thing by arranging to get it Friday morning and by manipulating things so that Miss Elinor Smith, holder of the world's altitude record for women, got all of the "dope" about Miss Johnson in a two-way 20-minute conversation over the 10,000-mile aerial circuit.

Miss Smith talked to "Miss Sydney," wife of Engineer A. P. McDonald, of the Amalgamated Wireless of Australia, Station VK-2-ME, from the General Electric Co.'s Bacandaga receiving station in Glenville. She discovered that Miss Johnson had been ordered to cancel practically all of her engagements and put to bed by her doctor for a few days' rest until she recuperated entirely from the strain of her arduous air voyage.

"Miss Sydney" described the English airwoman as having hair with a slightly reddish tinge, being 5 feet 3 inches tall and "very attractive." She added that "the place is quite mad about her and her wonderful achievement."

It was her impression, she said, that Miss Johnson would return with her plane by steamer for an air tour of the British Isles under auspices of the London Daily Mail, which, in common with other English newspapers, was skeptical of her Australian flight until she made it, and then hastened to sign her up for $50,000.

"Please tell Miss Johnson for me that I extend my personal congratulations on her wonderful feat and offer felicitations in the name of the pilots of America, both men and women," Miss Smith said. "Say to her also that I shall look forward with a great deal of pleasure to speaking with her in person during the Friday morning broadcast."

The conversation was carried over a land wire to New York City and broadcast through WJZ and a country-wide hook-up of stations by the National Broadcasting Co.

VIRGINIA PHILOSOPHER LAUDS PLAN TO DIE BY STARVING

and he, as he expressed it, "had to go to work."

For a few years he roamed, fulfilling a boyhood ambition, going to San Francisco. He sailed for Sidney, Australia, and later went to the southern part of Europe and to England. After a little more traveling in this country he settled at Mountain Hill and began farming.

Why is he committing suicide?

"Well, why not?" he parried in his feeble voice as he lay on a dirty iron bed in the attic of his two-room shack.

Anyway, why all the fuss about him? He has always been a man who attended to his own business, his neighbors will tell you, and he has always worked moderately hard, paying his debts regularly. He prefers being alone, and curious visitors, particularly preachers, tire him out with their arguments to save his soul.

Lost Faith Through Cheat.

"In the 27 years I have lived here," he told three ministers who called on him this week, "you are the first preachers who came to see me."

When they pleaded with him, as two young evangelists did today, he smiled sympathetically, much as a worldly-wise man might smile at children.

"Can we pray for you?" one of the evangelists asked after a futile 15 minutes of scripture-quoting.

"You may pray, but not for me," he countered. "Pray for yourselves and leave me alone. I'm happy."

A Bible salesman who cheated him on a sale was responsible, he says, for Mr. Davis' first disillusionment concerning religion. Reared in the Sunday school and church, he had paid $12 for a large Bible during his first year at prep school. The book it turned out, had been used considerably, was not what the salesman claimed.

"Then I began to see that Christians are just like other people," he said.

While not a great reader nowadays (yesterday he was reading old copies of Youths Companion), he liked children's stories, he said. He has evolved a philosophy and a religion.

Believes In God.

"Yes, I believe there is a God," he mused, "but He is only a spirit, a force, who hasn't time to be bothered by individuals. There may be a hereafter; I don't know; but if there is, I hope it will be a rebirth and that I will get another chance in this world."

And only then during his entire discourse did his lips quiver and his eyes become a bit watery. Further prodding into his private life, he blocked, however.

At the head of his bed stands a single-barrel shotgun, which, incidentally has served to make some of his ministerial visitors nervous. He had contemplated suicide by several methods, he said, and had decided in favor of starvation because it was "less messy" than violence.

While somewhat noncommunicative to a reporter, he has explained his reasons for his decision to die to Dr. Hughes. In the first place he is getting old—in the late sixties—and so far as he knows he has no living relatives and but few friends. Eighteen months ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis, and he recalls that his father was an invalid from a stroke for five years.

"My work is done," he said. "I have nothing more to live for, and I don't want to be a burden on my neighbors."

Home Willed to Girl.

His home and ten-acre farm he has willed to Hazel Mae Seay, 17-year-old granddaughter of Mrs. Josephine Miller, who is one of his oldest friends. Another neighbor has made all arrangements to have Davis buried in the Miller family cemetery.

Saturday has been chosen as his last, Mr. Davis said, because Terence MacSwiney, the Irish mayor of Cork, lived only 26 days when he went on hunger strike in prison.

The first week was the hardest, he related, but since then he has not felt the pangs of hunger. Friends have provided Davis with water. For the first week he remained up during the day, but since then he has not left his bedroom.

With a twinkle in his eye, he recalls his last meal. After deciding on his suicide method, he came to Danville and bought and consumed the following: A dozen bananas, a pound of mixed candy, two hamburger sandwiches, a bottle of milk.

"Now, please go away," he concluded his discourse. "I want to rest and think."

SOCIETY

Viscountess d'Alte, wife of the Minister of Portugal, has gone to New York to be the guest for a few days of her sister, Miss Frances Coleman.

Countess Szechenyi, wife of the Minister of New York, is at present in Newport, the guest of her mother, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at the Breakers. Count and Countess Szechenyi will have Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's Newport villa for most of the summer, the legation being established in Mount Vernon street.

Capt. and Mrs. John H. Gibbons left today by motor for their country home in Connecticut. They will spend the week-end at Garrison, N. Y., with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sloane.

Recital Planned By Pianists' Club.

The Washington Pianists' Club, an organization of young talent of this city and of Baltimore, will give a recital at the Arts Club this evening. Mrs. Martin A. Morrison, director of the Pianists' Club, will be guest of honor and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Van Valkenburg will be hosts.

Among those who will take part in the program are Miss Kathryn Latimer, Miss Sophie Snyder, Miss Helene Pinnacom, Miss Kathryn Beck, Miss Dorothy Hebley, Miss Leah Effenbach, Miss Katherine Morrison, Miss Virginia Shull, Glenn Carow and Edward Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Chapin Huntington have closed their house in Twenty-third street and are now at Journey's End, their mountain house near Bluemont, Va., for the summer months.

SEVENTH PRISONER HELD IN GEM THEFT

Jewelry Valued at $15,000 Found on Suspect Who Has Long Record.

FIVE INDICTMENTS FILED

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—A seventh prisoner and $15,000 in jewels were seized today by police in their round-up of an alleged nation-wide stolen-jewelry ring. The round-up already had yielded five men and one woman and an estimated $600,000 worth of gems.

The latest arrest was that of Max Nadel, 55, who has a long criminal record as a thief and pickpocket. In his pockets police said they found a three and a half carat diamond, after they arrested him. But they said he offered no objection to their taking from his safe deposit box the remainder of the $15,000 worth of jewelry seized. Several pieces in the box were alleged to have been stolen only yesterday from the home of Harry Reger, in Alden Park Manor, Philadelphia.

Before Nadel's arrest five of the six taken last week were indicted by a county grand jury on charges of grand larceny, feloniously bringing stolen property into the State and receiving stolen property.

Names of Suspects

They were William J. O'Connor, Buffalo fight promoter; Jack Rosen, identified as a Fifth avenue wholesale jeweler; Mrs. Hilda Carter, George Cole and James W. Watson. O'Connor and Rosen, already free under $25,000 bail, were arraigned on the indictment and again freed under the same bail.

The others were locked up. Mrs Carter had been free under $25,000 bail, but Cole and Watson were held without bail on suspicion of complicity in a murder and robbery at Hot Springs, Ark.

The sixth man, Robert Nelson, in whose safety deposit boxes police found jewelry valued at $500,000, also is free under $25,000 bail.

Adjournment Is Granted.

His case was called in magistrate's court today, but an adjournment was granted for a week. The district attorney said "this case has grown to such magnitude" that he wanted additional time in which to collect evidence. So far none of the Nelson jewelry has been identified as stolen.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Whether the safety deposit box in the First National Bank of Chicago, believed to contain $250,000 worth of stolen jewels, can be opened, depends upon information being brought to Chicago by a New York police sergeant. Chicago police assisting New York police in the round-up of a band of jewel thefts announced today that unless they could prove in court positive knowledge that contents of the deposit box contained stolen property, they would be powerless to open it.

Police believe the box contains one of the jewel cases of Robert Nelson, one-time Chicago bookmaker, arrested recently in New York in connection with jewel thefts. Boxes rented by him and associates in New York are reported to have yielded $1,300,000 worth of stolen jewelry.

Actress Again Divorces Moving Picture Director

Los Angeles, June 4 (A.P.).—Riza Royce, film actress, was granted a divorce again today from Josef Von Sternberg, movie director. The Superior Court approved a settlement giving her $25,000 cash and alimony of $1,200 monthly for five years.

The actress accused her husband of cruelty, staying away from home all night and once with ejecting her from their home. Sternberg denied the charges. Miss Royce divorced the director in 1927, but in 1928 the became reconciled. They were first married in July, 1926.

Atlanta Negro School Gets Fund of $450,000

Atlanta, Ga., June 4 (A.P.).—A grant of $450,000 by the General Education Board of New York, to provide an adequate library for Atlanta University and affiliated colleges, was announced today by Dr. John Hope, president of the school.

The new library will be another step in the development here of a large Negro university which was begun last year by the consolidation of the old Atlanta University, Morehouse and Spelman Colleges. The new university now has enrolled more than 700 students.

Wilkins Will Get Use of Submarine

Explorer to Have U. S. Craft for Five Years at $1 Yearly Rental.

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board decided yesterday to let Sir Hubert Wilkins charter the discarded Navy submarine O-12 for his Arctic expedition. The board first will obtain the undersea craft from the Navy and then charter it to Lake & Dannenhower, Sir Hubert's representatives, for a period not to exceed five years at a $1 a year rental.

Under a tentative agreement, the submarine must be returned to the Shipping Board by July 1, 1936, the date of expiration of the London naval treaty.

Sir Hubert plans to equip the submarine with devices intended to enable it to make an undersea trip to the North Pole, boring through 30 feet of ice when necessary.

Hunt for Woman In Theft Tightens

Indicted in $63,000 Loss by Father, Daughter Sought Nearby.

San Francisco, June 4 (A.P.).—Search for Marion Birney, indicted here after her father, Dr. Rascom H. Birney, accused her of absconding with his life's savings, $63,000, centered today in the San Francisco Bay area.

Dr. Birney told police he received a telephone call from his daughter, who said she was phoning from a city in New York State. He said she threatened him with arrest in connection with his divorce suit against his second wife unless he dropped the grand theft charges. Efforts to trace the telephone call developed that there had been no long distance call during the hour to Dr. Birney's hotel, leading police to the conclusion that Miss Birney was not far away.

Family of Seven Poisoned in Ohio

Tourists Drink Water From Trough and Become Unconscious.

Akron, Ohio, June 4 (A.P.).—A man, his wife and their five children were in a critical condition in Citizens Hospital, Barberton, near here late today suffering from poison believed to have been swallowed when the family drank at a watering trough.

Those in the hospital are Earl Booth, his wife, Jennie, and their children, Irene, 11; Ronso, 9; Roma, 8; Elizabeth, 6, and Doraline, 4.

They gave their residence as Cuyahoga Falls.

The family was driving back to their home from West Virginia, where they had been called by illness of a relative.

When the ambulance arrived, Mrs. Booth and three of the children were unconscious. Mrs. Booth revived on the way to the hospital but lapsed into unconsciousness again after arriving there.

IT has been definitely settled that two events now the chief topics of conversation in the sporting world are to be broadcast over national networks.

The first of these will be a description of the sixty-third running of the historic Belmont Stakes on Saturday afternoon (WRC, 3 p. m.). Graham MacNamee, Clem McCarthy, turf authority, and Bryan Field, racing expert, will cover the event by microphone.

A battery of microphones will be installed by the N. B. C. at the ringside at Yankee Stadium, New York, for the description of the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling fight on the night of June 12. The exact hour of the broadcast has not been determined.

WHEN the liner America left for Europe yesterday she was equipped with a facsimile radio installation to pick up stock tables, letters, pictures, checks and other printed material. The America is the first ship to be so equipped. The printed strips as snatched from the air at sea will measure about 40 inches. The news sent by radio in this way will constitute an ocean paper.

Dispatches from Atlantic City, where the annual convention of the Radio Manufacturers Association is in session, say that H. B. Richmond, of Cambridge, Mass., will retire as president of the Radio Manufacturers Association today, and will be succeeded by Morris Metcalf, vice president of the American Bosch Magneto Corporation, of Springfield, Mass.

Of interest among the broadcasts scheduled for today will be the graduation exercises from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis this morning (WMAL, 10:45 a. m.); a recital by Mischa Elman, violinist, with Rosario Bourdon's orchestra (WRC, 9 p. m.), and a discussion of our National Parks System by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana (WRC 6:30 p. m.).

RUDY VALLEE, according to a report from New York, will cancel the remainder of his broadcasts with the Sunshine Hour over WRC each Thursday evening to go on a six-week barnstorming tour of one-night stands in the New England States, along about the middle of July.

It is understood, however, that Rudy will sign a new contract for 70 broadcasts, once weekly, in the same program, upon his return.

Those listeners who used to like the entertainment offered by the Smith Brothers—Scrappy Lambert and Billy Hillpot—will be interested in knowing that Lambert has organized a dance orchestra and is heard in several programs, while Hillpot is using his own name, Billy Hughes, and is soloist in a number of hours.

Vaughn de Leath, N. B. C. contralto, will not return to the broadcasting studios until early in September. She is in Europe for a vacation.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A chiffon dress and a taffeta jacket have the same print of red cherries—and make a lovely ensemble.

Paris, June 4.

HAVE you noted the difference in today's idea of evening garments as compared to that of even a few seasons ago, let alone a few years ago? Once we thought that in order to be "elegant" in our evening attire we had to fuss and flutter, wisp and trail all over the place. Today we feel that in order to be elegant, even our tulle dresses, which might have some legitimate reason to flutter, must be stringently restrained.

And there is no question in my mind as to the true elegance of today's evening wear. Naturally, it is a great deal harder to achieve that line of real beauty in a gown (or anything else) by intelligent construction and harmonious proportioning of the thing itself, than it is to take a poor structure and achieve an effect of beauty by covering it up with many decorative things.

The evening gowns of today are quiet, but how intricately must they be fashioned, how well done, how well planned and executed. And then what good taste the woman herself must display in her accessories! They, too, are simple, yet at the same time more elaborate—and the few that one wears are more expensive than the many one used to wear.

All that glitters and glitters plenty is the evening jewelry mode. If your necklace is formed of crystal but for any reason doesn't glitter, then away it must go in favor of one that does—prystal is a new composition very much in vogue now, which was fashioned expressly for the purpose of out-glittering crystal.

And what we used to call rhinestones, or imitation diamonds, have become important in their own right as brilliants, diamante and strass.

Overnight Paris has decided to wear adorable collars and cuffs made of ordinary canvas woven in squares, on sweaters and sports blouses. In the same instant we found out how to make them, and tell you about it in a stamped, self-addressed envelope—no, I mean you send the envelope to Dare, Washington Post, and I send you the illustrated directions.

• • • • •

You really can't get along without at least one printed chiffon and taffeta outfit! The taffeta printed to exactly match the chiffon, of course. And s'pos'n the chiffon were black and the dress like the one I have illustrated for you today, and the taffeta in the short jacket was also black, and both dress and jacket printed with red cherries—wouldn't you just eat it up? Oh, I forget to add, if the ensemble were a Bernard et Cie model!

Yellow and Jenny blue are featured in the sports collection at the house of Jenny. Also a lot of black and white, and some rose. The black, white and rose are especially for evening. By the "sports collection" is meant, of course, for summer resort wear.

Jenny also loves her little sweaters, obviously new and of this season, short waisted as they are and very often in bolero effects, but very decidedly sweaterish nevertheless. And often they are embroidered all around the neck and armholes to match the tiny fruit or flowered design in the sweater itself.

Now we call your attention again to the weekly Dare fashion letter in the Sunday Post. Do look for it.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the name of the inclosed leaf and why the leaves are drying up. I give it plenty of sun and fresh air. Do you think that the steam heat is affecting it?

H. M. C.

Your plant is an aspidistra. Steam heat is not injurious to plants in well-ventilated places. Your plant is likely suffering from lack of root room. Better repot it as soon as possible. After transplanting it, keep it well watered and in a shady place for a week. The aspidistra should be given water every day and should have its foliage sprayed once each week with cold, soapy water.

Kindly tell me the proper time to replant June roses. Also when should I prune them? MRS. LIZZIE J.

Roses may be transplanted in the very early spring or the late fall. Hybrid perpetuals should be pruned as early in the spring as the weather permits, not in the fall. Thin out weak shoots and side growths and cut back the remaining wood to from two to eight eyes. Hybrid tea and tea roses require the same treatment as the hybrid perpetuals. Cut the weak-growing varieties nearly to the ground and they will produce excellent flowers in June. When pruning climbing roses remove all wood that is more than 2 years old; the remaining wood should not be pruned until after flowering.

Please examine the inclosed leaves from a fern and tell me how often to water the plant and also why the leaves are turning brown.

MRS. R. C.

Water your fern while in the house about four times a week. Spray the foliage once each week with cold soapy water. The leaves you inclosed were covered with scale. Better take a small brush and dislodge these insects. As they are tenacious, you may not be able to remove them all, in which case cut off the leaves which are badly infested. Keep your plant in a light but not sunny place, and see that it has plenty of fresh air.

I am planting sweet peas and nasturtiums. Can you tell me what to do to get rid of the green flies which attack the former and the black bugs which attack the latter? Will the nasturtiums do well on the west side of the house where they get only afternoon sun? BEULAH N.

Spray your plants with any nicotine spray and you will soon get rid of insects. Yes, nasturtiums should do well in a western location, although they would do better in a place where they get the morning sun.

Please tell me what to spray my house plants with to get rid of insects. I have all the plants on a sun porch. THOMAS M. C.

Try giving your plants a daily spraying with cold, soapy water. If this does not have the desired result, use a nicotine spray. You can purchase a nicotine spray from any seed store.

Please tell me where I can purchase a Christmas rose. J. C. W.

I am sorry, but we can not publish names or addresses in this column. If you care to write again and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you the names of four firms listing this variety.

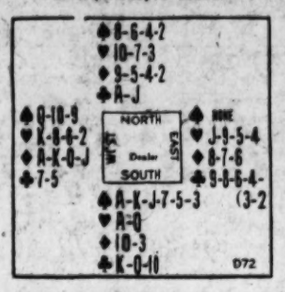
All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

WORK ON BRIDGE

A Well Played Hand.



In the above hand South was the Declarer playing a contract of four Spades. The game was Contract Bridge; South bid two Spades, North three, and South four.

At Auction Bridge South would have started with 1 Spade, West would have bid two Diamonds and South would have become the Declarer with a contract of two or three Spades.

In the play West led three rounds of Diamonds. South ruffed the third and led the Ace of trumps. When East refused, West was marked with the guarded Queen of trumps; and as the adversaries had won two tricks, the casual player would consider the game to be dependent upon the success of the Heart finesse. It will be noted that the Declarer could have led one more trump, leaving West with the winner, and have put dummy in with a Club to try the Heart finesse; and that the adversaries would have taken four tricks if the hand had been played in this way.

The Declarer who played this hand appreciated, however, that it was unnecessary to risk the Heart finesse if he could get rid of the remaining Diamond in the dummy and the Clubs in dummy and closed hand—all of which he could accomplish easily. The play would be as follows:

After a second trump lead, to trick 6 a Club taken by dummy's Ace; then dummy's fourth Diamond ruffed by South; after that two Clubs led by South. West could ruff the second of these Clubs, but then would have had to lead a Heart up to South. Declarer played his cards as described and West elected to discard a small Heart, hoping to make his King of Hearts that way. But Declarer did not continue the Hearts after West discarded the small Heart; he led a small Spade, putting West in the lead with the latter and forcing him to make the Heart lead which enabled Declarer to go game.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

ASSUMING that not all of the telephone messages and letters have been designed to kid us in a spirit of good, clean fun, and letting optimism run riot—to coin a smart one—we are taking a chance that it will be of interest that beginning at once The Post's motion picture reviews will be moved up to the Sunday edition instead of appearing on Monday morning, as has heretofore been the custom.

This, needless to say, is occasioned by the fact that beginning tomorrow the Fox joins the Metropolitan and Earle theaters in inaugurating each new weekly bill on Friday instead of Saturday, thus making it a 50-50 break as between the two days and thereby rendering Monday too remote from too many openings to be of greatest advantage to the greatest number.

It is not this department's idea, however, that any useful purpose can be served by printing reviews piecemeal, a few at a time, over a period of two or three days, and the department devoted to movie reviews, therefore, will be kept intact, covering all of the down town, first-run houses at one time, but appearing in the Sunday Post—rather than the Monday—the first day after all new programs have been presented. A further view that has contributed to this decision is that selection of the picture to be attended—if such decisions are ever predicated upon any newspaper review—is more often than not arrived at on a comparative basis, as among all available.

It may be further said that The Post's reviews will continue to be written by this commentator and the same competent and faithful staff that has, I believe, created a considerable confidence in this journal's critical appraisals by offering estimates of entertainment values that are based on close scrutiny, sound judgment and honest and unbiased expression.

Anyhow, they are going to be in there on next Sunday, instead of next Monday—and that's that!

All that Representative Michaelson proposes to do in his bill to prohibit the motion picture theaters from selling tickets—I say "tickets" because they do not sell seats—when there are no available seats to be had on the inside, is to upset the entire theory upon which the business of exhibiting screen entertainment has been founded and developed to its present high estate. While it is not at all an exactly identical case, the result could not possibly be more revolutionary or drastic if he were to introduce legislation to prevent the sale of motor cars on a deferred payment basis because some few purchasers might have found it difficult to meet their payments.

Whether he knows it or not, what he really is doing for the benefit of the public is making it certain that if his bill goes through the cash customer will be called upon to pay $1.50 or $2 for his visits to the cinema. If that will be a help, I hope everybody will support the congressman with the peeve.

But what I really would be interested in knowing is when and how long he was kept waiting—and where—and whether he was blackjacked and dragged into the theater, or entered of his own volition.

Word comes from the executive offices of Warner Brothers' Washington theaters that June has been set apart by John J. Payette, general manager, as "Family Month."

The object of "family month," which, as I understand it, is being observed in Warner houses throughout the United States, is to emphasize the strong family appeal of the programs offered by the Warners and to stimulate attendance by mother, dad and the kids, en masse, as many times a week as there are changes of bill.

This opens up a fine new field of operations, and I am momentarily awaiting the announcement that other interests have inaugurated "Uncle Charlie Month," "Aunt Jerusha Month," "Cousin Hezekiah Month," and so on right through the genealogical tables.

And how about an "Old Bachelor Month" for some of the rest of us?

By an eleventh hour switch in booking arrangements, Clara Bow, in "True to the Navy," will not be next week's attraction at the Columbia, Dick Leibert will not appear as guest organist at the Palace, and "Killing the Killer," with sound, will not be among the incoming short subjects at either house for the time being.

"Killing the killer with sound." It has been done!

In case you wonder, next week's attractions—with a reasonable degree of surety—will be: Fox, "Movietone Follies of 1930," with El Brendel, Marjorie White and Frank Richardson; Metropolitan, Warner Oland, Nell Hamilton and Jean Arthur in "The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu"; RKO-Keith's, Lowell Sherman and Alice Joyce in "He Knew Women"; Earle, Charles "Buddy" Rogers in "Safety In Numbers"; Palace, Gary Cooper and Fay Wray in "The Texan"; Columbia, Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in "Caught Short," third week; Little, Corliss Palmer in "Sex Madness," for mixed audiences.

Come to think of it, perhaps Representative Michaelson has confused the movies with the radio and thinks he can give them "Mike fright!"

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"Gemini."

IF June 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10 a. m., from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 5 a. m. to 6:30 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

From astrological indications, it is not probable that prearranged plans for this date will be carried out. Hindrances and disappointments are indicated. The day will not be without its fat, however, and some seeds will be planted which will mean a splendid harvest for the future.

The children born on this June 5 will be amiable and easy to bring up in the ways they should go. They will not be spineless, but they will listen to reason, and will be gifted with an unusual amount of common sense. They will be affectionate, demonstrative and somewhat emotional.

Your nervous energy is dashing you through the world at a pace which is dangerous to both your physical and mental beings. You seem to think in rapid dots and dashes, which is embarrassing to a less efficient person who is trying to keep up with you. There are few people who have such powers of concentration as you have. You have many interests, but you do not have fluffy and disjointed thoughts. You clear your mental chambers before new materials are brought in. Your mind, however, is never a blank, it seems never to rest—it is keen, brilliant and vital. It is seldom that you stop in contemplation, or that you rest on your oars to really enjoy the wonders which your mental processes take in.

You are not overly sociable, and are an unwilling talker, unless your interest is aroused and you have a very good listener. People do not interest you as much as facts and things. You are inclined to be a free thinker, and you are not easily influenced by any one. You are hardly human enough to be sympathetic, but you are wise enough to be tolerant. You are too indifferent to be suspicious, envious or jealous. You are rather keen on sports, and you enter into them, as with all things, with your heart and soul. Marriage is not necessary for your happiness—you do not desire constant companionship.

Successful people born June 5:
Bushrod Washington, first president of American Colonization Society.
Lyman Spalding, physician.
William Tyler, first Bishop of Hartford.
Franklin W. Calkins, author.
Jabez L. M. Curry, United States Minister to Spain.
Henry Wurtz, chemist.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

COLD WEATHER AND CLOTHES.

MAN made a great step forward when he learned how to clothe himself in cold weather. This gave him great advantage over his competitors, the hairy animals and the feathered birds, an advantage which was accentuated when he changed his garments for the sake of hot weather comfort. Acquiring this art he was able to move from the low planes of the Gobi Desert into the higher lands where there was more water and vegetation. He was able to push his way from the warmer lands of the eastern end of the Mediterranean into the bleak north and south country where none of his old-time animal competitors could follow.

About the year 1500 the dominating people of Europe had pushed about as far as climate and economic opportunity would permit. Malthus came along with his warnings against excess population. But Columbus discovered America, and a great continent, with about European climate, was opened up. This made it possible to ridicule old Malthus with safety and the old gentleman was forced to take a back seat. Now we have reached about the same point of saturation and an economic level suggestive of that 1500. Malthus is coming to life. The question is, who will be Christopher Columbus and where is the new America?

The answer is—the tropics. Here lie millions of acres of unoccupied ground and unused resources of every kind. The weakness of the answer lies in two directions. First, insects are man's deadliest enemies, far more deadly than lions, tigers, grizzly bears, and rattlesnakes. It has been demonstrated in Panama that, given money enough and necessity enough, man can overcome at least flies and mosquitoes. Perhaps in time we may recognize the experiment in practical insect control on a large scale in Panama as of more service to mankind than the canal itself.

Second, white men can not withstand the climate of the tropics. At least, he is not able to compete there with colored men. To overcome this drawback white men must develop an art of housing and cooling, comparable with the arts of housing and heating which he has developed in cooler climates. He does this now in a very limited way. He cools theaters and restaurants occasionally. He cools some hospital rooms. The cooled office building is the next step. The cooled factory will follow. And, finally, the cooled home will come.

NATS DEFEAT TIGERS WITH 3 RUNS IN 10TH, 11-8

Peglet

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 4—This is the place where Jack Sharkey, the Leering Lithuanian, is performing his role in the ballyhoo for his prize fight with Max Schmeling, to be held in the Yankee Stadium, New York, on the night of the 12th.

The New York prize fight commission has decided that the prize fight will decide the heavyweight championship of the world and that the name of the winner will be written upon the so-called Tunney-Muldoon trophy, a sculpture white-elephant, which stands in odd corners of the lobby of the new Garden, down in New York.

The so-called Tunney-Muldoon trophy is a bronze figure of a prize fighter leading with his chin. Tunney donated the price of the monument as a gesture of contempt and disdain upon his resignation from the racket. He also wished to humor an old man, William Muldoon, who liked him very much and who flattered him because he did not smoke cigarettes or frequent low joints at night.

Tunney Flatters Mr. Muldoon.

Mr. Muldoon is susceptible to small transparent flatteries and because he is quite old and of the venerable sort, Mr. Tunney wished to make him feel as though he were a significant figure in a great happening. Therefore Mr. Tunney wrote his check for the sculpture, associating his name with that of Mr. Muldoon on the monument, and then sailed away to Europe to wed himself a wife.

Up to this time, Mr. Tunney has not even set eyes upon the Tunney-Muldoon trophy of the heavyweight championship of the world, and when the customers pass by it on important evenings in the Garden, some of the racketeers pause to lean against it and scratch matches or scrawl rude remarks with pencil upon it.

To be quite frank, the Tunney-Muldoon monument means no more, sentimentally, to the prize-fighting industry than a statue of some Civil War mayor or governor means to the practical politicians of the ward in which it stands today. Mr. Muldoon, however, lives in a merciful atmosphere of flattery and legend and he probably thinks that a great happening will take place on the night of June 12.

Sharkey Is Kind Who Must Play.

Mr. Sharkey, the Leering Lithuanian, is not here present at this writing. He is restless, like his predecessor, Jack Dempsey, and, having no recourse to books or the comforts of contemplation or study, has gone away to see a show.

Now, when Tunney was heavyweight champion and people and the routine of training for the ballyhoo bored him, he could open a book and douse himself with refreshing ideas or expressions. But Dempsey and Sharkey, both, are of the kind who must play rummy or pinochle or play mush-ball or twist their sparring partners' wrists or scatter sneezing-powders or attend lively goings-on for relief from the tedium of training.

In his training quarters, Sharkey is a jocular bully. He likes to assert his command by cuffing Polozzolo and Buckley with his big raw hands and roaring at them in a half-serious, half-indulgent way. They kow-tow to him and humor him because their living depehds on his favor. They may feel in their hearts that he is a four-flusher, but men have always laughed at their bosses' pleasantries and it seems little enough to do for the amount of money that Sharkey's yes-men, especially Buckley, will get out of him, especially if he should happen to win the so-called heavyweight championship of the world, and merit the inscription of his adopted name upon the shaft of the so-called Tunney-Muldoon monument.

"Just a Big Kid," Buckley Lies.

"Just a big kid: always playing tricks," Mr. Buckley says, gentling his sore ribs where Sharkey, with a cold glare in his gray-blue eyes has fetched him a condescending smash with his right. "Full of life and spirits. A born fighter."

Mr. Lacey, who trained two American Olympic teams, including the team of 1924, the greatest of all American Olympic teams from which Fidel La Barba and Jackie Fields were presently graduated to professional world championships, is a little more reserved and respected. He seems not to impose and is not imposed upon.

This camp is a familiar combination of the old-fashioned rural roadhouse and the prize fighter's training resort. Gus Wilson runs the place. He is an Alsatian Frenchman who showed up in these parts in 1920, at Georges Carpentier's place at Manhasset, Long Island, and did an ad-

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 4 (A.P.).—The hired help, belted, miserable and bloody, by Max Schmeling for the past two weeks, staged an insurrection today and wound up with most of the honors in seven rounds of boxing with the German challenger for the heavyweight championship.

Tired and drawn, the clouting Teuton made a desperate effort to continue the slaughter of hapless sparring partners that has marked his daily workouts in preparation for the fifteen-round duel with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium, June 12. The effort was too much, however, and though Max left his mark as usual on the countenance of his assistants, he could not stow them away with his punishing right hand. They wound up as fresh as he was and it was immediately decided to rest Schmeling for the next two days. He will complete his heavy training with boxing drills next Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Schmeling Looks Listless.

Schmeling looked listless and too finely drawn for this stage of the training grind but his lack of fire and dash was attributed by his handlers to the presence in camp of scouts for the rival forces. They said Max was keeping something back, that it would not do to disclose to the enemy the full power of the Schmeling offensive. At any rate Der Max was off his game.

Heading the attack for the second team, Lou Barba, a New York heavy weight, came out to hit Schmeling with left jabs. Sharkey's favorite weapon, as well as left hooks to the head and side. Lou added a short right cross for good measure and Max looked none too good when it landed.

Barba was the first man in two days to finish his designated two rounds in complete possession of his faculties although Max made him miss widely at times and scored with his own left hook and right, cross. There seemed little pep behind the punches, however.

Solidly Smacked by Italian Novice.

Max did little better with Frankie Bush, a light heavyweight, in two rounds and seemed to take advantage of every opportunity to rest. He was weaving and bobbing only to avoid left jabs, boxed in stand-up fashion, and practiced drumming on Bush's body at close range. Frankie finished with a bloody nose, but otherwise in good shape.

After one listless round with Jack

Crippled Cubs Win, 18-10, Over Braves

Boston, June 4 (A.P.).—The so-called crippled Chicago Cubs won their second lop-sided victory over the Braves in two days today when they set the Tribesmen back, 18 to 10. The Chicagoans got 20 hits for a total of 34 bases and sadly abused three Boston hurlers.

Cuyler had a perfect day at bat with a homer, a double and three singles, while Riggs Stephenson collected five out of six for a total of seven bases.

Giants Jump on Lucas To Win Over Reds, 8-5

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—The Giants started their slugging early today, drove Red Lucas from the box in the first inning, and won the second game of the series from the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 5.

New York opened fire with five successive hits off Lucas, the last being a home run by Ott, and O'Farrell welcomed his successor, Archie Campbell, with another home run, bringing the first inning total to six hits and as many runs before the first man was retired.

KERR'S CLOUT WINS FROM YANKEES

Pitcher's Blow Comes in 10th to Bring 8-7 Victory.

CHICAGO, June 4 (A.P.).—Johnny Kerr became a baseball hero today by hitting a home run in the tenth inning to give the White Sox an 8-to-7 victory over the New York Yankees. It was his third hit of the game and came after two were out in the extra inning.

Babe Ruth had tied the score in the seventh inning by driving out his eighteenth homer of the season with two on base. The clout sent Pat Caraway out of the game, and Hal McKain, who relieved him, gained the victory by pitching airtight ball. Charley Ruffing started for the Yankees but retired after the Sox had overcome a Yankee lead by scoring five rune in the sixth inning.

Morris Hurls Red Sox To Ten-Inning Triumph

Cleveland, Ohio, June 4 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox evened the series with Cleveland today when Big Ed Morris outlasted Willis Hudlin in a ten-inning pitching duel, Boston winning, 5 to 4. Both scored two runs in the first, but the Indians added two in the second and fourth. The Sox got to Hudlin for one each in the fifth and seventh and finally added the winning tally in the tenth when Scarritt's single scored Reeves from second.

MACKS BEAT BROWNS FOR 10TH ROW

Gray Is Pounded for 4-3 Victory After Good Start.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 4 (A.P.).—The Athletics made it two straight for the series today, defeating the Browns, 4 to 3. After pitching impressively for four innings, Sam Gray gave the Athletics a run in each of the fifth and sixth and two in the seventh and was charged with his ninth defeat of the season.

Gray, formerly ace of the Brown's pitching staff, has not won a game this year. Jack Quinn pitched the ninth for the visitors, but credit for the victory went to Earnshaw.

The victory was the tenth straight for the Athletics, who retained their lead of one game over the second-place Washington Club.

13 Errors Mark Game As Pirates Beat Robins

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, N. Y., June 4 (A.P.).—The Dodgers made eight errors here today and lost to the Pirates by a score of 12 to 6. Four of the Brooklyn errors were crowded into the first inning and three more were made in the fourth. Only five of the Pirate runs were earned. There were thirteen errors in the game, the Pirates making five.

Clise Dudley, who started for the Dodgers, failed to survive the second inning and Johnny Morrison finished the game. Ray French went the route for the Pirates.

Bissonette and Flowers hit home runs. Engle, of the Pirates, had four errors in the short field.

5 Americans Win in Derby Pool; Small Shares to Local Players

NEW YORK, June 4 (A.P.).—Five Americans were among the six winners of the $444,000 in prizes of the Canadian Army and Navy Veterans Sweepstakes on the Epsom Derby.

E. P. Dougherty, 23-year-old New York broker's clerk won one of the two $149,000 first prizes with his ticket on Blenheim, the Derby winner. Wilfrid Leblanc, of Hull, Que., held the other.

Mrs. A. Matzmmger, of Reading, Pa., and L. L. Smith, railroad brakeman of Guthrie, Okla., split $98,000 as winners of second prize.

J. W. Zaloudek, Omaha, Nebr., laborer, and Robert I. Lynn, 59-year-old Portland, Me., tailor, divide the third prize of $48,000.

The winners, those that could be reached, accepted the news in various ways.

Zaloudek, who said his wife had nagged him for gambling when he bought the ticket, almost fainted when told he had won $24,000. Leblanc, a bachelor, smoked a cigaret, something he seldom does, and said he might retire from his $22 a week job as carpenter and "lead the life of Riley."

Smith was "out on the line" and couldn't be reached, but Mrs. Smith was almost speechless when she was told of her good fortune. They have two children.

THE smile of fortune beamed on five Washington residents yesterday in connection with the division of the Canadian Army and Navy Veterans Sweepstakes on the Epsom Derby.

These five—four men and a woman—each held a ticket on one of the 306 horses entered but which did not start in the race, and thus each is entitled to approximately $500, according to the Washington agent for the sweepstakes, who announced their names.

Those named are R. Talburst, 3215 Nichols avenue southeast; J. D. Long, 809 Kennedy street northwest; A. Edmonds, 214 Taylor street northwest; Albert Waskam, Kenilworth, and Mrs. Ollie Miller, 3018 Twelfth street northeast.

Strickler, Local Boxer, At Baltimore Monday

Billy Strickler, well-known youthful middleweight, will go to Baltimore Monday night to meet Joe Glazer in the Carlin Park Arena. Though but 21 years of age, Strickler has made an enviable record in his three years of boxing, and his trainer, Joe Bateman, has seen marked improvement in his form in the last year. Most of Strickler's bouts have been in the South.

If successful on Monday, Strickler will go to Hagerstown on Wednesday to meet Sock Trenneman.

ATTACK ON WHITEHILL DECIDES AFTER 6-RUN LEAD VANISHES; BUCKY HARRIS PRAISES NATS

Current Lineup Looks Stronger Than 1924-25 Club, He Says.

Believes Myer Makes Fans Forget; Jones Pitches Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, June 4.—Manager Bucky Harris, of the Tigers, who should know whereof he speaks, in view of the fact that he piloted the Washington Club in its pennant-winning years, declares that, man for man, Manager Johnson's present combination looks stronger to him than either of the clubs he led to the top in 1924 and 1925.

"As regards the pitching staffs, Johnson has a well-balanced combination of youngsters and more experienced men compared to a flock of slipping veterans and only fair youngsters which we won flags with," said Harris. "Great relief work by Fred Marberry and Allan Russell let us get by one year, while Marberry practically carried the load the other. As to catchers, the Washington Team seems to be just as well off now as it was then, for Muddy Ruel doesn't seem to have slipped back any, and Bennie Tate has improved and Roy Spencer looks like a first-class man.

"In the other departments there have been but three changes. Judge and Bluege seem to be just as good as they ever were on the infield, while, from all accounts, Buddie Myer is playing so well at second that that fellow named Harris, who was there in the good old days don't seem to be missed. While Cronin is a first-class shortstop and is, perhaps, a better batter than was Peckinpaugh, Peck surely played inspired ball for us and was Cronin's superior afield, while they tell me that, as a double-play combination, the Peckinpaugh-Harris one was very good and, perhaps, better than the present one Johnson has.

Added Strength in Center Field.

"The only change in the outfield is a combination of West and Loepp in place of Earl McNeely in center. As good a fielder as was McNeely, both West and Loepp seem to be his equal, while both are hitting at a faster clip than Earl can travel. While it is true that Goslin is not hitting this year as he did in our championship days, it also is true that Rice is hitting even better, and the chances are that Goslin will start busting loose most any time.

"All in all," Harris concluded, "I think that Johnson's present team figures as being better than my flag-winners, but this does not mean that I'm picking the Nationals to win the pennant, for a team that wins has to get more than its share of breaks and, then again, I believe that the competition is getting keener and keener each year with practically all of the clubs strengthened."

Johnson to Use Jones Today.

In the hopes of making it three in a row in the current set with the Tigers, Manager Walter Johnson plans to give the veteran "Sad Sam" Jones the pitching assignment tomorrow. Jones, who has not been beaten by a Detroit Team since he became a National, has a hunch that he can start another winning streak tomorrow and asked for the chance.

After he had won six in a row, the Mackmen beat Jones in Washington last Sunday. Manager Bucky Harris is expected to turn over his mound duties to another veteran, George Uhle.

Second Baseman Buddie Myer pulled up with an upset stomach today and gave way at second to Jack Hayes.

Mark Koenig, obtained in a trade with the Yankees, made his debut as a Tiger this afternoon, taking Rogell's place at shortstop and batting in sixth place.

Primo Carnera, the Venetian giant, who meets K. O. Christner, the Akron rubber man, in a ten-round bout here tomorrow night, was a visitor at today's game. He sat in the front row of a box beside the Tiger dugout and looked to be almost as tall sitting down as does the average man standing up.

Benge, Phillies, Limits Cardinals to Four Hits

Philadelphia, June 4 (A.P.).—Ray Benge, Phillies hurler, limited the St. Louis Cardinals to four hits today and the Phil's scored a 2-to-1 victory in the third game of their series.

Chick Hafey's home run into the left field bleachers in the second inning, was the Cardinals' only tally. Jesse Haines started on the mound for the Cardinals, was injured by a line drive of Whitney's bat and had to retire. Frankhouse took his place and was charged with the defeat.

AGA KHAN'S BLENHEIM WINS ENGLISH DERBY AT 18-1

Half Million See Favorite Run Third

Diolite Disappoints; Iliad Runs Second, Length Behind.

Blenheim Overtakes Leaders in Uphill Stretch Run.

By FRANK H. KING.

EPSOM, England, June 4 (A.P.).—Blenheim, owned by the Indian potentate, the Aga Khan, who is the religious leader of a sect of Mohammedans and a lavish patron of the European turf, won the 151st running of the Derby today, with Iliad second and Diolite, the favorite, third.

Jockey Harry Wragg rode Blenheim to victory in a field of seventeen, with the betting 18 to 1 against.

The Scout II, the American hope, was fifteenth and didn't even get into the picture of the finish. He lost ground in the half-mile uphill climb at the start and never recovered. Jockey Joe Childs said the American colt simply wasn't good enough. Neither was Diolite, the horse of illustrious lineage, which on form had all but won the British classic before the race was run.

Blenheim burst into the lead on the home stretch, winning by a length after running the favorites off their feet.

Bishops, Bakers, Babies Bookmakers There.

It was a great Derby day, the king and queen were there; also the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary and more than a half million others—dukes, dustmen, cockneys, Gypsies, American tourists, bishops, beggars, babies and bookmakers, the nobility and rabble of turfdom milling over Epsom Downs in a gigantic spectacle like a thousand American county fairs woven into a single panorama.

A muggy haze dimmed the view of the start across the teeming slopes from the grandstands. Pretty horseflesh reared, backed and plunged at the tapes. Then came the start and the vast concourse hushed as if struck dumb.

Up the long stretch of rising ground at the horizon moved a splotch of color, first in mass formation, then a phalanx, and then a stretching string of colts, the favorites in the lead.

Diolite, Rustom Pasha Show Way.

Showing the way were Diolite and Rustom Pasha with Trews on their left and Ballyferis, Silver Flare and Tetragem on their right, and a little behind, with Grand Salute, Sponger and Seer at their heels. Already there was daylight between this pack and the trailers, one of which was The Scout II.

Crowds, massed on the hilltop, hid all but the horses' necks and the jockeys' heads as the field sped toward Tattenham corner, where derbies are won and lost.

Blenheim was improving his position, but not until halfway down the straightaway did he look like a possible winner. Diolite hugged the rails. Now Iliad pushed into the first three and the names of Diolite, Iliad, Blenheim were shouted hoarsely by frantic fans who felt their favorite was about to win.

Blenheim Finishes Length Ahead.

But it was Blenheim, still picking up speed and gaining ground, who nosed ahead as the horses pounded toward the finish. He flashed past the stands well in front and finished a length ahead.

Almost before the galloping field shot past the post, a hatless, brown-skinned figure wearing heavy, horn-rimmed glasses and the conventional funeral garb of the modish English racegoer, appeared on the track. It was the Aga Khan, hurrying to lead his winner in. The multitudes cheered, a few because they had won money at handsome odds and others in spite of their losses.

"I didn't have a single shilling on the colt," confessed the beaming Eastern potentate.

Sold Diolite Ticket For $100,000.

H. C. Reeves, the insurance agent of Leighton Buzzard, who rides a tricycle and who sold his Calcutta Sweepstake ticket on Diolite for $100,000, wasn't so foolish after all, the thousands who had backed the favorite agreed.

Blenheim's time of 2:38 1-5 for the mile and a half course was the slowest turned in by a Derby winner in four years.

The Aga Khan never before had won the Derby and it was the less highly regarded of his two entries that galloped to glory today. His Rustom Pasha, second favorite in the betting, failed to finish in the first ten.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZIDA, $9.98, $5.14, $3.76; GRACIOUS GIFT, $4.68, $3.10; HOT SHOT, $3.66.

ZIDA kept pace with leaders while saving ground on inside and, after wearing down HOT SHOT in final furlong, had determined to just outlast GRACIOUS GIFT. GRACIOUS GIFT was keen to outside in the first flight, gradually improved his position under energetic hustling and, crossing over in front of HOT SHOT at final sixteenth, disposed of latter and just missed wearing down the winner. HOT SHOT beat the barrier, displayed most speed to the stretch, but tired and faltered under pressure a bit the end. EQUATION, on the inside, overcame interference and showed a good effort. WIRT G. BOWMAN, away slowly and outpaced first quarter, closed a gap through the stretch.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:46. Off at 2:48. Winner, Valley Lake Stable's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—UPRIGHT, $6.52, $2.88, $2.32; MARY COBB, $2.88, $2.18; VOLTABUSH, $2.44.

UPRIGHT began slowly but, keeping close to pace, responded well when urged entering stretch, gamely wore down leaders and outgamed MARY COBB in a driving finish. MARY COBB enjoyed a clear track and saved much ground while setting the pace, but faltered in final seventy yards. VOLTABUSH was knocked out of stride at start, began working way up in stretch and, meeting interference, finished fast. FERE NOEL, a factor on the outside, began tiring after reaching the stretch. CARACALLA had early speed and, forced the pace to stretch turn, quitting under pressure.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:18. Off at 3:20. Winner, O. L. Foster's ch. f. (3), by Athelin II—Ground Swell. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROLLING SEA, $5.46, $4.22, $2.88; BILLY CHAMP, $5.34, $3.32; SUPRYSE, $3.06.

ROLLING SEA, never far off the pace, was soon in closest pursuit of MAKE HASTE, followed the latter under restraint to stretch, overtook SUPRYSE and took the lead in final seventy yards and just outlasted BILLY CHAMP. BILLY CHAMP saved ground on inside, came to the outside in the stretch and, closing fast in final sixteenth, outgamed SUPRYSE, in drive a almost won a head from the winner. SUPRYSE was able to save ground on turn, challenged winner entering stretch and when repulsed, tired and was unable to withstand BILLY CHAMP. MAKE HASTE maintained command to midway of the home stretch, appeared the winner nearing the first turn, but gave up when seventy yards from finish.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; allowances. The Peony. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:47. Off at 3:58. Winner, Looney and Jones' ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARTHA JONES, $6.62, $4.02, $3.22; ISSAQUENA, $5.22, $4.86; OVER SHADY, $6.94.

MARTHA JONES began in a tangle, but quickly moving up on outside, went into command and, showing most speed, won, but had to be shaken up to hold ISSAQUENA. Latter began fourwide, saved ground and, coming fast in last sixteenth, outfinished the third OVER SHADY. OVER SHADY forced the early pace briefly, began tiring when round the final turn, but held on fairly well. REVERBERATE closed a big gap in the stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BROWN WISDOM, $4.60, $3.70, $3.32; KARL EITEL, $12.70, 59.68; PIGEONHOLE, $17.32.

BROWN WISDOM, after speed was outpaced to stretch turn, then moved up fast on outside when called on and easily wore down KARL EITEL and held latter safe through final furlong to win handily. KARL EITEL, never far back of the pace, got through on inside entering stretch, headed SUPREME SWEET to take lead easily reaching final furlong, but not much for the winner and only outlasted PIGEONHOLE in final strides. PIGEONHOLE, badly outrun first half, came with a rush in the middle of the track and, wearing down tiring horses, outgamed SILVERDALE. SILVERDALE began fast, but immediately dropped out of contention, then was able to close ground in final quarter. BEAMING OVER began very slowly.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Kensington. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:56. Winner, S. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARTIE FLYNN, $4.04, $2.58, $2.22; CANAAN, $3.44, $2.52; PLUCKY PLAY, $2.38.

MARTIE FLYNN, under a strong pull first six furlongs, responded well in the stretch, easily overcame CANAAN and PLUCKY PLAY, went to the lead inside the final sixteenth and under hard punishment, barely lasted. CANAAN was kept in close pursuit of PLUCKY PLAY and, making a game finish between PLUCKY PLAY and the winner, held on determinedly, outgaming PLUCKY PLAY in the final stride. RIVER FOREST, on determinedly, outgaming PLUCKY PLAY in the final stride. SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:26. Off at 5:28. Winner, Miss R. Copeland's b. h. by Fair Play—Qu'elle est Belle. Trained by J. B. Theall. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24, 0:47 4-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:54 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—QUIBBLER, $6.12, $3.66, $3.30; CONGO II, $4.12, $3.66; MARGATE, $12.80.

QUIBBLER, away slowly, raced far back in early stages but, under a good ride, worked his way up steadily and, coming fast on the outside in stretch, wore down leaders and won going away. CONGO II, never far back of leaders, moved up fast on stretch turn, but Land made his run too soon and CONGO II was no match for the winner in final drive. MARGATE gained gradually in first six furlongs to reach contention, but faltered in the drive.

TRIAL SHOWS WHICHONE IS READY

Does Mile and Half in 2:31 4-5 for Belmont Stakes.

BELMONT RACE TRACK, June 4 (A.P.).—Harry Payne Whitney's champion 3-year-old, Whichone, had his final trial for the rich Belmont Stakes, to be run here Saturday, today, and acquitted himself as a real champion should. The son of Chicle—Flying Witch was sent over the full Belmont route of one mile and a half in the remarkably fast time of 2:31 4-5.

Whichone, which is a hot favorite for the stake, had his full weight up, 126 pounds, and Marshall Lilley was given instructions to let him step along.

Hatbroom was sent to pace Whichone for the first 6 furlongs. The 3-year-old broke fast and went the first furlong in 0:12 2-5 and Lilley took a good hold of him. The quarter was timed in 0:24 2-5 with Whichone fighting for his head. The 3 furlongs was turned in 0:36 1-5 and they came to the half-mile pole in 0:48 2-5. Whichone had his pacemaker put away at this point and went on to the 5 furlongs in 1:01.

Does Each Furlong In 0:12 or Better.

The colt was moving along like clockwork. Every furlong was turned in 0:12 or a fraction better. The 6 furlongs was turned in 1:13 3-5 and at this point Angry picked him up. The 7 furlongs were 1:26 3-5 and the mile 1:39. Whichone was still fighting for his head, but Lilley held him back.

TED MITCHELL, BOXING MENTOR AT C. U., RESIGNS

Coach Leaves Post After 8 Years

No Explanation Made as to Reasons for His Departure.

Discord Among Cardinal Coaches Current Rumor.

THEODORE "TED" MITCHELL, boxing coach and trainer at Catholic University for the past eight years, yesterday announced his resignation, to take effect at the close of the current academic term.

Mitchell gave no explanation of his action except to say that he desired a change. He has made no plans for the future, he said, although he intends to continue in the coaching profession. He will take a vacation before seeking a new position, he added.

To those closely associated with the athletic situation at Catholic University, Mitchell's resignation comes not as a surprise, for since last February there have been rumors of impending changes in the coaching personnel due to discord.

It has been rumored that the coaches were not getting along well among themselves and that some differences existed between coaches and university officials, which would ultimately lead to a shake-up. The rumors circulated throughout the student body and beyond the confines of the campus to the alumni and followers of Cardinal teams.

Confliction In Rice Case.

Prior to the resignation of Fred Rice, veteran basket ball coach, last month, it was definitely stated by one alumnus that certain persons were seeking Rice's "scalp" because his teams of the past two winters had not been successful. Rice served the Brookland institution as court coach for eighteen years and only during the seasons of 1928-1929 and 1929-1930 failed to turn out teams that didn't win more games than they lost.

The only reason officially offered for Rice's resignation was that outside business interests required his full attention. Director of Athletics Jack McAuliffe flatly denied all reports of official criticism of the mentor's work.

Mitchell, questioned by a representative of The Post, neither denied nor confirmed the rumors of discord. He showed a desire to avoid discussion of the subject.

At present the aCtholic University athletic department is composed of McAuliffe, director and head football coach; Chick Gagnon, head baseball coach and assistant to McAuliffe in football; Dorsey Griffith, track coach, and Eddie Lafond and Jack Clarke, freshmen coaches.

Gagnon to Succeed Rice, Is Denied.

Shortly after the resignation of Rice, it was reported by a reliable source that Gagnon would be assigned the basket ball duties in addition to those he already handles. It was said that an existing agreement would make it profitable for the university to do this, but McAuliffe denied there was any foundation for the report.

Mitchell, an Olympic boxing champion of 1920, entered upon his career at Catholic University in 1922. He suggested the addition of boxing to the sports curriculum and was ordered to begi nteaching it as an intramural activity in 1923.

In 1924 Mitchell launched Catholic University into intercollegiate boxing competition and with nothing but green material each year produced a winning team. He deleoped among others, such outstanding college boxers as Jack Malevich, who graduates this year; "Battler" Byrne, Emil Mayer and Don Greco.

During the World War, Mitchell served in the Marine Corps and attained the rank of sergeant.

Snowflake's Late Drive Wins Belmont Stake

Belmont Park Race Track, June 4 (A.P.).—Walter J. Salmon's Snowflake, a 4-to-1 shot, won the Coaching Club American Oaks here today and earned for her owner the sum of $19,600. She ran the mile and three furlongs in 2:18 2-5. Driving hard half a length back came A. L. Alexander's Red Rag with the Wheatley's Stable Erin third and Flying Gal fourth.

The surprise of the race was the miserable performance of Harry Payne Whitney's Dustemall, favorite. The filly ran a very poor race.

Flying Gal took lead at the 3-furlong pole, but when the field straightened out for the run to the finish she stopped and Red Rag took up the running. In the final sixteenth Snowflake moved up with a rush and won in a drive by half a length. Red Rag beat Erin four lengths.

Dr. George King, Net Star of 1926, Dead

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—The death of Dr. George King, of New York, nationally known tennis star and a member of the country's "first ten" in 1926, became known today. He was 36 years old.

Dr. King died this morning at Presbyterian Hospital. He had been ill for nearly two months following a kidney operation and for the last three days had been sinking rapidly.

A graduate of Columbia University, where he first achieved renown as a tennis player, Dr. King was a practicing physician in New York. He is survived by a widow and two small children.

Power Boat Races Saturday For Tidal Basin Planned

ANOTHER power-boat carnival, similar to that held on May 24, will take place in the Tidal Basin on Saturday, if plans of the officials of the Inboard and Outboard Association carry through at a meeting today.

Stanley H. Horner, president of the association, said yesterday that another carnival on Saturday was likely, but that final decision would be delayed until after the meeting today. Similar events are scheduled to take place at frequent intervals throughout the summer and devotees of the sport were hoping yesterday that the second would materialize on Saturday.

Although handicapped in the inaugural last month by a driving rain, interest in the first motor boat races ever held in the basin was above the average, and officials are confident that a clear day will send local enthusiasm even higher.

While many were kept at home by the rough elements, a thousand or more were interested enough to absorb a soaking on the edges of the basin in order to witness the events and given the benefits of a pleasant day, the races bid fair to attract a sizable crowd.

While no regattas have been definitely entered by the Potomac Boat Club this summer, members of that club are working out daily in an effort to establish their qualifications for entrance. There is no indication of an eight-oared crew, but a four-oared sweep and a quad is being used daily, with the club's veterans working out in the latter.

A special time must be made over a certain distance before a crew is allowed to enter a regatta and members of both teams are hoping to "make" the time.

Bostwick, Star Rider, Joins U. S. Polo Team

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—George H. (Pete) Bostwick, gentleman steeplechase rider and promising young polo player, today was added to the American squad training as candidates for the team to defend the International Cup against the British challenge in September. Bostwick was invited to join the squad, making a total of 17 candidates, as a result of fine play as No. 1 on a team led by Tommy Hitchcock, the American captain, at the Sands Point Club last Sunday. Bostwick and Hitchcock are cousins.

Bostwick is only 20 years old and has a four-goal rating, making him both the youngest and lowest ranking player on the international squad. He is a fine horseman and took up polo as one of the proteges of Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, sr., at Aiken, S. C.

Selection of the American "Big Four" for the 1930 internationals will be based solely upon playing ability, with no social or personal factor involved, according to a definite statement of policy made by A. Charles Schwartz, spokesman of the defense committee.

MISS ADKINS WINS NET TITLE

Esther Jolley Beaten on Playground by 10-8, 8-10, 6-2.

LOVEYE ADKINS yesterday won the girls' playground tennis championship of the District of Columbia when she defeated Esther Jolley in three hard-fought matches at the Plaza Playground, 10—8, 8—10, 6—2. The match marked the final round of the tournament wheih had opened with 53 entrants.

After a stubborn first set in which the battling was on even terms, it appeared as if Miss Adkins might win the second set in a walk, gaining a 5—2 advantage over her opponent. A gallant rally, however, enabled Miss Jolley to square the set at 5—5 and from then until the eighteenth game, neither girl was able to win two games in succession.

Play at the start of the final set was equally close but after she had gained a 3—2 margin, the eventual winner was never extended, capturing the next three games without trouble. Miss Adkins' swift serve, however, had Miss Jolley worried throughout.

SEEKING SUNDAY GAME.

The Colonial A. C. of Alexandria is without a game for Sunday and would like to schedule any unlimited or senior nine. Teams interested should call Alexandria 2311.

SEEK OUT-OF-TOWN FOE.

The Mohawk Baseball Team will drill at 5 o'clock today on Fairlawn Field. A game with some out-of-town team is wanted for Saturday. Interested parties may call Lincoln 1655-J or write C. K. Amidon, 7 Eighteenth street southeast, apartment 22.

Nicholson, 19, to Represent City Club in 15-Mile Run

THE lone representative of the City Club, leader among local organizations sponsoring long-distance running, Erwin "Bus" Nicholson, 19 years of age, will compete Saturday in the national amateur championship 15-mile run through Potomac Park and the Ellipse.

In a practice run of 8 miles recently Nicholson, who has never run in competition before, covered the first 4 miles in 22 minutes and the second 4 in 31 minutes. He will traverse the championship course today under the direction of Jack Whitely, City Club coach.

The run is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. Saturday at the zero milestone on the Ellipse. This spot also will mark the finish.

Officials in charge are busy completing details for conducting the event. The Y. M. C. A. will be the headquarters for contestants. The American Red Cross will furnish two ambulances and a first-aid station, while the park police will form an escort for the runners. The Chiropodists Society will have members present to attend the needs of any runners suffering with sore feet.

The committee in charge is composed of Dr. O. U. Singer, chairman; Winfree Johnson, John D. O'Reilly, Kip Edwards, Charles E. Beckett and James Dewey. Officials for the race will be named Friday.

John Doeg, of America's Davis Cup Team, will soon marry Dorothea Scudder, daughter of the publisher of the Newark Evening News.

The West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills, puts to shame every other tennis establishment in the world for size and splendor. There is a clubhouse, a marquee, 27 grass courts, 37 clay courts and a tennis stadium seating 15,000.

Bill Buchanan, one of the better local players and formerly municipal doubles champion, is suffering from an eye strain that may put his tennis on the blink for a week or so. The unlucky ailment took him during the City of Washington championship.

Tom Frydell, last season's pro at Wardman Park Hotel, is now connected with the Country Club of Northampton County, Easton, Pa.

The last week has been the most pediculous tennis weather we've seen in many beers. If the dust and bumps on the Sixteenth Street courts were laid end to end it would look like the Sixteenth Street courts.

Every livelong soul who has ever watched an athletic contest of any sort plays with in his mind the possibility of a battle between the current champion an dthe champion of 1880. J. Parmly Paret, formerly national indoor champion, and author of many notable tracts on the game, is making a serious study of the problem of whether these comparisons can really be made. He takes tennis as his topic game.

Writing in the current and impending issues of American Lawn Tennis he intends to track this old sports bugaboo to its lair and take its picture. As a starter he quotes G. W. Hillyard, author of "Forty Years of First Class Lawn Tennis"—a great book, by the way—who mixes no shots in saying:

"And yet people talk as if what they please to call a modern game is far more strenuous and exhausting. All I can say is that I have played tennis for 40 years and I have yet to see the man who could hit harder or more accurately than S. H. Smith, volley better than E. W. Lewis or is faster than Ernest Renshaw or H. L. Doherty. There is nothing new in tennis."

NIGHT GAME SCHEDULED BY TECH

1930 Eleven to Meet Baltimore Poly; 9 Other Games.

NEGOTIATIONS for a night football game with Baltimore Polytechnic School of Baltimore were completed yesterday by Tech High School, to be played at Baltimore on September 26. The game is one of ten arranged for the 1930 Maroon and Gray eleven and will necessitate the playing of two games on successive days.

After playing at Baltimore on Friday night, the Tech players will immediately board a train for Winchester, Va., where they will meet the Handley High School on the following day. Although this would normally be a tremendous strain on any team, Coach Hardell envisions a large and husky squad next year and is eager for the experiment.

The schedule stands as follows: September 26, Baltimore Poly, at Baltimore; 27, Handley High, at Winchester, Va.; October 3, Episcopal, at Alexandria; 17, Business; 28, Central; 31, Woodward; November 7, Western; 18, Eastern; 27, Swavely, at Manassas, Va.; December 5, Gonzaga.

JUNIORS AFTER GAMES.

The Hilltop Juniors are after games. Call Bill Davis at Atlantic 3322 between 6 and 8 p. m.

PEEWEE NINE BOOKING.

The G. R. P. A. Peewees will play any team in its class on Saturdays or Sundays, on which days they have their own diamond. For games, call Capt. George Clainos at Metropolitan 2084.

SCHMELING SAYS HE SHARES GLORY WITH TRAINER

Max and Max Combination Old One

Fighter and Trainer Are Inseparable, Says German.

Won European Title Under Tutelage of Machon.

By MAX SCHMELING
(As Told to Jimmy Powers).

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 4.—One night six years ago I was in Cologne fighting in the preliminaries. I was only 18 years old and I was a light-heavyweight. I won my fight by a knockout and after dressing walked down to the ringside. There I met a short, dapper man who was the manager of the light-heavyweight champion, Richard Naujons. He said to me, "Young fellow, I will give you 25 marks if you will help me in the champion's corner tonight." I said I would and I helped him second his man.

From that day on Max Machon and I were friends and that is why I want to say right here that two things will win me my fight over Jack Sharkey the night of June 12—my right fist and Max Machon.

I consider one just as important as the other. Without Max Machon I would be lost just as I would be helpless without my right. I have always had good luck since I met Max Machon. He has helped me train for six championship fights. The night I met him I knocked out Fred Hammer in one round.

Machon Had Fight Farm.

Then we corresponded with each other. I came to Berlin and began to train for fights. Max Machon had a training farm about as far away from Berlin as Gus Wilson's place is from New York. I had no manager at that time. Arthur von Bulow was a newspaperman, and he watched me compile a string of knockouts, but I managed myself. Max Machon kept on encouraging me and we used to take long walks or hikes in the hills outside Berlin, talking about America.

The first fight I had under Machon's training was with a tough fellow named August von Gehr. I knocked him out in the first round. Four weeks later I fought for the light-heavyweight championship at Luna Park, in Berlin. Faithful Max Machon trudged over there with me and while many thought I did not have a chance, I won the title, knocking out Max Dickman to do so. Machon kept encouraging me and said, "Let's go back to Lanke and try for the championship of Europe." Lanke was Machon's camp.

Knocked Out Five In Afternoon.

I went back there and began to click well under Machon's tutelage. I knocked out five sparring partners one afternoon, including a chap named Dressler who had gone ten rounds with Battling Siki. This gave me confidence and I went on to win, under Machon's supervision, the light-heavyweight championship of Europe, the heavyweight championship of Germany and the heavyweight championship of Europe, and I twice successfully defended my title with the championship at stake.

Here I am working for the championship of the world and now you can realize how much I need Machon and how I'd feel without him. We have similarly attuned bodies and when the two of us are running on the road Max will say, "I feel loggy. I don't think you'd better work tomorrow," and I always agree with him because he notices every little move of mine and I usually feel the way he does about when to train and when not to train. That's very important.

So I say if I win the championship June 12, Max will play as big a role in it as my right-hand sock to the button. So?

hand while the other fellow was sitting back waiting for an opening. On both occasions fighters who since have proved their mediocrity, namely James J. Braddock and Jack Gagnon were the anaesthetists.

Sharkey Looks Like Champion.

Aside from this sad propensity for favoring the right, Mr. Sharkey looked as much like a champion today as ever any man did. Certainly Tunney, in his preparation for the first Dempsey fight never showed the skill and speed that the Bostonian did. Nor did Dempsey during the ill-fated and sheriff-infested training period. Even at Toledo, where Dempsey was the greatest Dempsey of history, the old Manassa mauler didn't show the speed and all-around boxing skill that Sharkey has exhibited in his training.

Tomorrow we move on to Endicott where the German Schmeling is working. After that there may be more to be said on this Sharkey man and his chance.

TUNNEY-MULDOON CUP BUILT ON FLATTERY

mirable job of keeping his mouth shut when Francois DesCamps, Tex Rickard and Georges himself were doing what they could to create an illusion of mystery and sinister power for a heavy middleweight who was matched to fight the greatest heavyweight prize fighter of modern times and perhaps of all time.

Carpentier Perfects Mystery Punch.

In those days, Gus would lean upon the upper strand of wire fence at Carpentier's place at Manhasset during Georges' off-hours, wag his head slowly, smile a smile that was intended to be inscrutable and puzzling and say, "Nobody can come in now; Georges is having secret practice with his new mystery punch."

In the end it developed that Georges did not know any punches beyond the orthodox routine. The only punch he landed on Dempsey was a straight right hand, a sucker punch, delivered without even a preparatory left jab. But Gus had only done as he had been paid to do, and nobody had been deceived, so nobody was annoyed and nowadays he is well regarded in the prize fight business.

Sharkey is in training most of the time because his whole existence is a matter of bag-punching, boxing, calisthenics and road-work and this so-called intensive training up here at Gus Wilson's go-as-you-please plantation beside the road is only a phase of the ballyhoo for a box-office show. If he and Schmeling were to hop into the training ring today or fight the matter out, bare-handed out in the dusty highway, the result would be just as authentic. But, of course, that is not the way such things are done.

Barrett Goes to Millers; Boss With Jersey City

Outfielder Bill Barrett, recently obtained from the Red Sox in a trade for Earl Webb, yesterday was sold outright by the Washington Baseball Club to Minneapolis, of the American Association, is was announced by President Clark Griffith.

At the same time Griffith revealed the fact that Harley Boss, the 21-year-old understudy to Joe Judge, had been sent to Jersey City, of the International League, on a 24-hour option, and that in his first games with the Skeeters on Tuesday he hit safely three times in four trips to the plate.

Barrett saw little service with Washington, being used only as a pinch hitter, in which capacity he failed to make good.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

well here. Yesterday they pounded Earl Whitehill, a former enigma, off the hill, while Hogsett, also of southpaw persuasion, heard the shower call in today's game.

Stupid base running by Roy Spencer cost the Nationals a run in the fourth. After reaching second on Koenig's heave over Alexander's head, Marberry lashed a liner to deep center. Spencer probably was the only one in the park who thought that there was any chance of the ball being caught. He held second until it hit the ground and then tried to score, being caught on Koenig's fast relay of Funk's return peg.

When Goslin fanned with the count three and two on him in the fifth, the Tigers turned in their second twin murder of the game, Hargrave nailing Rice, who was off heading for second on the pitch.

Gehringer, the Tiger's great second sacker, tripled his first time up and doubled on his second trip. On his next showing at the swinging block, in the fifth, he would have gotten a third blow but for a sensational over-the-shoulder catch by Shortstop Joe Cronin well in left field.

While chasing a foul off Rice's bat in the seventh, "Pinky" Hargrave ran into the short wall guarding a box near the Detroit dugout and fell over into the laps of the cash customers.

The "lucky" frame was "everything else but" for Goose Goslin. He shot a grass-cutter almost directly over first, Alexander just happening to stick out his glove at the proper time and place, the ball sticking in it.

Starting the home seventh, Marberry walked Hargrave on four successive balls.

While covering first in the home seventh, Thomas used up more than his share of the base and McManus collided with him. Both turned flipflops, but only the Tiger infielder was hurt, he being forced to quit the game because of an injured hip.

With one gone in the eighth, Thomas pitched seven consecutive balls, walking Johnson and making the count three and nothing on Hargrave. When he finally passed the Tiger receiver, he joined Marberry in the weeping room.

Hayes turned in a fine catch to rob Whitehill of a hit and to end the home ninth after the Tigers had knotted the count.

again, all of the run-producing hits coming after two were out. Between these killings, Bluege had drawn a pass. He advanced a base on Spencer's single and scored on one off Marberry's bat. The latter took third on a throw-in and then West scored him and Spencer with a mile-a-minute single over second. The Bengals did a little growling in their half, McManus and Koenig each hitting for a base, but both were left.

Marberry Pounded Out in Seventh.

All the Nats drew from the seventh was Judge's walk and theft, but it was different in the case of the Harrismen, who pounded Marberry, who had showed signs of weakening, off the hill. Marberry walked Hargrave, first up, and Pinch-Hitter Stone singled to center, both he and Hargrave advancing when West toyed with the ball. Thomas then toed the slab and Funk's long sacrifice fly scored one run and let Stone take third, and Gehringer then singled one home. This ended the rally.

In the next frame, Thomas was excused for a nearby shower, his main fault being wildness. After Fothergill opened with a single and had been forced by Koenig, Thomas filled the bases by walking Johnson and Hargrave in turn. Johnson walked Thomas out and Braxton in. Uhle, up for Sullivan, scored one with a sacrifice fly and Funk singled another one home. Braxton then passed Gehringer, filling the bases for a second time.

Bluege had a chance to end this frame when he knocked down Rogell's hot one, but hesitated about making the try for a force-out at third and then pegged late to first. This went as a hit and let another run score. This put the Tigers only one run behind and the sacks still filled, the round ending when Cronin pegged out Alexander.

Whitehill Makes Good Start.

Whitehill, pummeled yesterday, seemed to have plenty when he faced the Nationals in the ninth, for he fanned Braxton and West, first two up, and forced Rice to loft to Fothergill. It looked as though Braxton could make the Washington lead stand up when he retired the first two up, but Johnson hit his second double of the game and Hargrave then scored him on a Texas Leaguer just out of Cronin's reach. It looked as though Whitehill might keep the rally alive when he lined toward right, but Hayes turned in a fine catch.

The Nats made their winning rally in the tenth as recorded above and this time Braxton retired the aliens in order, ending the game by fanning Rogell.

MAX TARGET FOR MATES' PUNCHES

German Is Ordered to Rest After Listless Workout.

Shaw, who seemed still to be suffering from the bad beating Max gave him yesterday, Umberto Torriani, a 215-pound Italian novice, topped the uprising by belting Schmeling several times with solid right crosses.

Torriani, barely able in the past to stand up for a full round before Schmeling's flood of short head punches, finished two rounds today, gory but triumphant, a right to the chin, instead of quieting him in the second round, knocked him half goofy but full of ruthlessness and a desire to go down fighting. His wild right hand smacked full on Schmeling's chin, but the Teuton cut him badly about the nose before the round ended.

Although Schmeling's weight has not been announced he appears several pounds under 187, his best figure. After a two-day rest he will enter the final boxing stage of his training. He may leave for New York next Tuesday.

COBB, BOXER, FINED.

N. B. A. Will Recognize Winner of Sharkey Bout

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 4 (A.P.).—Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the National Boxing Association, tonight announced that the N. B. A. would recognize as champion of the world the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling heavyweight boxing bout in New York June 12.

There had been some doubt as to what action the N. B. A. would take, efforts having been made last winter to draw out Jack Dempsey, former champion, on his feelings toward reentering the ring. At that time, Isaacs said, the winner would not be recognized if Demtsey still wanted to fight. Dempsey, however, never gave the N. B. A. a definite answer.

Isaacs said Thomas E. Donohue, Hartford, Conn., chairman of the championship committee, had been in communication with the other members, and that a decision was reached to recognize the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight as the world's champion.

Von Porat Not Ready For Stribling Bout Now

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Otto Von Porat, the big Norse annihilator, has refused to go through with his contemplated ten-round match with Young Stribling.

The match was billed for the Chicago Stadium, June 16, but Von Porat suddenly informed the stadium matchmaker he did not care to meet Stribling at this time.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Ed Stevenson, manager of Otto von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight boxer, today was ordered by the Illinois State Athletic Commission to appear before it tomorrow morning and explain why he refused to sign up for a fight between von Porat and William Stribling in the Chicago Stadium June 16.

PRIMO FACES CHRISTNER TONIGHT

Detroit Match Is First Real Test for Italian Giant.

DETROIT, Mich., June 4 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera will make his first start against first-class competition in the United States tomorrow night at Floyd Fitzsimmons' State Fair Ground arena here in a ten-round bout with K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio.

The Italian will outweigh Christner by about 75 pounds, scaling over 270, compared with the Akron fighter's 197. He is almost 8 inches taller and has a 10-inch reach advantage, but Christner is expected to give him a battle, having shown well against leaders among the heavyweights.

Both fighters have completed training and have been pronounced in condition. They attended the Washington-Detroit baseball game today. Primo had his picture taken with Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, American comedians.

Von Elm in Semifinals Of French Amateur Golf

La Boulie, France, June 4 (A.P.).—George Von Elm, Detroit, continued to play sterling golf in the French amateur championship, winning his fourth round match from C. W. Potter, 7 up and 6 to play, and advancing to the semifinals, where he will meet another American, Raleigh Allen, Asheville, N. C. Andre Gobert, former French tennis champion, has survived to the quarterfinals and may meet Von Elm or Allen in the semifinals tomorrow.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

RECIPE FOR SPONGE CAKE

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Because of their delicate texture, sponge cakes require more careful mixing and baking than other types. The usual method of mixing plain sponge cakes is as follows: Add the sugar to the beaten egg yolks and then the flour and half the salt after the flour has been sifted. Add the other part of the salt to the egg whites, beat them stiff, fold them into the mixture, and add the flavoring last. For beating eggs a dover beater gives satisfactory results and requires less time and energy than a wire whisk.

Pour the batter as soon as it is mixed, into smooth, ungreased baking pans. For a large or medium-sized loaf a tube pan is best, because the center opening allows the mixture to heat evenly. Powdered sugar may be sifted over the top to make the crust more crisp. The oven should be ready for the cake as soon as it is mixed and in the pan. A large, medium-sized sponge cake should be baked slowly at about 325 degrees Fahrenheit, small cakes at somewhat higher temperature, or about 340 degrees F.

STOCK PRICES MOVE HESITANTLY UPWARD

Importance of Rise Offset by Dullest Market in Past Four Months.

OIL LIST HEADS ADVANCE

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Stock prices moved hesitantly higher today, going against the trend of commodities in the dullest five hours of trading since January 20.

The small degree of success enjoyed by the bulls was largely traceable to the existence of an oversold condition resulting from yesterday's reaction to the unfavorable reports from the steel industry. Short covering appeared on a rally in the oil shares early in the day and quotations worked laboriously upward under the leadership of the petroleum shares, selected specialties and a few industrials. Profit-taking reduced the gains, but the more prominent shares closed firm. Gains of 2 to 3 points or better were made by a dozen or so miscellaneous shares.

Bar silver took another tumble, reaching new lows both here and in London. Wheat weakened, dropping more than 2 cents on varied Government weather reports, including rains in Nebraska and favorable conditions in the Southwest. Corn was easy, ⅝ to 1¼ lower, while cotton dropped 11 to 21 points net, partly in sympathy with the weaker Liverpool market. Raw sugar was firmer, but refiners cut the price of their staple 20 points. Crude rubber futures here established a new low, the July No. 1 standard contract touching 13.32 cents. The Rubber Manufacturers Association announced that sales of manufactured products declined 6.6 per cent in the first quarter, as compared with the last quarter of 1929. The decrease from the first three months of last year was about 20 per cent.

Steel Outlook Better.

News from the steel trade was a trifle more optimistic. The weekly reviews said that improvement in operating ratios could hardly be expected before August or September, but noted several favorable factors. Chief among them was an increase of 50 cents a ton in the price of heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh, the first rise since mid-February. Attention was also called to the steadier tone in finished steel prices and to the continued expansion of the pipe line industry. Pig iron prices have eased. However, Iron Trade Review said the decline was more than counterbalanced by the firmer tone to semifinished material at leading producing centers, and reported the first improvement since December in its iron and steel index price.

Bradstreet's noted a 4.3 per cent drop in May bank clearings, as compared with April. The slump from May, 1929, was 13 per cent.

Time money was quoted at 2¾ to 3 per cent for the 30-day maturity by some dealers. It was said, however, that this low rate was for the remainder of this month only, and little or no money was available at that interest. The money post on the stock exchange held call loans at 3 per cent, although the rate got down to 2½ on the outside for the first time in about a week.

Firestone Preferred Declines.

Aside from technical considerations, there was little to stimulate an advance in stock prices and trading became as stagnant on the rise as it has turned on declines in recent weeks. Speculators for the advance managed to lift a few stocks, including Armour of Delaware preferred, McKeesport Tin Plate, Madison Square Garden, Wheeling & Lake Erie and Foster Wheeler, to new 1930 highs. On the other hand, Pere Marquette, Lehn & Fink, Bayuk Cigar, Curtis Wright "A," Firestone preferred, Pullman and American Encaustic Tiling touched new lows.

U. S. Steel broke below 170 under the mild selling operations of the forenoon, rallied a couple of points from its low on the appearance of the trade reviews, and closed fractionally higher. General Electric was supported for a net gain of more than a point. Most of the buying was reported to have come from a single operator, but the report went the rounds that the directors might declare an extra dividend of 25 cents at their meeting late this week. Westinghouse Electric, General Motors, Atchison, Radio Keith Orpheum, Loew's, United Aircraft, North American, Western Union, Standard Gas & Electric and Stone & Webster progressed moderately. Coca Cola, Columbian Carbon, International Salt and National Cash Register were up about 3. J. I. Case rallied 9 net.

Houston Oil, with a gain of more than 5 points, led the petroleum group. Standard Oil of New Jersey moved up through 80, but failed to hold its top. Simms, Sinclair, Sun, Pierce preferred and Standard of Kansas were other favorites.

European exchanges firmed; sterling cables and the French franc improving slightly. Shanghai made another new low as bar silver slumped.

BONDS VARY LITTLE IN QUIET TURNOVER

Several Rails Score Gains as Few Active Foreign Issues Yield.

UTILITIES PROVE STEADY

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Prices of listed bonds, with a few exceptions, showed no disposition to seek higher levels and trading continued slow. The movement offered little encouragement to traders who anticipated a marked improvement this month. Closing prices gave the constructive side only a slight advantage.

Again, issues in the foreign list came in for special attention, but even there some of the most active reflected the sluggishness of the market, and yielded ground. The domestic group ruled steady. Several rails gained higher levels but the movement in that class was irregular. Utilities were quiet and firm. Some sharp changes occurred among industrials. Late buying helped to offset the apathy shown during the forenoon toward United States Governments and several issues gained.

Pennsylvania 4½s and Missouri Pacific general 4s were accumulated more extensively than any other rail issues, with the former making a ½ point gain, and the latter losing fractionally. Canadian Pacific 4½s approached the year's high, St. Paul general 4½s, Erie 5s and Chesapeake 4½s gained from ¼ to ¾ of a point.

The most heavily traded issues in the foreign list showed an inclination to sag but quite a few of those for which the demand was only nominal firmed. Among these were Bolivia 7s, up 1¼; Canadian 5s, up ¾, and French 7½s up ⅜.

Schulco 5½s rose 5 points to a new year's high on a few sales. International Great Northern adjustments reached a 1930 low. Colon Oil 6s dropped 1 point to its year's low level.

The Kingdom of Norway Municipalities Bank, of Oslo, it was announced today, has sold an issue of 40-year 5 per cent bonds amounting to about $10,720,000, to an international group on a joint bid for half of the issue in United States dollars and the other half in Swedish kroner.

BANKERS WILL OPEN CONVENTION TODAY

Two Special Trains Carry More Than 200 to Asheville Event.

ARE TO RETURN MONDAY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

More than 200 members of the District of Columbia Bankers Association left for Asheville, N. C., last night, where, for the next four days, they will play, work and plan. Two special Southern Railway trains bore them, their families and guests to "the Land of the Sky," as the advertisements term the scene of this year's annual convention. Grove Park Inn, a short distance from the city of Asheville, in the center of a beautiful and healthful region, will be the place of their deliberations.

Amid invigorating surroundings their meetings will convene, beginning today. Mornings will be devoted to business; afternoons and evenings to sport and entertainment. Problems of legislation, expansion, and organization are to be discussed at the sittings of the bankers' official group. Its assemblies will hear good advice on important subjects from authorities on various interesting and timely matters of finance. Next Monday its members will return to their work refreshed, rested, stronger and better informed components of a more powerful organization.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., with local offices, received a stock order yesterday from Stuyvesant Leroy French, passenger on the Graf Zeppelin bound for Seville and Friederichshafen. Mr. French is an attorney of the firm of Bleecker & Tuckerman. From the radio station in the airship the order was sent to the Chatham station of the Radio Corporation of America, relayed to New York and delivered to the Murphy office at 52 Broadway on a regular Western Union telegram form.

Metropolis Building Directors.

All directors of the Metropolis Building Association were reelected yesterday at the annual meeting held at the association's office, Second and Pennsylvania avenue southeast. They are: Harry G. Wilson, John Scrivener, Edward A. Tripp, George M. Siebert, James H. Keller, William A. Simpson, Henry M. Wiegand, Henry W. Jaeger, Martin T. Wiegand, Arthur Seagren, Harry H. Wilson and Rudolph W. Santelmann.

General Baking Co. this week puts in operation its new $1,000,000 plant in this city, replacing its former plant that was purchased by the Government to provide space for erection of new Federal buildings adjoining the Capitol. The company also has just completed rebuilding and reequipping its Louisville, Ky., plant which was acquired a little over a year ago.

The Washington plant has a capacity of 4,000 loaves of bread an hour or twice that of the plant replaced. It is regarded by officials of the company as one of the best equipped of its system of 50 plants, and has a traveling oven and cooling equipment with provision for doubling present facilities when needed.

East Washington Bank Trustees.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the East Washington Savings Bank, held yesterday, all of the following trustees were reelected: Francis J. Kane, John C. W. Beall, James A. Donohoe, Gratz E. Dunkum, Lewis Flemer, John Ford, W. P. C. Hazen, Henry H. McKee, Morris E. Marlow, William N. Payne, Samuel H. Walker, John C. Yost, T. Earle Bourne, Charles A. Carry and Walter H. Marlow, jr.

Austin B. Rohrbaugh, who has been placed in charge of the customers' securities department of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., has been connected for a number of years with the investment department of the Mercantile Trust Co. of Baltimore.

Mr. Rohrbaugh brings to Washington an enviable reputation for sound judgment and knowledge of securities and is a welcome addition to the ranks of the bankers of this city, who are constantly aiming to protect the interests of customers seeking investments.

Henry J. Sterzer has been elected a director of the Franklin National Bank.

Hoover Will Open Chicago Building

Electric Signal Sent From Capital to Launch New Trade Headquarters.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Pressing a button in the White House, to start the market, President Hoover will officially open the new Chicago Board of Trade Building on Monday.

The opening of the Chicago Grain Market has been postponed, for this occasion, to 10 o'clock from the usual hour of 9:30. Greetings will also be flashed to the Chicago Board of Trade from the Liverpool Corn Exchange, as well as all of the leading grain exchanges in the United States and Canada.

The new building, tallest in Chicago, 605 feet, replaces the historic structure that housed the mart from 1885 to 1928. The site is the same, in the center of La Salle street on Jackson boulevard.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Pilot Radio & Tube.

E. F.—I am interested in buying 50 shares of Pilot Radio & Tube stock. Has there been any change in the company that might affect previous optimistic remarks made concerning the stock? It is especially appealing to me because of the rate of return.

Answer—There has been no change that the writer knows of that might affect the earnings of the company. Sales have shown a progressive increase this year. As the summer months are rather dull for the radio companies, perhaps this has had something to do with the lower price of the stock and the higher yield, based on the $1.20 per year dividend. Pilot may be regarded as a speculative investment with some promise.

Indian Moto Cycle, Auto Sales.

G. L. B.—Will you kindly give me your opinion of Indian Moto Cycle common and Auto Sales common.

Answer—Both these stocks are highly speculative and unworthy of consideration from an investment viewpoint. Both companies reported losses from operations in 1929 as compared with figures of the previous year, while Auto Sales passed its preferred stock dividend January 15, 1930, and Indian Moto Cycle suspended payments on both common and preferred in the latter part of 1929.

Copper Stocks.

G. H.—As I am contemplating purchasing stock in several companies, request information as to location of mining properties owned or controlled by the following, also general offices of each and where stock certificates should be sent for recording: Anaconda, Andes, Calumet & Arizona, Calumet & Hecla, Cerro de Pasco, Grande Inspiration, Kennecott, Magma, Miami, Nevada Consolidated, Phelps-Dodge?

Answer—The information sought follows in the order given: Butte, Montana, Anaconda, Montana, Bankers Trust Co., New York; Province of Atocoma, Chile, 25 Broadway, New York, Guaranty Trust Co., New York; Bisbee, Ariz., Calumet, Mich., Chase National Bank, New York; Houghton and Keewenaw counties, Mich., 12 Ashburton Place, Boston, Farmers Loan & Trust, New York; Cerro de Pasco, district Peru, 14 Wall street, New York, Bankers Trust Co., New York; British Columbia, Vancouver, B. C., Chase National Bank, New York; Gila County, Arizona, 25 Broadway, New York, Bankers Trust Co., New York; Kennecott and Latouche Island, Alaska, 120 Broadway, New York, Bankers Trust Co., New York; Superior, Ariz., 14 Wall street New York, Bankers Trust Co., New York; Red Spring district, Arizona, 61 Broadway, New York, Chase National Bank, New York; Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, 25 Broad street, New York, Guarantee Trust Co., New York; Bisbee and other parts of Arizona, 40 Wall street, New York, City Bank Farmers Trust, New York.

Ford and Others.

E. M. G.—I bought a few shares of Ford, Ltd., at 19 and American Founders at 21¼. What is your opinion of them to hold from one to twelve months? Am thinking of buying the same amount of Packard, Kelvinator, Cities Service common, Shenandoah and United Founders. What low price stock would you advise buying and to hold for a few months for a profit?

Answer—The writer does not advise whether to hold or sell stocks but merely gives the facts. Ford, Ltd., American shares recently declared an initial dividend of 37½ cents, payable by the Guarantee Trust Co., of New York, while American Founders recently declared an initial dividend of 33 1-3 cents. You must use your own judgment whether to hold or sell them. Of the two, the outlook for Ford appears brighter.

Packard, Shenandoah and Kelvinator pay nothing, although earnings of Kelvinator have experienced a sharp recovery United Founders pays only one-seventieth of a share quarterly in common stock, while Cities Service distributes 30 cents annually and 6 per cent in stock. Cities Service may be regarded as a good speculative investment to be held. This column does not give out tips for short-term speculative plays.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has completed engineering plans to lay a twin 10-inch pipe line of 300 miles between Tulsa, Okla., to a point near Wood River, Ill., 13 miles north of St. Louis. It was learned here, at a cost of about $15,000,000.

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. has made substantial additions to its working forces to increase daily production of cigarettes.

The Eaton Axle Co. has announced that holders of Wilcox-Rich Co. B stock who have deposited it under the plan for the merger of the two concerns, will participate in the next dividend.

The General Utility Securities has been formed to deal in securities, particularly those of the Associated Gas & Electric System. The new concern will take over the present activities of Associated Gas & Electric Securities, Inc., in connection with wholesale sales formerly handled by the latter. H. C. Hopson is president of the new company.

Charles Hayden, of Hayden, Stone & Co., has been elected by the board of directors of Certain-teed Products Corporation to fill a vacancy.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation and subsidiaries announce that employes bought 141,825 shares of stock during the first year of operation of the stock purchase and profit sharing plan. About 35 per cent of eligible employes are stockholders.

J. J. Theisen, of St. Josephs, Mich., was elected a new director of the Mid-Continental Petroleum Corporation at the company's annual meeting at Wilmington, Del., today. All other directors were reelected. At a special stockholders' meeting previous to the annual meeting, the stockholders approved an amendment to the company's charter whic' permits the sale of not more than 150,000 shares of the company's common stock to the trustees, who are charged with the administration of the employes' stock acquisition plan. The price of the stock is to be fixed by the directors as of August 1, 1930, and quarterly thereafter during the period covered by the plan. The price shall not be above nor more than 10 per cent below the average market of the stock for the previous three months.

The American acceptance council today announced reductions totaling ¼ of 1 per cent in bid and asked rates on bankers' bills. The new rates are 2⅜ bid, 2¼ asked on 30 to 90 day acceptances; 2½ and 2⅜ on 120 days, and 2⅜ and 2½ on 5 to 6 months.

International Telephone & Telegraph Co. reports 1929 net income of $17,732,158, equal to $3.03 a share on 5,858,984 shares of common outstanding at the end of the year. This compares with 1928 net of $14,596,336, or $3.42 each on 4,268,355 shares, the equivalent of the old stock.

Plans to combine the Muskegon Moto Specialties Co. and the Jackson Motor Shaft Co. have been declared operative. More than two-thirds of the Jackson company's shares have been deposited under the plan, and will participate in the next Muskegon dividend, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 20.

Cotton goods were in improved inquiry during the day in the gray cloth division. Sheer wash fabrics and printed wash goods are more active. Figures of the silk movement in May showed the smallest stock on hand in this country for several years, but the largest stocks ever carried in Japan. Mill deliveries were the smallest in two and a half years or more. Imports were the smallest on record for years, while prices are on a prewar level. Moderate filling in business is reported on dress goods and worsted piece goods. Burlaps were unchanged.

The American Acceptance Council today announced reductions totaling ¼ of 1 per cent in bid and asked rates on bankers' bills. The new rates are: 2⅜ bid, 2¼ asked on 30 to 90 day acceptances; 2½ and 2⅜ on 120 days, and 2⅜ and 2½ on five and six months.

The governing committee of the Chicago Stock Exchange today reelected Charles T. Atkinson as chairman and secretary for the twenty-first time. He has held the office since 1909. William Schubert was reelected vice chairman.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Jolted by news that Canadian wheat fields suffering from dust storms have received the best rains of the year, wheat prices today plunged downtrade. The break was accompanied by big selling to stop losses on the part of holders of future delivery contracts. Timely moisture in the spring wheat belt south of the Canadian border also tended to topple the market.

Closing quotations on wheat were at about the day's bottom level, 2 to 2¾c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾@1⅞c off, oats ½@¾c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

Virtual collapse of the wheat market today came in the final hour of trading. From the outset, however, bushes with connections Northwest were prominent on the selling side of the market, and during most of the time there was a decided absence of support from buyers. One good rally, though, was witnessed as a result of Winnipeg reports that although rains would help to minimize injury of wheat from dust storms, irreparable damage had been done in many Canadian districts, and that reseeding over a large amount of territory would be essential.

Weakness of export premiums for wheat at the Gulf of Mexico did a good deal at times to pull the props from under the market here. Besides, taken as a whole, export business today in wheat from North America was again slow, and there was little in the advices at hand which suggested any serious apprehension over the crop outlook in Europe. Reports that many winter wheat fields in adjoining parts of Oklahoma and Kansas are turning white as a result of the root rot failed to exert any apparent market influence. Harvesting is now expected to start in Kansas within two or three weeks.

Corn and oats gave way owing to sympathy with wheat weakness. Corn planting was reported as rapidly nearing completion.

Provisions ruled firm on account of scattered buying despite a late downward trend of hog values.

WHEAT—No. 2 red, 1.10; No. 2 Northern spring, 1.06.

CORN—No 2 mixed, 81½; No. 3 mixed, 80½@81.

OATS—No. 2 white, 41¼@41½; No. 3 white, 40¼@41¼.

RYE—No sales.

BARLEY—50@58.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON SEWAGE PLANS ARE OUTLINED

Supervisors Issue Complete Account of How Fund Will Be Allotted.

COST IS EXPLAINED

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Meeting in special session at the courthouse yesterday, the County Board of Supervisors gave out the following statement on their plans covering the proposed $2,173,089 sewerage bond issue on which the county will vote next Monday.

"The proposed bond issue will cover the cost of the construction of the trunk lines through the various drainage areas as listed below, covering approximately 7-10 of the total area of the county, and serving approximately 24,000 people of the estimated county population of 30,000. These trunk lines will serve all of the built-up portions of the county, and the adjacent and intervening territory.

"Proposed trunk lines:

"Gulf Branch—Serving Golf Club Manor, County Club Hills and territory adjacent.

"Donaldsons Run—Serving Lee Heights and a part of Livingston Heights.

"Windy Run—Serving part of Cherrydale.

Spout Run Plans.

"Spout Run—Serving part of Livingston Heights, part of Cherrydale, Thrifton Village, Aurora Heights, part of Lyon Village, part of Park Lane, part of Clarendon, Waverley Hills, Clarenford and a part of Ballston.

"Rosslyn Branch—Serving part of Park Lane, Colonial Heights, and Mackeys Hill and Rosslyn.

"Rocky Run—Serving part of Clarendon, part of Lyon Village, Fort Myer Heights and Radnor Heights.

"Lubber's Run—Serving Waycroft, Memorial Drive, part of Ballston and part of Halls Hill.

"Doctors Run—Serving part of Barcroft, Alcova Heights, Glebewood, part of New Arlington, part of Ballston and the area adjacent.

"Long Branch—Serving Lyon Park, Ashton Heights, Arlington, Arlington Heights and Johnsons Hill.

"Trunk lines along two streams, names unknown—serving Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills.

"Short trunk lines entering Four Mile Run, above Lubber's Run, serving East Falls Church, Overlee Knolls, Fostoria, Bon Air, Brandon Village and Glencarlyn.

Short Trunk Line.

"Short trunk line to serve Oakcrest, Nauck.

"There has been provided a sum of $464,000 in the bond issue for an interceptor line up the Potomac River, and two disposal plants, one to be located in the vicinity of Rosslyn and one in the vicinity of the mouth of Four Mile Run. These disposal plants will only be built in case it is necessary to do so in order to avoid further pollution of the Potomac River. They will be built only when, and if, we are required to construct them.

"There has been provided in the bond issue an amount of $250,000 to assist in the extension of lateral sewers on streets where there are no sewers. These laterals will be extended under authority of a recent act of the General Assembly, which permits the boards of supervisors to extend the laterals upon its own authority to relieve some insanitary condition, and assess the property owners; or upon the petition, signed by the owners of 60 per cent of the frontage along the street. If the petition is approved, the remaining 40 per cent is assessed per front foot the same as those petitioning. The front foot assessment for laterals will be $1.50, payable one-eighth cash, and one-eighth quarterly, with interest until paid. On those streets where there now is a satisfactory lateral sewer it will be taken over for operation by the county with no front foot assessment being made until such time as it is necessary, on account of unsatisfactory service, to replace it.

To Secure Engineers.

"With the approval of the bond issue by the people, we propose to advertise for, and secure the services of a fully qualified consulting engineer, to plan, design and advise as to the construction of this sewer system. We also propose to let by contract to the lowest, competent qualified bidder all the work. We further propose to advertise for bids for the construction of lateral lines as it becomes necessary to construct them.

"To retire this bond issue in 33 years, as required by law, it will be necessary to place a levy of 30 cents on the $100 assessed valuation on all property in the county, and in addition to make an annual service charge against those using the sewers of $10 per year. A portion of this service charge will be placed to the credit of the sinking fund after cost of maintenance and operation of the system has been taken care of."

The board went on record as opposed to the joint resolution introduced in the House of Representatives prohibiting location or erection of any wharf, fill or other structure on the shores or in the waters of the Potomac River within the District of Columbia without the approval of the District Commissioners and the Director of Public Buildings and Parks of the National Capital.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas Nelson Page School, meeting last night in the schoolhouse, installed its newly elected officers.

Those installed were: Mrs. Gladys Monroe, president; Mrs. Helen Hays, vice president; Mrs. Edwards, secretary; Mrs. Thelma Groton, treasurer, and Mrs. George Hall, chaplain.

The committee chairmen, as announced by the president, are: Program, Mrs. Henry Maxey; membership, Mrs. Elsie Edwards; hospitality, Mrs. Eva Morgan; publicity, Mrs. R. Gooding; finance, Mrs. Robert O. Howell; building and grounds, Mrs. Robert H. Forman; historian, Mrs. Harry Stewart; recreation, Mrs. Edith Rogers; refreshment, Mrs. Sara Germain; dramatic, Mrs. Lillian Mattefield.

Following the installation a musical program was presented, including a number of solos by Catherine Sparr and Jane Long; readings were given by Mary E. Rogers and Henry Massey.

One of the accomplishments of the organization during the year was the placing of a new wire fence about the school grounds. It was stated that the county school board assisted in the raising of the funds necessary to have the work done.

The executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association and other civic organizations sponsoring the campaign favoring the $640,000 school bond issue announces a special radio program for tonight from 7 to 7:30 o'clock over Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills Virginia.

Among the speakers will be County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, Mrs. Julian D. Simpson, president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, and Arthur Orr, chairman of the campaign committee.

Music will be furnished by a chorus of Arlington County school children with solos by little Gladys Marcey.

Harold M. Brown, of Cherrydale, will be master of ceremonies.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp was the principal speaker at the closing meeting of the year of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Robert E. Lee School held in the school auditorium yesterday afternoon. Superintendent Kemp explained fully all the provisions for the proposed school bond issue needed for the enlargement of a number of the county school buildings.

A mass meeting in the interest of the proposed sewerage bond issue under the auspices of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association will be held in the woman's clubhouse tonight at 8 o'clock.

Among the speakers will be County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, Hugh J. McGrath and C. I. Kephart.

The auxiliary to the Clarendon Fire Department announce a benefit card party to be held in the new firehouse tonight at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the firemen.

The Arlington County Monarch Club meets today in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse at 12 o'clock.

President A. B. Honts requests all members to attend as final plans for ladies' night, scheduled for tomorrow night, will be made.

The Arlington County Zoning Appeal Board holds its first meeting tonight at the courthouse at 8 o'clock.

The board at this time will consider a number of appeals.

Chairman J. Hammond Brewer, jr., states that the board will not consider an appeal in the case of the Sun Oil Co. to whom a permit was sometime ago granted by the board of supervisors for the establishment of an oil storage plant on the Lee Highway, above the Key Bridge, in Rosslyn.

The June meeting of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will be held tomorrow night in the new Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

The floral circle of Mary Washington Chapter, No. 50, Order of the Eastern Star, meets this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. C. Boss, Walnut street, Clarendon, with Mrs. Fred Perlee as cohostesses.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce meets tonight in the board rooms in the Rees Building at Clarendon, according to an announcement by the secretary, Mrs. Kathleen M. Clarke.

Many matters of importance will be considered, among which will be the report of George E. Garrett, vice chairman of the sewer and water committee.

The committee also will consider at this meeting a joint outing that is being proposed by the chambers of Arlington and Fairfax counties.

Admiral Kenny Estate Placed Above $70,000

Rear Admiral Albert S. Kenny, U. S. N., retired, who died May 17, left an estate valued in excess of $70,000, according to the petition for probate of his will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court by his executor, the Union Trust Co.

The admiral left the residuary estate to the Neighborhood House at 470 N street northwest.

G. O. P. Tries to Hold Its Virginia Ground

C. Bascom Slemp, former Secretary to President Coolidge (left), nominated by Virginia Republicans for Congress. Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, who seeks Democratic nomination, and John W. Flannagan, who will oppose Slemp if he accepts.

Battle Opens to Retain Three House Seats Won in 1928 Vote.

Richmond, Va., June 4 (A.P.).—Embattled Virginia Republicans, routed in the gubernatorial election of 1929, have girded themselves for a fight to retain three seats in the national House of Representatives, won in the 1928 Hoover landslide.

They are casting their eyes longingly toward a fourth seat now held by a Democrat.

The Democratic hosts, however, are seeking to send to Washington a solid Democratic delegation such as was broken up in 1928 when Virginia, for the first time since reconstruction, voted as a State for the Republican ticket.

Before launching an attack against the Republican party, the Democrats have their annual intraparty primary battle August 5.

The nomination of C. Bascom Slemp for Congress by Republicans of Virginia's "fighting Ninth" District has added interest to the campaign over and above the usual interest in the Democratic-Republican contest for control of the House.

Mr. Slemp, one-time secretary to former President Coolidge and at present Republican national committeeman for Virginia has not yet accepted the nomination which was made by a convention in his absence.

The coalition of anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans is no more, and a straight Republican ticket is offered in the four contested districts.

United States Senator Carter Glass has been nominated for reelection by the Democratic party and no opposition has been offered by the Republicans.

Chief interest in the Democratic primary is centered in the contest in the Second district (Norfolk) where three Democrats, including a woman, seek the nomination. The district is now represented by a Republican, Menaleus Lankford.

Mrs. Sarah Lee Fain, who served Norfolk in the Virginia General Assembly for several years, is campaigning for the Democratic nomination against former Congressman Joseph T. Deal and W. W. Vellines, a member of the Legislature.

Should Mr. Slemp accept the Republican nomination he will be opposed by John W. Flannagan of Bristol, a picturesque campaigner.

Democrats have until June 6 to file primary candidacies, but the senatorial primary lists have closed.

TWO TO FACE JURY ON JAILBREAK COUNT

Capital Pair's Bond Fixed at $1,000 Each by Court in Prince Georges.

BOYS FOILED ATTEMPT

Joshua Collins, colored, and John L. Tatum, both of Washington, whose attempted escape from Bladensburg Jail Tuesday was foiled by two high school students, were held for action of the grand jury yesterday by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in the Hyattsville branch of Prince Georges County Police Court. The men were charged with jailbreaking and their bond was fixed at $1,000 each.

In addition, each was fined $200 with an alternative of six months in the house of correction on charges of possession and manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

The men were arrested by County Policeman Claude Reese and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown in a raid on a still near Branchville and placed in the jail. Some time later the two high school boys heard the sounds of scraping on the jail walls and ran to tell Constable George Wiseman, the jailer, who summoned the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department to aid in thwarting the jail break.

The two prisoners had broken the lock from the cell door and had wrenched loose a piece of plumbing pipe, which they used to scrape away the wall, which is made of cement.

James Gray, of Oakland, arrested in a raid early Sunday morning by Policemen Reese and Brown, was fined $100 on charges of possession of intoxicants and $50 on charges of illegal sale of intoxicants.

James Turner, colored, of Washington, charged with transportation and possession of intoxicants, was fined $100 with an alternative of three months in the House of Correction.

Tax Rates Raised In Anne Arundel

Seven-Cent Increase in General Levy and Three in School Sum.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—An increase of 7 cents in the general tax rate for Anne Arundel County and 3 cents in school tax has been announced by the board of commissioners for the fiscal year that begins July 1. The rates are based upon an assessable basis of nearly $40,000,000, an increase of more than $900,000 compared to last year.

The road taxes remain the same as last year, except in the Seventh District, in the southern section, residents of which will enjoy a 5 cent cut. The usual rate of $1 was levied against Arundel-on-the-Bay, a summer retreat colonized mostly by Washingtonians. Herald Habor, on Severn River, where scores of National Capital residents have summer homes, was assessed at 90 cents.

HIGHER STANDARDS DOOM TINY TOWNS

Hamlets and Villages Dying Under New Era, Asserts Noted Sociologists.

BIG CENTERS GAIN TRADE

Richmond, Va., June 4 (A.P.).—Higher standards of living on American farms are given as a reason for the gradual disappearance of hamlets and small villages in this country by Dr. C. J. Galpin, agricultural sociologist of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

He said that although the farm population has decreased by 4,000,000 persons since 1920, the gross cash income from agriculture of the 27,000,000 of farm population today is the same—$10,000,000,000 a year.

"The American farmer is no longer satisfied with family consumption in the nature of a minimum of subsistence goods," said Dr. Galpin. "He demands for himself and his children parity in standards of living. His shift to a larger trade center means that he is seeking a higher grade and a wider variety and a better choice of all kinds of goods."

Dr. Galpin asserted that this trend does not mean that farmers are spending the bulk of their money in cities more than 10,000 in population. Instead, "the bulk of farmers' income is now spent, an will be for a generation, in farmers' towns with a population ranging from 1,000 to 10,000.

"The well-to-do farmer," he continued, "like the well-to-do townsman, has always made certain purchases in large cities, and this practice will continue; but the bulk of the buying by both the farmer and the townsman will be at home, where they have personal relations and many social and economic ties.

"There will be individual cases of decrease, as usual, in incorporated towns up to 10,000, and some whole counties will undoubtedly reflect in an unusual degree the unusual agrarian disturbance of the last ten years; but the unusual movement of farm population during the last ten years to these same towns and villages will compensate, it is natural to suppose, for unusual movements from the farmers' towns to larger centers."

New Winchester Pastor To Be Ordained Sunday

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 4.—The Rev. E. D. Witherspoon, formerly of Greensboro, N. C., who recently accepted a call to Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church here, will be formally ordained as a minister Sunday at Nineveh, Warren County, Va., by a commission of Winchester Presbytery. He will be pastor of the Nineveh church and also of Highland Avenue Chapel, of Winchester, and will reside here.

The Rev. Dr. F. T. McFaden is pastor of Loudoun Street Church, which fosters the work of the other two churches. Mr. Witherspoon, a native of Greensboro, is a graduate of Davidson College, North Carolina, and of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond. He is a brother of the Rev. J. W. Witherspoon, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Winchester Council Selects Police Chief

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 4.—Clayton W. Hollis was today named chief of police by unanimous vote of the city council. He will succeed the late Michael A. Doran, who held the office twenty years.

Hollis has been assistant chief in charge of the night shift for some years. His was the only name presented to the council.

ST. JOHN'S CADETS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Ritchie and Robison Speak to Annapolis School Graduates.

CAPITAL YOUTH HONORED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—St. John's College, third oldest in the country, sent forth a class of 33 at commencement ceremonies here this morning, held on the campus within the shadow of a giant tulip poplar tree, known as the liberty tree, under which the treaty with the Susquehanna Indians was negotiated.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, were the principal speakers. The governor also awarded diplomas. Most of the graduates are from points elsewhere than Maryland, the number from this State being eleven.

First honors were won by Isadore N. Grecenok, Salem, N. J., who graduated in govergment.

Among the prizes awarded was $5 in gold to Robert McCattee, junior class, of 1312 Fifteenth street northwest, Washington, star athlete.

Elkins Men Recruited To Fight Forest Fires

Elkins, W. Va., June 4 (A.P.).—Volunteers were recruited on the streets of Elkins today to fight a forest fire burning on a 3-mile front near Wildell, in Randolph County. The fire was threatening the Monongahela National Forest area after burning over 2,000 acres of timberland.

The fire was reported burning briskly today despite the all-night efforts of 125 men, directed by C. L. Perkins, supervisor of the National Forest, and L. S. Cross, of the United States Forest Service.

Pawpaw Ballot Light.

Pawpaw, W. Va., June 4 (Special).—With no opposition and a very light vote, the following municipal officials were elected yesterday: Mayor, George S. Filler (reelected); recorder, Thomas A. Kearns; councilmen, J. F. Golliday, C. A. Kifer, Joseph Kearns, J. H. Norton and Elmer Raigner.

Daily O'Currences

—By JOHN DALY—

LUELLA was all hot and bothered.

"This kind-a weather," she said, "we should dress sensibly."

There's something to that.

She looked me over, thoroughly: "You've still got your winter suit on," she remarked, "why don't you——?"

"Winter suit? Why limit it? This is the old all-year-round suit—summer, winter, spring and fall."

"You'll have heat prostration——"

"Already got it——"

"Then, why don't you take off your vest?"

* * * *

IN order to shed the vest, I had to slip out of the coat. Luella held it for me.

"My!" she exclaimed, "this coat weighs a ton—what've you got in the pockets?"

Before I could answer, she started going through them.

"Here," I shouted, "what're you doing? Don't go through those pockets."

Immediately she became suspicious, more so when I grabbed for the coat.

"Ah, ha," she said, "so that's it!"

"What's it?"

"You're hiding something from me."

* * * *

THAT was the woman of it.

"Hiding something? What've I got to hide——?"

She looked at me, undetermined like. "You men!" was all she could say. Peeved, she handed me back the coat.

"Now I ask you! Is this nice, accusing me of hiding something——?"

Her eyes filled with tears.

"I didn't mean that," she said, and to prove that my heart was in the right place I emptied my pockets, all but the inside one. The collection looked like the wreck of an old curiosity shop.

"No wonder your coat's so heavy," said Luella, assorting my keepsakes.

* * * *

"LAY off those things," I warned her, and the merry-go-round started again.

"Just as I thought," she sighed, "you're keeping something from me."

Sure enough, I was—a little token commemorating our first anniversary. 'Twas hidden in my inside pocket. So I gave it to her.

"You old peach," she smiled, giving me a big hug—and a kiss. "But just the same, you mustn't wear such heavy clothes in this weather. It's time to put on your palm beach."

And when I did, it was all full of holes—eaten by the moths.

Last Confederate Vet In Montgomery Dies

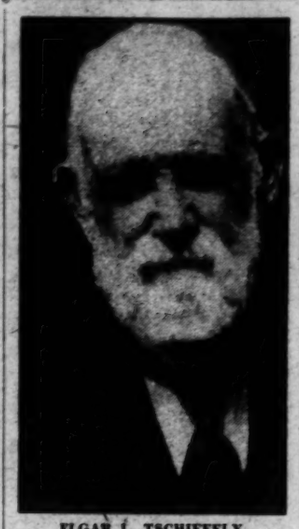
E. L. Tschiffely Was at Appomattox When Lee Surrendered.

Death yesterday morning removed the sole surviving Confederate veteran of Montgomery County in the person of Elgar L. Tschiffely, 87 years old, who succumbed at his home in Rockville, Md., following a fall in the house several days ago during convalescence from an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. Tschiffely had been widely known in southern Maryland for many years and had made his home continuously in Montgomery County, where as a young man he joined Company A, First Maryland Regiment, and participated in numerous engagements throughout the Civil War. He was with Lee at the surrender at Appomattox, and emerged from the war unscathed.

Out of 60 Montgomery County veterans of the Confederate forces, members of the Ridgely Brown camp, of Rockville, Mr. Tschiffely survived all and last year held a picturesque reunion of his own. Although not active recently, he maintained his position as a director and adjuster of the Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Sandy Spring, Md., which he assumed in 1895.

He is survived by a son, Fred Tschiffely, of Florida; two daughters, Mrs. Robert E. L. Smith and Miss Mabel Tschiffely, of Rockville; two brothers, Albert Tschiffely, of Oklahoma, and Dr. F. A. Tschiffely, of Washington; and two sisters, Miss Lou Tschiffely and Mrs. Charles Richard, of Washington.



ELGAR L. TSCHIFFELY.

1,000 Friends and Relatives of Electric Students See Exercises.

SIZOO MAKES ADDRESS

More than 1,000 relatives and friends saw diplomas awarded last night to the 247 graduates of the Bliss Electrical School, in Memorial Continental Hall.

The exercises were opened with an invocation by the Rev. J. Manley Cobb, pastor of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church of Takoma Park. Louis Denton Bliss, president of the school, made the farewell address. Mr. Bliss also presented the diplomas to the graduates, assisted by Charles F. Ferry and Eugene W. Bond, secretary of the school.

The roll of honor of the school was read by Charles F. Ferry, chairman of the theoretical department. The exercises were closed with an address by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Three Buildings Lost In Cross-Roads Blaze

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 4.—Fire of unknown origin late last night destroyed a large dwelling, store and automobile repair shop and garage at Cross Roads, west of here, along with the household effects of Dick McKee and family and several automobiles.

The property was owned by George Parish, of Winchester. The loss was placed at more than $3,000, partly covered by insurance. Mr. McKee and his family were not at home at the time.

SCHOOL OF RELIGION IN SESSION MONDAY

Methodist Church South to Give Courses in Bible at Randolph-Macon.

VARIED STUDIES OFFERED

Lynchburg, Va., June 4 (A.P.).—A faculty of religious leaders from five States will give instruction in religious education and kindred subjects at the Virginia Conference School opening at Randolph-Macon Woman's College on June 9 for six days. The Methodist Episcopal Church South sponsors the conference, which holds its twelfth annual meeting this year.

Work will begin with an assembly period at 4:30 p. m., Monday, June 9. Immediately following the assembly classes will meet for organization and lesson assignments. Two full class periods will be held Monday evening, June 9, and the closing exercises will take place at noon on Saturday, June 14.

In addition to class work, Bible lectures will be delivered before the entire student body at noon each day from Wednesday through Friday by Dr. W. A. Smart, of Emory University. Other features of the Virginia school will include talks on worship, worship programs, a twilight story-telling hour each day and an annual picnic on the college grounds Friday afternoon and evening, June 13.

Recreation Program Open.

Recreation programs will be conducted each afternoon under the direction of C. R. Warthen, director of the play and recreation department of Lynchburg public schools. In addition, swimming pool and tennis courts will be open to students.

Virginia Pastors School is sponsored by the Southern Methodist general boards of education, missions, Sunday school, Epworth League and lay activities, in cooperation with the corresponding conference boards.

A diploma is offered by the pastors school for the completion of twelve courses of study, each course being valued at one unit. Candidates for this diploma will be required to take as many as three units from each of the four divisions of the list of approved courses of study, including general courses, Bible courses, missions and social service and religious education. No student under 17 years old may take a credit.

The Virginia Pastors' School is one of a system of sixteen pastors' schools conducted at college centers throughout the denomination's territory from June to September. Other schools meeting simultaneously with the school at Randolph-Macon will be held at Montgomery, Ala.; Fayette, Mo.; Durham, N. C.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dallas, Tex., and Georgetown, Tex.

Faculty of School.

Miss Charlotte Stoakley, supervisor of public schools, Henrico County, Richmond; Dr. W. P. King, book editor, Methodist Episcopal Church South, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. Gilbert T. Rowe, professor of religious doctrine, Duke University, Durham, N. C.; Dr. G. L. Morelock, general secretary of the Methodist board of lay activities, Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. L. S. Flourney, Virginia conference mission secretary and pastor of Ginter Park Methodist Church, Richmond.

Dr. J. B. Thompson, professor of religious education, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; Dr. F. S. Love, pastor of Edenton Street Methodist Church, Raleigh, N. C.; Miss Elizabeth McE. Shields, director of the children's division, Presbyterian Church South, Richmond; Mrs. H. D Guerrant, full-time instructor of the general Sunday school board, Methodist Episcopal Church South, College Park, Ga.; Miss Barnett Spratt, general Sunday school board, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. J. Calloway Robertson, pastor of Barton Heights Methodist Church, Richmond; the Rev. J. Q. Schisler, general Sunday school board, Nashville, Tenn.

School Agent Quits In Stafford County

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 4.—Miss Eva M. Kinsey, home demonstration agent of Stafford County for the past five years, has submitted her resignation to the board of supervisors to become effective in July. She will take up similar work in Ohio. Her new field will be in Washington County, Ohio, with headquarters at Marietta and her salary will be considerably more than is paid for home demonstration work in any Virginia county.

Miss Kinsey, a native of Clifton Forge, Va., has been home demonstration agent in Stafford since 1925 with the exception of an eighteen-month leave of absence when she took a special course of study at Harrisonburg State Teachers' College.
